Now, this bill while it transfers the Highway Patrol under the State Police, does not disrupt the service in any way. The members of the Highway Patrol however, will have all the powers of the State Police, but they will be employed only for the work hereinbefore specified for the Highway Patrol.

When this Highway Patrol was created no one knew exactly where to place it, whether under the State Police or under the Department of Revenue. In the Highway Patrol there are five hundred men, and they are paid out of the Motor Fund. All you have to do is to go to the barracks of the Highway Patrol at 21st and Herr streets—they have a two hundred thousand building there with ample accommodations, and everything fine; and then you go and look at the little rented building that the State Police have in Harrisburg, where they have three-legged chairs to sit on. The difference is, the State Police are on the General Fund and the Highway Patrol gets its money from the Motor Fund; and, as we all know, the Motor Fund has too much money. The same thing happens in Greensburg, where the Highway Patrol have a barracks on the same street on which the State Police have their headquarters.

I don't know that it is necessary to say more. I hope you will all read those stories by Catherine Mayo about the Pennsylvania State Police, which have been copied many, many times. I think we are all proud of the State Police, and of Major Adams, and I hope that nobody objects to putting this Highway Patrol where it belongs—under the State Police.

I shall be very much disappointed if I am not interrogated by the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I shall not disappoint the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward. I desire to interrogate the Senator, if he will permit.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, what need there is for this legislation?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, if there were no other need, certainly, in this day of strict economy, one barracks in Harrisburg and one in Greensburg would be better than two in each place. That is one feature. And then there is an honest difference of opinion as to whether the State Highway Patrol is a part of the Police organization or is simply an adjunct of the Department of Revenue. I think it is a part of the Police organization.

On the other hand, I read in the paper the following:

"Labor leaders ask march of workers to Harrisburg." Now, if there is a mob of five thousand men at the door, I would like protection, and I can get none from the Highway Patrol—it is none of their business.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, is wrong about that. They do emergency work.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, they may not consider me an emergency.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, if he does not think that the Department of Revenue should have the help, aid and assistance of the Motor Patrol in collecting the revenues of the Motor License Funds, the gasoline tax and whatever else they receive.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, they will continue to do that.

Mr. BUCKMAN. But, Mr. President, under the control of the State Police.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, under the control of Major Adams.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, an entirely different department.

Mr. WOODWARD. Yes, Mr. President, a better one.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that is the opinion of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President, I very reluctantly oppose my good friend's bill. I am generally against amalgamations and concentrations. We all know that when this Highway Patrol was organized here, it was made a part of the Highway Department. It was felt that there was a great deal of bootlegging going on over the State, and not confined to any particular locality, and while the Highway Department wished to protect the users of the highways it was felt that the Motor Patrol could not be called upon to enforce the liquor laws of Pennsylvania; and, so far as I see, until we get adjusted, and until the States do away with the Volstead Act, I am opposed to placing this Motor Patrol under the State Police. I am in favor of its staying as it is, under the control as it now exists.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, it seems to me that the functions of the State Police and of the Highway Patrol are distinct and separate, the same as the functions of doctors and lawyers are separate and distinct. There is a reason for having a barracks for the Highway Patrol and a separate barracks for the State Police in one time just as much as there is need for a hospital as well as for a court house in the town. The function of the Highway Patrol,—they have been educated and trained along certain lines; they are different from the State Police. Therefore, I think it would be a great mistake to amalgamate the two.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. FRAZIER, from the Committee on New Counties and County Seats reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 348, entitled:

An Act permitting sheriffs in counties of the third class to collect the cost of schedules of distribution on sheriff's sales of real estate

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 348, the bill just reported, be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, over a period of a great many years there has been a great deal of argument in the House and on the floor of this Senate as to the cost to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the advertising of the various constitutional amendments, which have been proposed from time to time; and let me say that this present session of the Legislature is no exception to the rule,—a number of constitutional amendments have already been offered. I looked it up in the Calendar today, and I find there have already been presented to the Senate thirteen constitutional amendments, and in the House nineteen constitutional amendments. Of course, if any of these amendments were presented at any of the Special Sessions or at the Session of 1931, and passed by those Sessions, at that Session, it is perfectly proper to present them at this Session; but if they have not been heretofore presented, it is entirely useless, and a waste of time and money to present them now.

I hold in my hand a copy of a letter written by the Attorney General to the little Senator from Scranton, the Honorable John W. Howell, in which the Attorney General writes as follows:

"It is correct that any constitutional amendment introduced for the first time at the present Session of the Legislature cannot come before the people until 1938.

"The reason for this is that the Supreme Court interpreted Article XVIII of the Constitution to mean that the people could be called upon to vote upon constitutional amendments only at intervals of five years. The case in which this principle was decided is Armstrong v. Kind, 281 Pa. 207 (1924). Until this decision was rendered I do not believe that anybody thus interpreted Article XVIII; but we are bound by the decision. Sincerely yours, W. A. Schnader, Attorney General."

And in addition to that opinion, I have secured from the Secretary of the Commonwealth quite a good deal of detailed data with reference to constitutional amendments which have been presented over a period of years,—and I do not intend to burden the Senate by reading figures, but ask to have this information incorporated in the Legislative Journal. I do however, want to point out what has been accomplished in the last few years in the way of reduction in costs to the Commonwealth in the line of advertising constitutional amendments, and I read briefly a part of Mr. Beamish's statement:

Prior to 1932, it had been the practice of the then Secretaries of the Commonwealth, based upon a verbal opinion of a former Attorney General, to publish Amendments one time weekly for thirteen consecutive weeks prior to General Elections. The present Secretary of the Commonwealth raised the question as to the number of insertions required by the Constitution and as a result the Supreme Court recently ruled that three insertions—once a week during the three months immediately preceding General Elections a full compliance with the Constitutional provision relating to the publication of proposed Amendments.

The 1932 Amendments were published, three insertions, at a total cost of $32,925.59. Thirteen (13) insertions, on the basis of rates quoted, would have cost the Commonwealth $123,547.63. It will thus be noted that an actual saving of $90,622.04 was effected by advertising the 1932 Amendments three times instead of thirteen times, the number of insertions authorized prior to 1932."

Mr. President, in the years from 1909 to 1923 the amount of appropriation for the advertising of constitutional amendments was $1,960,000, of which $1,632,500 was actually used. The average cost of each amendment in 1933 was $6,527.34, and the actual average cost in the biennium of 1931-33 was reduced to $2,352.52 each.

I ask unanimous consent, Mr. President, to have this letter of the Attorney General and the statement of the Secretary of the Commonwealth incorporated in the Legislative Journal, in order that it may be available for the use of the General Assembly in this matter.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Department of Justice, Harrisburg, February 3, 1933.

The Attorney General.
Honorable John W. Howell,
312 Mears Building,
Scranton, Pennsylvania.
Dear Senator Howell:

It is correct that any constitutional amendment introduced for the first time at the present Session of the Legislature cannot come before the people until 1938.

The reason for this is that the Supreme Court interpreted Article XVIII of the Constitution to mean that the people could be called upon to vote upon constitutional amendments only at intervals of five years. The case in which this principle was decided is ARMSTRONG v. KING, 281 Pa. 207. (1924). Until this decision was rendered I do not believe that anybody thus interpreted Article XVIII; but we are bound by the decision.

Sincerely yours,

W. A. SCHNADER,
Attorney General.

I am attaching hereto certain information marked "Statement No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3," in connection with the publication of proposed Constitutional Amendments.

Statement No. 1 shows the cost for each amendment published from 1923 to 1933.

Statement No. 2 shows the number of Amendments proposed, the number adopted and the number defeated—1901 to 1928.

Statement No. 3 shows the total cost of advertising proposed Constitutional Amendments for the period 1909 and 1933. The Department of State will show for the biennium 1931-33, an actual saving of $127,074.41 out of an appropriation of $160,000.00. This saving is due to strict economy.

Prior to 1932, it had been the practice of the then Secretaries of the Commonwealth, based upon a verbal opinion of a former Attorney General, to publish Amendments one time weekly for thirteen consecutive weeks prior to General Elections. The present Secretary of the Commonwealth raised the question as to the number of insertions required by the Constitution, and as a result the Supreme Court recently ruled that three insertions—once a week during the three months immediately preceding General Elections—was a full compliance with the Constitutional provision relating to the publication of proposed Amendments.

The 1932 Amendments were published, three insertions, at a total cost of $32,925.59. Thirteen (13) insertions, on the basis of rates quoted, would have cost the Commonwealth $123,547.63. It will thus be noted that an actual saving of $90,622.04 was effected by advertising the 1932 Amendments three times instead of thirteen times, the number of insertions authorized prior to 1932.

RICHARD J. BEAMISH,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING APPOINTMENT OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE PRODUCTION, PREPARATION, DISTRIBUTION AND MARKETING OF MILK AND TO DRAFT AND REPORT

PROPER LEGISLATION DESIGNED TO AID THE DAIRY FARMER IN SECURING A REASONABLE PRICE FOR MILK

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, as follows:

In the Senate, February 15, 1933.

Whereas, Milk is an essential human food and should be available in ample quantity and at reasonable prices to our people, and

Whereas, There appears to be an unreasonable spread between the price paid by milk distributors to producers and the retail price paid by consumers; and

Whereas, The returns of dairy farmers at the present low wholesale prices is slowly forcing this once prosperous class into the class of dependents; and

Whereas, It is essential that producers of milk receive a just share of the retail price of milk which they produce; and

Whereas, The regulations adopted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and neighboring states with respect to the production of milk are burdensome and expensive; particularly to the small producer; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the President Pro Tempore shall appoint three Senators, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three Members of the House, who together shall constitute a joint Legislative Committee and whose duty it shall be to study and investigate, (a) the production, preparation, distribution and marketing of milk, (b) the wholesale and retail prices of milk, (c) the milk laws and regulations of this and neighboring states, and (d) whether any discriminations are practiced against milk produced in Pennsylvania, and to take the testimony of such witnesses as may be deemed necessary to ascertain the full facts which will enable the committee to draft and report proper legislation designed to aid the dairy farmer in securing a reasonable price for milk produced;

Resolved, That said Committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the Committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the Committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said Committee, or to produce any books, papers, records and documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

RESOLUTION No. 20

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 20, Printer's No. 42.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 1, 1933.

Whereas, The cause of economy and retrenchment of public expenditures needs constructive leadership; therefore be it Resolved, That the Members of the House of Representatives by their vote upon this resolution, signify their willingness voluntarily to accept a reduction of three hundred dollars ($300) in their salaries for the pending session; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House be requested by letter to appeal to all public officers in this Commonwealth, whether of the State or local governments, whose salaries are fixed by statute or otherwise, requesting and urging them voluntarily to accept a reduction in the respective salaries for the term for which they have been elected and which they are now serving in order that by this voluntary sacrifice they may aid in financing State and local governments. Such suggested reduction to be as follows:

Salaries of $20,000 a year, or more.....	20%
Salaries of $10,000 to $20,000	15%
Salaries of $ 5,000 to $10,000	12%
Salaries of $ 2,000 to $ 5,000	10%

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House request public officers to reply within fifteen days and that a tabulation of the replies received be submitted to the House of Representatives for their information.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to urge the passage of this resolution tonight—not tomorrow—not next week—not next month—but tonight.

There are, Mr. Speaker, legislative tasks which are time-consuming—issues which call for prudent delay. But as for House Resolution No. 20, we can say—this thing we can do now.

The resolution has to do with a voluntary reduction in salaries upon a State-wide basis. I hold in my hand a newspaper clipping which says the "Republican State Chairman Urges Cut in Government Salaries." I urge as he urges, but I urge reduction now. The taxpayers are only remotely interested in reducing the salary of the Governor in 1935. The people want that reduction now. It is of no immediate moment that the salaries of the State Treasurer, the Auditor General, of the urbane gypsy judges who come and go—fitting here and there in the interests of justice—be reduced in the sweet bye and bye. The people call for reduction now. It is not sufficient that the salaries of county officers now in office be scaled at the end of their terms. Now is the accepted time—now is the period of strife and stress. The taxpayer asks the salaried class to help ease the burden now.

I note by another newspaper clipping that the Democratic State Chairman says that Democratic legislators will try to effect a reduction in the budget of twenty-five per cent. Is it possible the Democratic State Chairman does not intend to lead his forces within the zone of sacrifice. I know and you know that the members of this body are not over-paid. There may be members in this House who would be cheap at a million just as there are members who might be dear at a cent. But man for man we are not overpaid. There are members—I could name them—and so could you—who are underpaid. And that is well. This is no place for the man whose sole desire is to earn a salary. This House presents no alluring emoluments—except the opportunity for service. And these are the days, Mr. Speaker, when those who would serve must sacrifice.

We all know that reductions in salaries paid to men now in office as the result of an election must be voluntary. We cannot legislate decreases now. But in keeping with the times we can waive our immunity and accept for ourselves a salary reduction that compares rateably with the reductions imposed upon teachers, the firemen, the policemen, the clerks and the janitors who have places upon the public payroll. Mr. Speaker, I am not the guardian of my neighbor's conscience. The members of this House must choose their course, but as for myself I am not willing to shove any other man into the Economy Stream—unless I am also willing to try and swim in that same stream—and there are many other members of this House of like mind.

House Resolution No. 20 is not mandatory in its provisions. Members who vote for it simply express a willingness to accept a ten per cent. cut in their salary. It will be for those who vote to accept the cut to stipulate by means of subsequent resolution the manner and method in which the refund will be made, and to what fund.

Having taken our stand, having swallowed the medicine, we are preparing for our successors, medicine the public needs now, we are prepared to address the officeholders of the State as a class. There is no impropriety in so doing. The men we address are our creatures. We are the sovereign body who created them. Within our hands rests the power to abolish them. Surely there is no reason why we should be afraid in this hour of emergency to ask them—as an emergency measure—to accept a salary reduction and accept it now.

The cause of the taxpayer needs leadership. The Union-town Daily News Standard in its editorial columns informs me that two of Fayette's commissioners have just voluntarily accepted a ten per cent. reduction in salary and will remit the decrease to the county treasurer. Is it not likely Mr.

Speaker, that if this House would so suggest other officeholders in other counties would take similar action. We cannot compel. All we can do is to give public sentiment an opportunity to become operative. By this resolution the House does not command. It requests and pauses to wait for an answer.

This resolution should be unanimously adopted. I am conscious that self interest, indisposition to act, fear of offending the office holding class will seek delay. But I say to my hesitating friends that from the standpoint of service, from the standpoint of political expediency, from the standpoint of constructive leadership this is the hour and tonight is the night. Would we re-establish the confidence of the public in this body. Then pass this resolution. Would we perform an act symbolic of our intentions. Then pass this resolution.

It is literally true that while we debate this proposition in this House, the very foundations of society are crumbling. The sacrifice we are asked to make is a matter of little concern compared with the sacrifices made by the millions of Pennsylvania people in whose interests we are assembled here.

And so, Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of this resolution and ask for a ye and nay vote and crave permission of the Chair to also ask a ye and nay vote upon any subsidiary motion that may arise in connection with the resolution now pending.

RESOLUTION COMMITTED

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I agree in part with the expressions of sentiment as made by my friend, the gentleman from Cambria. However, this resolution expresses in the matter of percentages his own opinion as to what the reduction should be. We have now under consideration in several committees of this House the matter of the reduction of salaries, and I have no doubt but before we adjourn the session of this General Assembly there will be a reduction of salaries all along the line. It seems to me, however, that our action upon this particular resolution should not be precipitous. We should reflect, and the proper place to reflect is in the hands of a proper committee. I can assure my good friend from Cambria that if this matter is referred to a Committee it will receive the consideration that it merits, but we should not proceed with haste in such a matter. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that Resolution No. 20, Printer's No. 42, be referred to the Committee on State Government.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, only an hour ago the Democratic Caucus had this resolution under consideration. There is no desire on the part of our caucus to avoid this question of reduction in salaries, but we feel that this resolution is nothing more than a gesture; that it is more of a grand-stand play than anything else, and that it does not provide what shall become of this money. We are asked to state that we will take a reduction of ten per cent. without stating where that money shall go, or what shall be done with it. In other words, it seems that this resolution is incomplete, and that it was not well thought out; that it was not brought out to its final determination. We, therefore, decided to support in its stead House Bill No. 163, which provides for very definite cuts, graded cuts from two thousand dollars on up. I happen to be a member of a sub-committee that now has under study and under consideration cuts all along the line. and we feel that these important measures which are now in committee and which cover the entire field, provide mandatory cuts in these cases. The people of Pennsylvania are looking for mandatory action, something that has a meaning to it, more than a mere gesture.

Now, I might say to you that down in Berks County we have had experience with this same line of voluntary refund. During the last summer our County Commissioners passed resolutions asking all the county employes to make a refund of something like eight and one-third per cent. This is what happened, half of them, those who were afraid of their jobs paid their refund back into a fund. The other half, those who were not afraid of their jobs, did not pay back, and it happened in most instances that the fellow who got the higher salary and was not afraid of his job did not pay back the refund, but the poor fellow who gets one hundred and twenty-five dollars or one hundred and thirty-five dollars or one hundred and forty dollars a month is the fellow who is generally afraid of his job, the little underling, and he paid back. What happened was this, that it was paid into a fund, and at the end of the year it was all paid back to them again, because the other half refused to go along. This year the salary board took definite action and reduced the salaries by eight and one-third per cent., making it compulsory upon all those whose salaries were not fixed by law. I feel, as the gentleman has said, that this is the hour and this is the day, and the people are looking for a reduction and we are willing to give it to them, but at least let us have something that is sound, that has a meaning to it. I deplore these gestures and I deplore these grandstand plays on the floor of the House here, and I ask you to vote "no" on this resolution in accordance with the action of the Democratic Caucus. I ask you to vote for the motion of the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARIG. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman, when are his mandatory reductions in salaries effective; in 1935?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I would say that just as soon as they can legally be made effective.

Mr. ANDREWS. Does the gentleman from Berks recognize the fact that the only way salaries of elective officers can be reduced now is by voluntary consent?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I recognize that fact.

Mr. ANDREWS. Is the gentleman, the leader of the Democratic minority in this House, desirous of going on record that the Democratic minority is not willing to accede at this time to a ten per cent. reduction in salaries of the legislative members?

Mr. SARIG. Yes, surely; that was the action of our caucus. We are in favor of action, but we are not in favor of gestures.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, apparently there is a great disposition on the part of the membership represented by the gentleman from Berks to get action backward.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUTTON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Franklin be willing to recast Resolution No. 20 down to line 6, present it to the House for its consideration and refer the rest of the resolution to the Committee on State Government?

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Cambria, I again reiterate that this subject should be carefully considered in the committee to which it is to be referred, and it will be given just consideration, as we have been toiling for days and days over matters of like import.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not answer my question. Perhaps I did not make myself clear in stating my proposition. I asked specifically whether he would be willing on the part of the Committee on Rules, or himself as an individual, to recast House Resolution No. 20, down to line 6, in such form as may be expedient and fitting for the consideration to the House and introduce it at an early date?

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Cambria, I want to reiterate that any resolution of this nature, pertaining to the reduction of salaries in any shape or form applying to State officers or to any county officers, should be referred to a committee and be gone over by the committee and very carefully considered before action is taken, and I would not assume of myself to state what should be done, but I would desire to hear all of the sentiment that might be expressed in the committee before a conclusion was reached thereon.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I oppose the motion to refer, and I ask for an aye and nay vote on the motion to refer.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Andrews and Mr. Wade and were as follows:

RESOLUTION

REQUESTING GOVERNOR TO TAKE ACTION AGAINST POOR BOARDS

Mr. McELWEE offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 20th, 1933.

Whereas, In his message to the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, delivered in person on February 14, 1933, His Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, made several statements reflecting on the honesty and integrity of the Poor Boards of this Commonwealth, among which were the following:

"Instances have come to light of the purchase of whiskey, flowers and cigars for members of Poor Boards out of money set aside to relieve human distress."

and the following:

"There are unquestionably some good Poor Boards."

and,

Whereas, The above statements specifically charge highly reprehensible offences in some instances known to His Excellency, the Governor, and imply that the "good Poor Boards" are few, and

Whereas These are serious charges and each individual Poor Board is left under a cloud of possible suspicion by the above statements, at a time when confidence in the integrity of public officials should be maintained at as high a point as possible, and

Whereas Flippant and unwarranted accusations of such a serious nature, founded on nothing more than idle rumor or the word of the all too common scandal monger, are not to be attributed to the holder of so high an office as Governor of this Commonwealth, at any time, and especially not in a formal address to a joint session of the two branches of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, and therefore are accepted by this House as well founded accusations.

Now, Therefore, Be it resolved that it is the sense of this House that His Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, being its chief and honored executive officer, should direct the State Police of this Commonwealth to make the proper complaints against the members of the Poor Boards as to which he, the Governor, has knowledge that they have purchased whiskey, flowers or cigars for themselves out of money set aside to relieve human distress, and to prosecute them to conviction, if possible, using, if necessary, the services of the Department of Justice of this Commonwealth to bring about this result,

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the Governor, by the Chief Clerk of this House.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Committee on Municipal Corporations be discharged of further consideration of House Bill No. 363, entitled:

An Act reducing the salaries of all officers and employes of the State and of counties, cities, boroughs, towns, townships, school districts and poor districts.

and that said bill be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the action of the Committee.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it has been my contention that the cost of government has been out of all proportion to the earnings of the taxpayers. It is the wish of the taxpayers' organization all over the State that the cost of government be lowered. I think that nothing could lower the cost of government more than a reduction in the salaries. I ask that the members of this House remember their campaign pledges as candidates during the last campaign, and give this bill their favorable action. This bill calls for a reduction of all salaries over two thousand dollars, from fifteen per cent. up as high as fifty per cent. on higher salaries.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown, that the merits of the bill cannot be discussed. Therefore the gentleman will confine himself to the motion.

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, the bill was introduced on January 17th. It has therefore been in committee thirty days. I hate to go to all of this trouble to bring it before this House, but it seems my bills always repose in committee, and I have taken the only method available.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing in the motion to show the bill has been in committee ten days.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion, and has before him the House History, which shows that the bill has been in the Committee on Municipal Affairs more than ten days.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Did the gentleman from Washington number himself among those who voted in favor of delay in considering the matter of the reduction of legislative salaries.

Mr. BROWN. Does the gentlemen mean his resolution?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, that is the resolution to which I refer.

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I voted against it.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I am not at all interested in this bill; I am not on this committee, but it does seem to me that we have had enough of these motions which attempt to decide matters on the floor of the House without a proper investigation. Mr. Turner very ably told this House last week of the committees that were making a laborious investigation of these questions of the reduction of salaries and the cost of government, State, County and City. It does seem to me that we should not be asked at this time, at the beginning of a session, to discharge a committee on a bill like this, when there are different committees that are laboriously investigating this question. Last Monday night Mr. Sterling with his committee was here in this building working until three or four o'clock in the morning. On Tuesday night when I left here at two o'clock in the morning, I looked into an office where there was a committee meeting, and they were still taking testimony, and that went on all through the week, or to the middle of it, in trying to get ready for this Legislature the valuable information that they are preparing in order that we may intelligently vote on these subjects.

Mr. Turner is the Chairman of the Sub Committee of the Committee on State Government and they are giving day after day and night after night to an investigation of these questions and I think it is almost an impertinence for a member of this House to get on this floor and ask the members to discharge a committee while these investigations are going on, and while they are trying to get for you the information and data and facts that you require. Every member of this House has heard this before. I am not on this committee and I am not interested in this matter. I won't vote at this time or at any other time, unless someone gives me a very valid reason for doing so, to go over the head of a committee chairman and take a bill away from his committee. In this instance there is every reason for not taking this bill away at this time. Certainly we should get to the end of the investigations before any member of this House gets on this floor and attempts to decide these important questions requiring investigation, requiring time, requiring the calling of the heads of the departments of the State Government and the members of the cabinet, before the committees. You will then have all of this information and have it in detailed form. When it comes before you will be plenty of time to make the reductions you think should be made. I ask the members of the House at this time to vote this motion down.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to read rule number 40 of the House. "When any bill or resolution has been ten days in the hands of committee after having been referred to it any committee may be discharged from any further consideration of the bill on resolution by majority vote of all of the members elect."

Mr. QUINN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we are in a cross-word puzzle and a jig-saw puzzle period apparently on this question of salary and relief. We hear lots about refunding salaries and contributions, but personally I fear much of it goes to the widow of the unknown soldier.

The idea of bringing this bill before the House and in asking for the discharge of this committee is to present something definite, something in a comprehensive plan. Get away from the jig-saw thing. Here is a bill that the author requests you to consider now, since we have had so much talk about reduction of salaries, a definite, positive bill, not only on the reduction of salaries of the members of the House of Representatives but all down the line; a proposition with the Democratic and Republican parties are both pledged to. I think now and here, as the distinguished and eloquent member from Cambria County so delightfully told you, is the time that it should be acted on. Mr. Brown suggests to you the vehicle by which you may express easily your opinion on this important question. I request that you co-operate with him in bringing out a practicable, tangible plan for reduction in salaries as provided in House Bill No. 363.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I hesitate to arise and in any manner say anything that might criticize my friends for their diligence in bringing these matters before the people of Pennsylvania and before this House. I have had a great deal of regard, in the short time in which I have known him, for Mr. Brown. I know he is in earnest yet I cannot help say to him before my fellow members, that we all recognize that a new broom sweeps clean, and that perhaps we might attribute to him, although perhaps his hair and years do not carry it out, that youth is always impatient and in haste.

I do not know that I can add very much to what the gentleman from McKean has said with reference to this matter, except to point out this, that this bill carries in it certain provisions for a reduction of State salaries as well as county, city, borough and township salaries, and it says, "those receiving an annual salary of two thousand dollars and more than two thousand five hundred dollars, fifteen per cent.; those receiving an annual salary of more than two thousand five hundred dollars and not more than three thousand dollars, twenty per cent.," and so on up the line.

As the gentleman from McKean has said to you, the subcommittee of the Committee on State Government has been working from the very beginning of this session, at least from the time when these committees were appointed, and it has given a great deal of thought and consideration to the salary reductions in all of the State Government. I believe when we present the bills to you there will be real economies provided for in those bills, but if you should now call up for consideration this act, many of these schedules are not in line with the investigations that we have made and the knowledge we have of State Government and the needs and requirements thereof. Many of these schedules would be out of line with those in the bill, and instead of having something upon which we could work intelligently in this House, we would have confusion and chaos on this question. The same question was raised by the gentleman from Franklin earlier in the evening, when he raised the question with reference to the motion of the gentleman from Cambria. We cannot have a lot of motions and bills going before the House with a lot of different schedules for salary reduction if we are to work this out intelligently, as I feel you gentlemen want to work it out. So I ask you to vote down this question.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the motion?

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 15, 1933.

Whereas, Milk is an essential human food and should be available in ample quantity and at reasonable prices to our people; and

Whereas, There appears to be an unreasonable spread between the price paid by milk distributors to producers and the retail price paid by consumers; and

Whereas, The returns to dairy farmers at the present low wholesale prices is slowly forcing this once prosperous class into the class of dependents; and

Whereas, It is essential that producers of milk receive a just share of the retail price of milk which they produce; and

Whereas, The regulations adopted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and neighboring states with respect to the production of milk are burdensome and expensive, particularly to the small producer; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate shall appoint three Senators, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three Members of the House, who, together shall constitute a joint legislative committee and whose duty it shall be to study and investigate, (a) the production, preparation, distribution and marketing of milk, (b) the wholesale and retail prices of milk, (c) the milk laws and regulations of this and neighboring states, and (d) whether any discriminations are practiced against milk produced in Pennsylvania, and to take the testimony of such witnesses as may be deemed necessary to ascertain the full facts which will enable the committee to draft and report proper legislation designed to aid the dairy farmer in securing a reasonable price for milk produced;

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said committee, or to produce any books, papers, records and documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MARSHALL LYNCH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MARSHALL LYNCH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call attention to an error on page 445 of the Legislative Journal, where House Bill No. 687 is recorded as being introduced by Mr. Marshall. It should be Marshall Lynch.

The SPEAKER. The remarks by the gentleman under the question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, on February 7th, on page 486 of the Legislative Journal, I am recorded as not having voted on House Bill No. 236. I was in my chair and voted "aye" on that bill, and desire to be recorded.

Also Mr. Speaker, in the Legislative Journal of February 8th on page 526, I am recorded as not having voted on House Bill No. 298 and House Bill No. 374. I was in my chair and voted "aye" on both of these bills and desire to be so recorded.

The SPEAKER. The remarks by the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

The SPEAKER. The communication will be noted in the Journal and is referred to the Committee on Aeronautics.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, February 13, 1933.

Whereas, Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, relative to national defense was adopted by the Senate on January 16, 1933, and concurred in by the House of Representatives on the same date, and

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor, disapproved said resolution under date of January 24th, 1933, by the following message:

January 24, 1933.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Resolution of January 11, 1933.

This resolution memorializes the Congress of the United States to refrain from taking immediate action for the purpose of economy or for any other purpose which will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several states thereof.

It is no more appropriate for the Legislature of Pennsylvania to take action upon questions which are distinctively Federal than it would be for the Congress of the United States to attempt to advise the Legislature of Pennsylvania what measures it should pass and what measures it should reject.

For this reason the resolution is not approved.

and

Whereas, The technical position taken by the Governor is difficult to understand in view of the signing by him, during his prior administration of a number of resolutions memorializing Congress and other Federal agencies to do or refrain from doing things entirely under Federal supervision and control; and

Whereas, The Senate resolution is of such nature as has been held by the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth and by prior Attorney Generals, not to require executive approval; and

Whereas, The resolution in question was prepared by, and introduced at the request of, the combined legislative committees of the following organizations:

Grand Army of the Republic.
United Spanish War Veterans.
Disabled American Veterans of the World War.
Veterans of Foreign Wars.
American Legion;

and

Whereas, It is suggested that the members of such organizations are perhaps best qualified to realize the horrors of war and of the national dangers and suffering attendant upon being, because of unpreparedness, thrust unprepared into war; and

Whereas, The said resolution has not been forwarded as directed, because of the unfavorable action of the Governor, to the Congress of the United States and the members from Pennsylvania therein; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Senate is hereby directed to forward to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein, a copy, properly attested by the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, and without the message of His Excellency, the Governor withholding his approval thereto, of Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, which reads as follows:

Whereas, The present Congress of the United States is considering under the guise of economy, the radical cutting of appropriations for the support of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States and of the National Guard of the several States; and

Whereas, The Army is at present pitifully insufficient for the defense of our mainland without regard for our insular possessions; and

Whereas, The Navy is far below the standard decided upon as necessary for the safety of the United States and agreed to by the Powers in a far less unsettled time; and

Whereas, The Marine Corps although small has proven for more than a century the most mobile and effective police force in any National or international emergency this nation has ever had; and

Whereas, Through Federal aid and supervision the National Guard has risen to a point of efficiency heretofore unknown; and

Whereas, No reasoning person can believe in pacific safety in the face of existing facts. Every peace pact, treaty, or league of Nation action has proven and is at present proving futile and useless to turn any Nation from a policy of aggrandisement; and

Whereas, Events within the last twenty years have proven the futility of preserving the neutrality of the United States in the event of a major conflict; and

Whereas, The existing National and international debts are the result of past unpreparedness, and the existing brawl over the collection thereof, the result of present unpreparedness; and

Whereas, The voice of the United States in the interests of universal peace is respected only in proportion to its existing and active power; and

Whereas, The effects of the present economic chaos on the governments of the world have conclusively proven that only strong, well sustained governments can survive; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the 1933 Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the present Congress of the United States to refrain from taking any action for the purpose of economy or other purpose that will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several States thereof; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

MESSAGE LAID ON TABLE

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the message of the Senate be laid upon the table for the present.

The motion was agreed to.

REQUESTING GOVERNOR TO FURNISH INFORMATION ON COMMUNITY MARKET PLAN

Mr. COHEN offered a resolution which was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 20, 1933.

Whereas, In his message to the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor, on Tuesday, February 14, 1933, His Excellency stated on page twelve thereof "It is clear therefore that we cannot continue giving relief on the relatively costly food order basis and we must have the State go to the Community Market Plan which is far more economical," and

Whereas, In the above message His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, failed to substantiate his position by the citation of the cost of commissaries now in operation, and

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor, failed to compare or cite the cost of the food order basis with the Community Market Plan,

Therefore Be It Resolved, That His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be requested to immediately forward to the House of Representatives for its information, all figures, data, computations, statistics and information utilized by him in arriving at his conclusions, which information is to be referred by the House of Representatives to its Committee on Unemployment Relief.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the immediate consideration of the resolution? Is there objection?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, under the policy of the Rules Committee by which we agreed that all resolutions of every kind, unless merely formal resolutions, lie over for printing, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection, and consent is not granted.

The resolution lives over under the rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, February 13, 1933.

Whereas, Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, relative to national defense was adopted by the Senate on January 16, 1933, and concurred in by the House of Representatives on the same date, and

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor, disapproved said resolution under date of January 24th, 1933, by the following message:

January 24, 1933.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Resolution of January 11, 1933.

This resolution memorializes the Congress of the United States to refrain from taking immediate action for the purpose of economy or for any other purpose which will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several states thereof.

It is no more appropriate for the Legislature of Pennsylvania to take action upon questions which are distinctively Federal than it would be for the Congress of the United States to attempt to advise the Legislature of Pennsylvania what measures it should pass and what measures it should reject.

For this reason the resolution is not approved.

and

Whereas, The technical position taken by the Governor is difficult to understand in view of the signing by him, during his prior administration of a number of resolutions memorializing Congress and other Federal agencies to do or refrain from doing things entirely under Federal supervision and control; and

Whereas, The Senate resolution is of such nature as has been held by the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth and by prior Attorney Generals, not to require executive approval; and

Whereas, The resolution in question was prepared by, and introduced at the request of the combined legislative committees of the following organizations:

Grand Army of the Republic,
United Spanish War Veterans.
Disabled American Veterans of the World War.
Veterans of Foreign Wars,
American Legion:

and

Whereas, The said resolution has not been forwarded as directed, because of the unfavorable action of the Governor, to the Congress of the United States and the members from Pennsylvania therein; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Senate is hereby directed to forward to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein, a copy, properly attested by the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, and without the message of His Excellency, the Governor withholding his approval thereto of Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, which reads as follows:

Whereas, The present Congress of the United States is considering under the guise of economy, the radical cutting of appropriations for the support of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps of the United States and of the National Guard of the several States; and

Whereas, The Army is at present pitifully insufficient for the defense of our mainland without regard for our insular possessions; and

Whereas, The Navy is far below the standard decided upon as necessary for the safety of the United States and agreed to by the Powers in a far less unsettled time; and

Whereas, The Marine Corps although small has proven for more than a century the most mobile and effective police force in any National or international emergency this Nation has ever had; and

Whereas, Through Federal aid and supervision the National Guard has risen to a point of efficiency heretofore unknown; and

Whereas, No reasoning person can believe in pacific safety in the face of existing facts. Every peace pact, treaty, or league of Nation action has proven and is at present proving futile and useless to turn any Nation from a policy of aggrandisement; and

Whereas, Events within the last twenty years have proven the futility of preserving the neutrality of the United States in the event of a major conflict; and

Whereas, The existing National and international debts are the result of past unpreparedness, and the existing brawl over the collection thereof, the result of present unpreparedness; and

Whereas, The voice of the United States in the interests of universal peace is respected only in proportion to its existing and active power; and

Whereas, The effects of the present economic chaos on the governments of the world have conclusively proven that only strong, well sustained governments can survive; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the 1933 Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the present Congress of the United States to refrain from taking any action for the purpose of economy or other purpose that will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several States thereof; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HOOPES. Is there any way by which the House can require this resolution to be printed and placed upon the desks of the members before it is considered?

The SPEAKER. It is the opinion of the Chair that it is within the province of this body to have this resolution printed if a majority so decides.

MOTION TO PRINT RESOLUTION

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be printed and placed on the desks of the members before it is further considered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, the matter involved in this motion is one of great importance to the members of this House. It is a question of whether we are going to have a chance to carefully consider and know what we are voting on.

We are asked to vote upon a resolution of great length which contains language which is strong in the extreme without having it before us, and I think we should establish a precedent once and for all time that the members of this House want to know what they are voting upon and insist upon having this resolution in print before them before they vote upon it one way or the other. I therefore ask you to vote for this motion.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Berks if he does not understand the purpose of this resolution.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I understand the purpose of this resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Does the gentleman from Berks understand that the purpose of this resolution is to memorialize Congress to support the National defense and not to cut it?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I understand that is one of the purposes of this resolution, but incidentally it contains very inflammatory language which is not at all necessary in such a resolution, and I think that the members of this House are entitled to have it before them before they vote upon it, so that they will know definitely what they are voting upon.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the gentleman from Berks objects to inflammatory language?

Mr. HOOPES. I do.

Mr. TURNER. I think those of us who have sat here and listened to the speeches and resolutions of the gentleman from Berks in the past realize that this is like a summer's zephyr along side of a cyclone, in the things which the gentleman has said and introduced in the past. It seems to me that the resolution is very clear. It does contain a number of different subjects, that is true, because it is a recital of a former resolution that was introduced. The purpose of this resolution is to ask the Federal Congress not to cut the appropriation to the National defense and to the armed forces. I do not believe that anyone is more in favor of economy than I am. I think we all realize the situation with which this Federal Government of ours is faced. The motion of the gentleman from Berks in asking that this resolution be printed is certainly not in favor of economy, because there will be a cost entailed that seems to me unnecessary in view of the question involved. The language here is not inflammatory, the language is direct. It merely recites the organizations that have endorsed and the organizations that have submitted this resolution. Certainly the American Legion, certainly the Disabled Veterans, certainly the men of the G. A. R. and the Spanish American War Veterans are not accustomed to introduce resolutions with inflammatory language in them, especially one talking in terms of national defense. Therefore, it would seem to me that it would be placing upon the Commonwealth a useless expense at the present time to print the resolution, which I am sure we all clearly understand, and I ask you to vote the motion down.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, it is almost funny to hear the gentleman from Delaware say that he is in favor of economy and wants to save the money that it would cost to print the resolution. A very, very small item indeed, compared with the millions that might be saved in economies in our national expenditures for armaments.

I feel that the question is of sufficient importance to the members of this House to sleep on the subject to have this resolution printed and placed on our desks, so that we can have the wording distinctly before us. The gentleman from Delaware says there isn't any inflammatory language in it. Among other things it says, "No reasoning person can believe in pacific safety in the face of existing facts." Well, perhaps I am not a reasoning person, but I am convinced there is more safety in pacific methods than there is in arming to the teeth and challenging everybody else in the world to go and do likewise. I therefore ask again that we be given a chance to give this important resolution the consideration that it deserves by having it lie over for printing, and having it printed before we vote upon it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Berks seems to be reading from a paper. May I ask if he has a copy of the resolution before him.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I have a copy of the resolution which was given to me within the last five minutes, and I have not had a chance to read it through in that time, and I do not think that the majority of the members of this House could have read it through in that time.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Berks whether he was present in the House when a similar resolution was passed by this House?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I was present when it was passed in such noise and disorder that those in the back did not know what was going on.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, may I call the attention of the gentleman from Berks and the members of the House to the fact that on page 79—

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Delaware still interrogating the gentleman from Berks?

Mr. TURNER. I have not decided whether I have stopped or not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOOPES. Don't stop.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I am through with the interrogation of the gentleman from Berks.

On Monday, February 13th the History of Senate Bills was placed on the desk of every member, page 79—

Mr. HOOPES. The History of the Senate Bills is not on the desk of every member of the House.

Mr. TURNER. Do you have a History?

Mr. HOOPES. I have a History of the House Bills.

Mr. TURNER. Do you have a Senate History?

Mr. HOOPES. I do not think so. I have not.

The SPEAKER. The History of Senate Bills the Chair desires to announce, is not on the desk of the members of the House.

Mr. TURNER. On page 79 appears the original resolution, Serial No. 104, introduced by Senator Pethick.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, if that is an interrogation, I would like to state that the resolution here before us this evening contains a whole lot more than was in the original resolution.

Mr. TURNER. The purpose of the original resolution, Mr. Speaker,—and I do not know that I have yielded the floor to the gentleman from Berks—

Mr. HOOPES. You said you were interrogating me, and I thought I had a right to answer the question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware has the floor. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the resolution which is before you, is for this purpose: the introduction and passage in this House, and submission to the Federal Congress of the resolution that appears on page 79 of the Senate History of February 13th, Serial No. 104, and which appears in the Legislative Journal on page 153. The same resolution is repeated in the resolution which is now before the House.

I do not desire, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, to prolong this debate, because I realize again that it costs money on the pages of the Journal, but the gentleman from Berks has mentioned the question of economy, and I feel that I should answer him. The gentleman from Berks has studied the history of his country. He knows that the lack of preparedness on the part of his country has cost many many times what preparedness would have cost us.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks will state his point of order.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I object to the gentleman from Delaware stating what the member from Berks knows.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will confine his remarks to the subject matter before the House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I am confining my remarks to the subject matter before the House, because the gentleman from Berks raised the question, and I am answering that question which he has raised. Therefore, I take it that the gentleman from Berks is at least unsportsmanlike in his refusal to permit me to answer a question that he has raised.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I did not raise the point of order that he was not discussing the motion before the House. I did not raise that point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware is unable to proceed until he understands what the gentleman from Berks is objecting to.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, in the interest of saving the time of the House and possibly to satisfy the purpose of the gentleman from Berks, may I suggest that the resolution be again read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. There is a motion before the House.

The gentleman from Delaware has the floor.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask what is the objection of the gentleman from Berks? The gentleman from Delaware is at a loss to understand what the gentleman from Berks said, because he did not hear him.

I return to what I have said before, that it has cost many times more this Nation of ours in the wars we have had because of our unpreparedness than it would have cost had we been prepared. Everyone who has studied our history would know that that is the situation. I do not want to prolong this debate, but it is an important question to us, and it is an important question in the condition of this country, and I hope the members of the House will vote down the motion of the gentleman from Berks.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11.00 o'clock.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, there has been no second to the motion of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, the motion to adjourn does not require a second under the rules of the House, having particular reference to rule 48.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion of the gentleman from Berks?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, you have just voted very emphatically that you do not want to adjourn, so I hope you are willing to listen to a speech against this Resolution. I had hoped that you would let it go over until tomorrow when we could have discussed it in daylight, but, since you insist on considering it at this hour, which is perhaps better, I ask the privilege of opposing it.

Since this Resolution was first introduced I have received numerous communications opposing it, and giving reasons for it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia has raised probably the crux of this question when he said that the safety of the nation, that the history of the nation showed that it was absolutely necessary to have large armaments in order to protect us. I wish to challenge that point without qualification.

I do not believe that arming to the teeth is the best way to stop blood-shed, to stop war, and to make this world safe for peace. Mr. Speaker, I wish to challenge definitely the proposition that the only way to prepare for peace is to arm the nation to the teeth. That was the method followed by every nation in Europe prior to the World War, and the result was four years of unlimited slaughter and the death of some ten millions of men, and unlimited suffering which has afflicted the world ever since that time.

I think most of us will agree that the problem of war debts, the problem of unemployment, and many other problems which we have before us to-day, are at least caused in part by the World War and its aftermath, and I say it is time for an intelligent legislative body, such as the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, to seriously consider whether or not after all war is the best method of settling international disputes.

I know that my friends on the other side will say "we are not advocating war"; they will say they are advocating armaments for the purpose of preventing war. That has been the argument of militarists since the dawn of history, and no doubt it will continue to be their argument so long as history goes on.

I contend that it is just as dangerous for a nation to arm itself to the teeth as it is for individuals to go around with a couple of revolvers in their pockets.

We, in the United States, have found that it is desirable to restrict the carrying of deadly weapons. We have had upon our statute books in this State for many years a law forbidding the carrying of concealed deadly weapons. At the last regular session of the General Assembly in 1931 we passed a fire arms act which went a good deal further in restricting the right of the individual to go around armed. We have learned from a long and sad experience that if hot-headed individuals have weapons on them and they get into an argument, they are apt to use those weapons and by using them the result is apt to be fatal to somebody or other, and we have found it wise to restrict the carrying of deadly weapons in the interest of public safety.

I contend that that same argument applies to the armed and naval forces of a nation; if a nation is armed to the teeth, if they have what they consider an invincible army, if they have what they consider an unconquerable navy, and if they have an air fleet unsurpassed by any other nation in the world, they are not going to stop and consider very long when some other nation transgresses on what they think is just and right, or what they want. They are immediately going to say "Let us fight it out" and they resort to a policy of arms and demand that the other side yield or they will shoot them down. We have seen it happen many times.

Possibly the best example of that is the case of Germany at the beginning of the World War. She was prepared for war by the very method this resolution advocates and the very first chance she got to start a war, she took it. To be sure she said she was doing it in the interest of peace and in self-defense, and all the other fallacious arguments that militarists always use in such cases to excuse their actions.

When we went out to oppose Germany we said we were going out to fight a war to end war, and here we are, fifteen years after that war with an Army and a Navy several times as big as it was at the beginning of that war. Here we are in times of great national distress but under no circumstances should we limit our expenditures for armaments for the Army and Navy—we should go on building up these methods, these weapons until—I don't know what the limit is.

Perhaps I can illustrate the point by reading an editorial from the Philadelphia Record published last Friday, entitled "The Sky's the Limit:"

If the big navy men of the three great naval Powers are to be believed, each of these countries is in dire peril for lack of an adequate navy.

Beaverbrook's jingo Conservative press in England has opened a campaign to warn the British public that their navy must be enlarged to match America's "huge" fleet.

In Tokio the Diet is warned that Japan must speed up naval construction because the United States is spending three times as much on its navy as the island kingdom.

And at Washington the Navy Department and the admirals and the big navy propagandists (well financed by steel interests) wait that a 5 per cent. cut in navy expenditures will leave our fleet at half Japan's strength.

In 1931 the total tonnage of the United States was 1,251,840; of Great Britain, 1,250,247, and of Japan, 850,328.

It so happens that armaments are relative and that the sky's the limit, if once an arms race begins among the principal Powers.

The last War to End War boosted arms costs enormously. On the eve of the World War, the total budget of the United Kingdom was 918 million dollars, of which 375 millions was for national defense.

By 1930-31, although the wholesale price level was only 16 per cent. higher than in 1913, Great Britain's national defense costs had risen to 535 millions, or more than half the total cost of government before the war.

The Japanese and American records are worse yet. In 1913-14, the cost of Japanese government was 292 millions. By 1930-31, with a rise of only 31 per cent. in the price level, the cost of defense alone had mounted to 232 millions of dollars.

And, in the United States, although the wholesale price level in 1930-31 was only 18 per cent. above 1913, we spent almost 723 millions of dollars on national defense—or only a million dollars less than the total of all Federal expenditures in 1913.

—and yet you members of the House say you want to cut down expenses.

British, Japanese and American steel companies would profit by an international armaments race with the sky as the limit. Taxpayers, however, would hardly find it pleasant.

My friend from Delaware and other members of the House have repeatedly arisen here in order to protect the taxpayers, but apparently they are not so much interested in them when it comes to this question of armament.

If I believed that armies and navies were the only method of maintaining the peace, or if I believed it was the most effective way of maintaining peace, I might perhaps agree with this Resolution. But, members of the House, I do not believe that such is the fact. We are living in Pennsylvania. The gentleman from Delaware has referred to our history. I would like to call his attention to the fact that William Penn came over to this country and founded a colony in a land inhabited by so-called savage Indians. He went amongst these red men saying it was not his custom to carry arms. What was the result? Did they fall upon him? No! On the contrary the Chief immediately called upon his warriors to lay down their arms and for seventy years there was unarmed security in Pennsylvania. It was only after the peaceful policy of Penn had been abandoned and the method of armament adopted that the lives of women and children became unsafe in the outlying settlements.

For one hundred and fifteen years Canada and the United States, with an unguarded boundary, have lived in peace while the countries of Europe with their fortified borders have fought countless wars. Friendship and good will furnish a security that armies and navies can never provide.

The United States is set apart from the other great naval powers by at least three thousand miles of water. Nobody seriously contends that in order to defeat those nations in an attack upon us, assuming the probability of such an attack, which I do not, but assuming the probability of such an attack, no one seriously believes that a navy equal to or according to the figures I quoted to you here tonight smaller than the United States, can cross three thousand miles of water and capture this country.

My friends, the purpose of armament is not for defense; the purpose of armament is offensive. The purpose of armaments today in the United States, and in the other great armed powers, is to protect the investments of their rich men in foreign countries, to permit them to go on collecting tribute from the inhabitants of other countries. That is the main purpose of armaments.

Another reason that they want this resolution passed is that if you maintain the armaments you maintain the profits of the armament trust, which have continued right straight on through the depression. They want to continue and they are spending quite a little money to continue doing so, and they do it under the guise of protecting the national safety. I do not believe that this is the most effective way to do it.

Taking up this Resolution, it has a number of statements in it. It states for instance that our navy is far below the standard decided upon as necessary for the United States. I want to call your attention to the fact that the tonnage of our navy to-day is the greatest of any nation on earth and that we are protected from our nearest rivals by several thousand miles of ocean, which makes it inadvisable and impracticable for them to attack us.

We are spending three times as much on defense as we were spending in 1913,—three times as much. We are spending as much on national defense as Japan and England, our nearest rivals, are spending together, and still we say in these times of stress, when everybody is talking about economy, and trying to save money, that we should go on and spend at the rate we have been spending.

Mr. Speaker, I have frequently advocated upon this floor the expenditure of money for unemployment relief. If we are going on spending the money on our Army and Navy at the rate we have been it will be impossible for us to adequately relieve the unemployment situation. Can it be possible, members of the House, that some of the advocates of this Resolution are not concerned with unemployment relief, but that they would rather build up the Army and the Navy, and then use that Army as it was used just last summer, to drive the Bonus Marchers out of Washington? Can it be that they want to build up this powerful army in order to suppress any possible uprising of unemployed? I suggest if that is the purpose that it would be far wiser to spend money for unemployment relief, to feed these people, to prevent them from starving, and then there will not be any uprising and you will not need your army for that purpose.

Members of the House, I ask you to seriously consider this Resolution and realize what it implies. Experts the world over agree that we cannot go on in an armament race indefinitely, that if we do we are going to bankrupt every nation on the face of the earth. It is generally admitted to-day that Japan is facing bankruptcy because of their militaristic adventure in Manchuria, and if we are going to go on building up and up and up until we get ahead of everybody else nothing but bankruptcy would be the result. I think it is more necessary to protect the life and the health of our people by feeding our unemployed and by entering upon useful public construction work, than it is to spend these millions and billions upon an army and navy whose main purpose it is to destroy.

Some members of this House may say that the Army and Navy act as a police force, but my friends there is all the difference in the world between the army and navy and a police force. A police force is used by people to maintain order among themselves, to enforce the laws which the people themselves have enacted and want enforced. An army and navy is maintained to enforce the will of one national government upon the people of another national government that had nothing to do with it whatever, and there is all the difference in the world between the two.

The better way to do it is by building up friendship and goodwill. As pointed out in the editorial in "The Record," we are going on an armament race—the strength of our armies and navies remain relatively the same. If we maintain our appropriations at the standard which this Resolution would have us maintain it, it will only mean that Japan and England will not only maintain but will increase their present expenditures and they will go on increasing that expenditure indefinitely into the future.

Why don't we try something else. We go into these disarmament conferences with our tongue in our cheeks and say we are in favor of disarmament and then go back home and build a few more battleships and increase the army. If you want to disarm and bring about peace let us reduce our armament and ask the other nations to do likewise and I venture to say here to-night that the nation that has the courage to reduce its armament and thus set an example to the other nations of the world and say we believe in the justice of peace that we are willing to reduce our armaments, that the people of those nations will rise up in their might and overpower the military clique that is now in control and kept in control because of the fear of our army and navy, and reduce their armaments, and then I believe we will be on the high road to permanent peace. We will never get there by increasing armaments. We have been doing it throughout history and we have had war after war.

The Resolution says—

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from Berks has spoken for over half an hour, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Snyder, Wilson, Habbyschaw, Woodside, Jones, Rice, Surface, Wike, Laubach, Baker, Peters, Ederer, Forrest, Storb, Meredith, Witkin, Conner, Blumberg, Turner, Steedle, Root and others.

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, following are the reasons for my negative vote on Resolution Serial No. 104, introduced by Senator Pethick.

First, I do not consider it the province or prerogative of the House of Representatives of this Commonwealth to memorialize the Congress of the United States on this or any other subject which is by its nature strictly a matter which relates to the Federal Government. The members of Congress are directly responsible to their respective constitutencies who are capable of availing themselves of a free expression of their wish on any subject pending before the Congress of the United States.

Second, There has not been made available to this Legislature any facts or information supporting the context of the resolution or the implied conclusions thereof.

Third, Without such information intelligent judgment on the merits of the resolution cannot be exercised.

My negative vote on this resolution must not be construed as an expression of my opposition to the maintenance of reasonably adequate armed forces by the Federal and State governments. This I have always and now do favor.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, it not being the function of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to impinge upon the legislative duty of the Congress of the United States. I desire to vote "no".

MEETING OF RULES COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to announce that immediately after the session there will be a meeting of the Rules Committee in the Speaker's office.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. FORREST. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, February 21, 1933, at 11.00 A. M.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12.09 A. M.) the House adjourned until Tuesday, February 21, 1933, at 11.00 A. M.

HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1933.

No. 22

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 21, 1933

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donehoo, offered the following prayer:

Our Father and our God, help us to have some realization of how infinitely great Thou art in Thy wisdom, knowledge and power. Help us to realize how limited we are in all of the attributes of our being, and may this knowledge keep us humble in Thy sight, and may it keep us in the spirit of sympathy with each other, because after all, no matter how much we know, we know so little. Be with us and guide us. Help us in the simplicity of such knowledge as we have to seek to find what the truth is, and then, having found what the truth is, help us to obey it. Be with us this day and bless us in all that we do. We ask in Thy Name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. FRAZIER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM UNEMPLOYED COUNCILS OF PHILADELPHIA

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

UNEMPLOYED COUNCILS

919 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa., February 15, 1933.

President Pro Tempore of the Senate,
State Legislature,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Sir:

One thousand delegates representing employed and unemployed workers of Pennsylvania, elected from labor unions, fraternal societies, churches and neighborhoods, will come to Harrisburg on March 1st to present to the Legislature demands for immediate relief appropriation and Unemployment Insurance.

This delegation will come from all parts of the State in a State-wide Hunger March to demand immediate action to relieve the misery of the unemployed, which the State Legislature has so far completely neglected. We demand that a hearing be granted to the Hunger Marchers at the Joint Session of the House and Senate on March 2nd.

Since these Hunger Marchers will remain in Harrisburg for two days, without having any funds for food and lodging, we therefore demand that the Legislature makes a special appropriation to feed the 1000 Hunger Marchers and lodge them in State-controlled buildings.

We trust that you will reply to us on the above matters.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD BENDER,
Secretary.

The PRESIDENT. The communication will be entered on the Journal.

COMMUNICATION FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE CAMP

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

Pennsylvania State Camp, Patriotic Order Sons of America,
Office of Chairman, Sons of America Building, 1317-19
North Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

To the Honorable Members of the Pennsylvania State Senate and House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sirs:

We are sending you, herewith, copies of correspondence between our State President, Mr. Harry J. Farr, of Sayre, Pa., and Governor Pinchot relative to the Lazar Case.

The general attitude assumed in this case, makes it more important than ever that the Anti-Sedition laws remain as they are. We, therefore, solicit your opposition by voice and vote against House Bills 211 and 258 relating to the repeal of our Anti-Sedition laws.

We also solicit your support for House Bill 494 amending the laws relative to holidays and making Flag Day, June 14th, a legal holiday in Pennsylvania.

We urge upon you the necessity of laying the New School Code on the table for consideration by the next Legislature. Here is a piece of legislation of the most radical and drastic nature. Time for the consideration, study and knowledge of the proposed code should be given.

We must appreciate, and insist that foreign elements coming here appreciate the traditions and achievements of our beloved country. This is the only country on the face of the earth, where an alien can get a job previous to every native having employment. American citizens should be placed in work before any outsider, who may never become an American citizen. Just food for thought.

Very truly yours,

HARRY J. LEARY, Chairman,
Legislative Department, P. O. S. of A.

(Copy)

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 4, 1933.

Mr. H. J. Farr,
1317 North Broad Street,
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Farr:

I have your letter of January 26, 1933, which discusses almost everything except the issue which came before the State Board of Pardons and me when Israel Lazar applied for clemency.

The question was whether Lazar had been imprisoned a sufficiently long time and whether more would be gained by releasing him on parole than by further imprisonment.

It was, and still is, my opinion that six months' imprisonment in the penitentiary was an adequate punishment for Lazar's offense. As I stated previously, he made a speech advocating the election of the Communist candidate for president. He had a small audience on a street corner, and what he said did not lead to any serious consequences or threat of serious consequences.

I am firmly of the opinion that much more is to be gained by permitting persons freely to speak their minds on any subject than by imprisoning them for expressing their views and thus affording an opportunity to martyrize them.

The granting of clemency to Lazar did not involve a reconsideration of the Sacco-Vanzetti case nor of the merits or demerits of the Civil Liberties Union nor of any other offender against any law of the land.

The commutation of a sentence does not in any sense condone the offense of the applicant for clemency. Thus, when a murderer's sentence is commuted, it by no means involves the proposition that the Governor approves of murder. It is merely the expression of a belief that clemency can safely be granted and that under all the circumstances of the case the term of imprisonment has been sufficient.

I have no apologies to offer for my action in commuting Lazar. It was the right thing to do. If you and your associates desire to continue to attack and to misconstrue my action, that is your privilege.

Sincerely yours,

Pennsylvania State Camp, Patriotic Order Sons of America,
Office of Chairman, Sons of America Building, 1317-19
North Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

February 14, 1933.

Honorable Gifford Pinchot,
Governor of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 4th instant has been duly received.

The first paragraph is too obviously at wide variance with the facts to need reply. You adopt the pleading of the American Civil Liberties Union protagonists of communism.

You state in your first letter that Lazar's speech was made to only a handful of people and go on, "Conceding that his speech was a technical violation of the Anti-Sedition Act, six months in the penitentiary was adequate punishment." Instead of being merely a technical violation it was an open and flagrant violation and part of a consistent program and by calling it a merely technical violation and stating that the speech was only made to a handful of people you show a desire to excuse and extenuate this criminal whom it is well known is himself out and belongs to a body of Communists who boast that they are out to undermine and overthrow our Government by force and violence.

You write about martyrizing people of Lazar's stripe that are justly punished for their crimes. This is part of the propaganda language of those who would extenuate and condone what these criminals do.

You state that what he said did not lead to any serious consequences or threat of serious consequences. This is the pleading of the American Civil Liberties Union, the I W W and counsel for anarchists and other subversive criminals. The folly of this pleading was clearly set forth in the decisions of the courts in the Lazar case and in the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States quoted to you in our letter of January 26th and of which you are therefore fully aware.

The reference to the Civil Liberties Union was to show the character and methods of the people condoning, aiding and abetting subversive crime who went to the rescue of Lazar and whose viewpoint and methods of argument you seem to have adopted.

In your letter of January 19th you said, referring to Lazar, "His offense consisted exclusively in making a political speech advocating the election of the Communist candidate for President." No statement could be more misleading. His criminal offense consisted in propaganda to get soldiers to shoot their officers in the back and desert to the enemy in times of war, which is constant Communist propaganda. It further consisted in stating that the Communists could only get into power by a revolution and so suggesting that they bring about a revolution, and in furtherance of this Lazar said that the only government in the world is the Russian Soviet.

You stated your belief "that much more is to be gained by permitting persons freely to speak their minds on any subject than by imprisoning them for expressing their views." This would imply a disbelief in our laws against exciting to riot and the carrying out of this doctrine would nullify the Sedition Act.

May we ask you to squarely state whether or not you, as Governor of Pennsylvania, will uphold the Sedition Act in spirit and in letter? Your action in the Lazar case tends to nullify it and the decisions of the courts and your language in your letters would seem to imply that you are willing to override the decisions of our Courts of Common Pleas, our Superior Court, our Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of sedition and subversive crime when the criminal does not at the moment commit or advocate any specific act of violence.

The Fish Report on Communism states that the American Civil Liberties Union claims to stand for free speech, free press and free assembly but that its main function is to attempt to protect Communists in their advocacy of force and violence to overthrow the government, replacing the American Flag by a red flag, etc. This would not be an inept description of your action in paroling Lazar as elucidated by your letters of January 19th and February 4th.

We hope that you have been merely the victim of the trickery of the American Civil Liberties Union in the Lazar case and have not consciously adopted their doctrines.

Very truly yours,

State President,

THE PROPOSED NEW SCHOOL CODE AFFECTS YOU

Read this message from the Legislative and Public School Committee

WRITE YOUR REPRESENTATIVES AT HARRISBURG
TODAY

February 16, 1933.

The Legislative Committee and the Chairman of the Public School Committee met in Harrisburg, Monday evening of this week. We considered the New School Code presented by Mr. Wilson as House Bill No. 690 which contains 297 printed papers, and takes from the rural school districts certain rights and powers which they now possess, and it is our firm conviction that this School Code should be laid on the table, and referred back to the citizens for consideration and action thereon taken at the next session of the Legislature.

Here is a piece of legislation of the most radical and drastic nature that will revamp and reorganize the entire public school system; that will affect every taxpayer and every pupil. And yet no one outside of the official family knows much of anything about it or can find out. Almost everyone, including members of the Legislature are in complete ignorance of the entire subject and it is apparent that those interested in the New Code desire its approval and adoption without the consideration of the Commonwealth's citizens. Time for the consideration, study and knowledge of the proposed code should be given. Criticisms, suggestions and advice should have been asked, and in general the entire proposed Code should have been, and no doubt could have been sold to the people, but as it now stands few know anything about it, and no one is apparently more responsible for this condition than the heads of our State Educational Department, who would have this Code adopted without its provisions being understood.

Issued by the Legislative Committee.

HARRY J. LEARY, Chairman,
WILLIS COLLINS,
HERMAN A. MILLER, P. S. P.

EDWARD J. THOMPSON, Chairman,
Public School Committee.

The PRESIDENT. The communication will be entered on the Journal.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills of the House of Representatives as follows:

House Bill No. 172 (Senate Bill No. 457), entitled:

An Act to amend section four of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand one hundred ninety-five) entitled "An act for the encouragement of agriculture and the holding of agricultural exhibitions providing State aid for certain agricultural associations and regulating the payment thereof" providing for aid to agricultural associations succeeding associations which previously received aid

Which was committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO PROTECT OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, February 13, 1933.

Whereas, Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, relative to national defense was adopted by the Senate on January 16, 1933, and concurred in by the House of Representatives on the same date, and

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor, disapproved said resolution under date of January 24th, 1933, by the following message:

January 24, 1933.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Resolution of January 11, 1933.

This resolution memorializes the Congress of the United States to refrain from taking immediate action for the purpose of economy or for any other purpose which will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several states thereof.

It is no more appropriate for the Legislature of Pennsylvania to take action upon questions which are distinctively Federal than it would be for the Congress of the United States to attempt to advise the Legislature of Pennsylvania what measures it should pass and what measures it should reject.

For this reason the resolution is not approved, and

Whereas, The technical position taken by the Governor is difficult to understand in view of the signing by him, during his prior administration of a number of resolutions memorializing Congress and other Federal agencies to do or refrain from doing things entirely under Federal supervision and control; and

Whereas, The Senate resolution is of such nature as has been held by the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth and by prior Attorney Generals, not to require executive approval; and

Whereas, The resolution in question was prepared by, and introduced at the request of, the combined legislative committees of the following organizations:

Grand Army of the Republic,
United Spanish War Veterans,
Disabled American Veterans of the World War,
Veterans of Foreign Wars,
American Legion;

and

Whereas, The said resolution has not been forwarded as directed, because of the unfavorable action of the Governor, to the Congress of the United States and the members from Pennsylvania therein; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Senate is hereby directed to forward to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein, a copy, properly attested by the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, and without the message of His Excellency, the Governor withholding his approval thereto, of Senate Resolution Serial No. 104, which reads as follows:

Whereas, The present Congress of the United States is considering under the guise of economy, the radical cutting of appropriations for the support of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps of the United States and of the National Guard of the several States; and

Whereas, The Army is at present pitifully insufficient for the defense of our mainland without regard for our insular possessions; and

Whereas, The Navy is far below the standard decided upon as necessary for the safety of the United States and agreed to by the Powers in a far less unsettled time; and

Whereas, The Marine Corps although small has proven for more than a century the most mobile and effective police force in any National or international emergency this Nation has ever had; and

Whereas, Through Federal aid and supervision the National Guard has risen to a point of efficiency heretofore unknown; and

Whereas, No reasoning person can believe in pacific safety in the face of existing facts. Every peace pact, treaty, or league of Nation action has proven and is at present proving futile and useless to turn any Nation from a policy of aggrandisement; and

Whereas, Events within the last twenty years have proven the futility of preserving the neutrality of the United States in the event of a Major conflict; and

Whereas, The existing National and international debts are the result of past unpreparedness, and the existing brawl over the collection thereof, the result of present unpreparedness; and

Whereas, The voice of the United States in the interests of universal peace is respected only in proportion to its existing and active power; and

Whereas, The effects of the present economic chaos on the governments of the world have conclusively proven that only strong, well sustained governments can survive; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the 1933 Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the present Congress of the United States to refrain from taking any action for the purpose of economy or other purpose that will further decrease the strength and effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States and the several States thereof; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania therein.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Also read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 459, entitled:

An Act to authorize cities of the third class to cue out writs of scire facias on certain municipal claims, where more than five years have elapsed since said claims were filed, and to reduce such claims to judgement; and providing for the revival and collection of such judgements.

Which was committed to the Committee on Municipal Affairs.

In the Senate, February 21, 1933.

Whereas, The continuance of the economic depression has seriously affected the revenues of all forms of Government and necessitates the greatest economy and reduction in governmental costs possible in order that budgets may be balanced, and our unemployed cared for; and

Whereas, The salaries paid to public officers and employees constitute an appreciable part of the cost of government; and

Whereas, Industry and business has been forced to reduce salaries and wages in order to continue operation and provide employment; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly that the salaries, compensation and emoluments of office of all public officers and employes of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the State Government, should be reduced, and that those agencies and officers of government charged with the fixing of salaries and compensation of public employes should reduce such salaries and compensation in accordance with the provisions of this resolution;

Resolved, That all public officers of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the State Government be urged to agree voluntarily to accept reductions in their salaries, compensation and emoluments of office and return the same to the government or permit it to retain, the percentage of such salaries, compensation and emoluments of office as is provided for by this resolution;

Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that such reductions in salaries, compensation and emoluments of office should be not less than fifteen per cent of the annual compensation, provided however, that no salary or compensation now in excess of $1500.00 shall be reduced below such amount.

Be It Further Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly, that if, for the protection of existing retirement rights, the salaries of State officers and employes are continued as at present, and in addition to the deduction made therefrom for payment into the State Employes' Retirement Fund, a further deduction is voluntarily made on pay rolls equal to the above percentage for payment into the General Fund or into any special fund created and appropriated under any Act of Assembly for unemployment relief purposes, the spirit of this resolution shall be deemed to have been complied with:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be directed to forward a copy of this resolution to each member Auditor General, State Treasurer, the heads of the several departments, and of the several independent administrative boards and commissions and to each of the Judges of the Commonwealth and to the officers and members of the State Legislature.

Standing thus, on the threshold of a new day is a solemn matter; since no man knoweth what a day may bring forth.

In the press of multitudenous cares keep our Speaker and these Legislators loyal to Thee, and to the best interests of the people.

Help them to be true, for there are those who trust them; help them to be pure, for there are those who care; help them to be strong, for there is much to suffer; help them to be brave, for there is much to dare. And, having borne their burdens in the heat of the day, may they at last find rest and Thy "Well done"—Amen.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 90, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 34), entitled "An act concerning alcoholic liquors; prohibiting the manufacture, advertising, furnishing, traffic in, and possession of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and articles and substances designed or intended for use in the manufacture thereof; defining intoxicating liquor; providing for penalties, forfeitures, and the abatement of nuisances; and repealing existing alcoholic liquor laws and alcoholic liquor license laws."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be made a special order of business on Tuesday, February 28, at 12 o'clock noon.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CONNER. Mr. Speaker, this, as you all know, is a repealer, and as part sponsor of this bill I am utterly opposed to its postponement on a special order of business. I feel that as the bill has been here for some time, the members know what it is, and I think now is the time and place to vote for it or against it. I hope the House will vote down this motion for a special order of business made by my friend from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Which sponsor?

Mr. DeFREHN. I do not care which one, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Which sponsor, which gentleman?

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Sowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SOWERS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DeFREHN. I would like to have a little information, Mr. Speaker. If we repeal this enforcement law, does it mean that we are opposed to the rendering of any further assistance for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States?

Mr. SOWERS. No.

Mr. DeFREHN?. It does not

Mr. SOWERS. No.

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask what we will have in its place?

Mr. SOWERS. The House has appointed a committee to draft a liquor control bill for Pennsylvania. That committee will meet and organize immediately after this morning recess. The committee will work diligently and in a very short time will present to this House a liquor control bill embodying all the features of all heretofore liquor bills, plus those which time and experience have taught us to be necessary and proper.

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Speaker, but why not have this before us so that we can judge whether it is the proper thing before we repeal what laws we do have?

Mr. SOWERS. Unless the House and the Senate repeal the Snyder Act, why should the Committee devote its time in drawing a liquor control bill?

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Speaker, I am not satisfied with that.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I want to assure the gentleman from Cambria that the Committee will draft a bill, which the Committee will present to him, and I think after he has read that bill he will agree that it will be a superior piece of legislation to the Snyder-Armstrong Enforcement Act.

Mr. DeFREHN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not believe in buying a cat in the bag. I think we should have some idea of what is to take the place of this law before we destroy what law we have. On the third of January last every member, except one, of this House pledged themselves by oath or otherwise to support the Constitution of the United States. Regardless of the vote in the Senate and House of Representatives of Congress, the Eighteenth Amendment is still a part of the Constitution of the United States, and how can we justify our act in repealing this law before we have something to take its place in our pledge at that time?

I do not believe we ought to be in too great a hurry in this matter. There are seven years in which to decide it, and if I am not mistaken, God still lives, and the Government at Washington will change again. I think this law will remain a part of the Constitution of the United States for a long time to come, and I am opposed to repealing it at this time.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the bill before us, in my opinion, is just another one of those grandstand plays which we heard about last night, but it may have some very subtle politics in it also.

Of course, if the House passes this bill today it will go to the Senate where it will repose the same as the Schwartz Blue Law is reposing, and then next year, when we have various candidates for office, from the Governorship on down, then they can point to the action of the House on the Snyder-Armstrong law and the Blue Laws in one part of the State, and in another part of the Commonwealth they can point to the noble work of the Republican controlled Senate in preventing their enactment.

It seems to me that we have wasted a great many weeks of our time in fussing with these non-essentials. I think that the masses of the people of this great Commonwealth are getting impatient for some action. We have before us things of vital importance to the masses of the people of this great State, but still we sit and fuss with the Blue Laws and the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Act, and pay no attention to the starving masses of humanity in this great Commonwealth. It is true that the people of the United States have decreed a change in prohibition, but that change should be brought about in a constructive and not a destructive manner. With that in view I sought an impartial and competent commission to work out the problem in this State, and this House endorsed that move, and that approval was nonpartisan and neither was it wet nor dry. Then my distinguished friend, the gentleman from Philadelphia, probably, among other things, actuated by the pride of authorship but imitative of previous Democratic actions brought forth a resolution in committee on liquor laws, and this committee is certainly sufficiently wet in personnel to satisfy the gentleman who still refuses to wait for its report and its action, and insists upon the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Act and action by the committee later.

The repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Act of 1923 would be a mischievous move at this time. Unquestionably there should be a repeal, but at the proper time. To comply with the expressed desires of the people of this Nation, the Volstead Act will be amended and the Eighteenth Amendment will likewise be submitted, so that there may be an expression of opinion as to its retention or its repeal. All such action, however, should be in a constitutional and legal manner.

Section 2 of the Eighteenth Amendment reads, "The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation." The position and the proper attitude of the States in this connection are self-evident. The Volstead Act is still operative. The Act of 1923 is a fulfillment of Pennsylvania's obligation under the Eighteenth Amendment. The action of this Legislature should be predicated upon action by Congress.

I believe that our attitude or what our attitude should be is well summarized by an editorial appearing in one of the outstanding papers of this State on January 12th, and I quote from the "Philadelphia Evening Bulletin":

"The repeal of the Snyder Act would be merely mischievous, both in the domain of State finance and of public morals and welfare, if there were not prior provision made for adequate legislation covering the situation which will arise if the national prohibition law is modified and the amendment repealed."

I, therefore, contend not that I am opposed to the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong law, but I contend that the bill before us providing for this repeal is premature. Let us use a little common sense and a little judgment. Let us display a little statesmanship at least once during the session.

Adequate liquor control legislation should be enacted simultaneously with the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong law.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, I am sorry to disagree with my Democratic colleague on this bill, but the last Democratic Platform, the State-wide platform, the platform of 1930 is so clear and explicit on this matter that there is no room for argument. The platform clearly says, "We favor the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Act," and there is no qualification about it whatever. Likewise the National Platform of last year, the Democratic National Platform, took a liberal attitude on this question, and I feel that if we as Democratic members do not support this measure, we would go exactly contrary to the very Democratic declaration on this question in recent years.

I do not wish to inflict a speech on the members of the House, but I cannot help but say that the people have spoken on this question and they have spoken very definitely. Two years ago, as some of you may remember, when Captain Hemp-hill was running on the minority ticket, on the Democratic ticket in Pennsylvania, he came within something like fifty-seven thousand or fifty-eight thousand votes of winning in a State that is overwhelmingly Republican, and it was his attitude on the Snyder-Armstrong law that caused that tremendous vote.

Now, I can recall years ago the late Dr. Eli M. Rapp, superintendent of the Berks County Schools, who used to say that when he got into a schoolroom and one or two or three pupils had been out of order to look among the pupils for the cause, but that when he got into a schoolroom where one-fourth or one-half of the pupils were in disorder, then to look to the teacher and the teacher's government. Dr. Alvin E. Winship, a noted educator from Boston, expressed the same thought when, in talking on school government, he said, "If a teacher tells me that her school is all wrong, I look for the fault in the teacher, because you cannot indict the whole school," and you cannot indict a whole community, and you cannot indict a whole people in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

We know that this law has been on the statute books since 1923, we know that it has never been effectively enforced, and we know that there is no real, genuine effort even today to enforce it effectively. It is only enforced in spots. Once in a while you hear of them going after a little fellow with a pint or a quart, but there is no effort to enforce it generally over this Commonwealth. It is practically a dead letter now. Why should we have this act merely as a shake-down law and a spy-law? Out of every one hundred cases that are prosecuted under this law in Pennsylvania, I venture to say that eighty per cent of them are either shake-down cases or spy cases, because there is no effort to enforce it unanimously in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Why should we have this law on the statute books when it has merely helped to corrupt the officialdom of Pennsylvania. There is no member in this House that does not realize that the Snyder-Armstrong law as well as the Volstead law actually have been great sources of corruption, but it is what prohibition has done to the Nation and what it has done to the State. It has struck at the very foundations when it has corrupted officialdom from the lowest up to almost the President's Cabinet in Washington. We have these conditions, and we know them, and the people know them.

The Federal Government has spent five hundred thousand dollars in investigating the facts, and they have issued a voluminous report. Back and forth this question has been handled over the Nation from Maine to California, and the people in the last election, as well as two years ago, have spoken and have spoken very definitely, and I feel that in a Democratic form of Government we are here today to carry out their wishes. I ask you, as members of a Democratic Government, to carry out the wishes of the people as they have expressed them by their ballots last November and as they expressed them here in Pennsylvania by their ballots two years ago.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the passage of this repeal bill is not doing anything that has not been done by other states. I have in my hand a copy of a letter written by one of the officials of the Anti-Saloon League. The letter states that before the recent elections the referenda of the states that did nothing about the inforcement of the prohibition laws were New York, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Nevada, Montana and Maryland. The election and referenda added to this list of new states, repealing their prohibition laws Arizona, California, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, North Dakota, New Jersey, Oregon and Washington, and still more have followed since the date of this letter, December 16, 1932.

I want to say to this House that your committee appointed to draft liquor control legislation is not grandstanding and it is making no play. It will make an earnest, sincere and proper effort to draft liquor control legislation that will cover the entire subject matter, and it will try to put on the statute books of Pennsylvania an act of Assembly to take care of the situation in the event that Congress repeals the Volstead Act and other like legislation.

My friend is entirely mistaken when he thinks that the only purpose of this committee is to delay. The purpose of the committee is to insert in the bill proper revenue raising features. The purpose of that committee will be to try and raise money to accomplish the purposes of getting money for unemployment relief.

My friend is entirely in error when he says that there are things that are more important than this bill. There is nothing more important than this bill. There is nothing more important before this House than this bill.

How many member of this House were elected on one and one platform alone; that is, they stood for the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Law. In my district I ran practically on one platform, and that was as soon as I got here I was to use every effort that was in my power to bring about the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong Law.

I ask the House to vote for this measure, and I assure you that control legislation will promptly follow.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. McELWEE. Mr. Speaker, finding it necessary to vote against House Bill No. 456, Printer's No. 94, and being somewhat reluctantly in that position, I wish to state my reasons for so doing. My reasons are five in number:

First: Under present conditions, this bill will add materially to the cost of every motor car to which it applies.

Second: The well known rainbow tints caused by this kind of glass can be accounted for only on the principle of refracted light, and it does not require any superior scientific knowledge to understand that refracted light is not a safe guide as to directions, unless one is certain of the position of an oncoming light, he cannot safely guard against it. Refracted light makes such certainty well nigh impossible.

Third: This bill attempts to limit the inventive genius of the manufacturers of non-shatter glass, and to say to them that thus far they have advanced, but that the use of a better non-shatter glass than this, when and if produced, will be prevented in Pennsylvania until a General Assembly, wiser than we, repeals this law and brings it up to the then modern times. This bill is an attempt to post across the entrance to the yet undiscovered fields in glass manufacture the ancient sign Ne Plus Ultra signs and Ne Plus Ultra signs always have arisen in the future to make those that posted them appear ridiculous.

Fourth: This bill adds another crime to the already too long list of crimes that the motorists may unwittingly commit. If this bill has any merit at all, it has to do with civil rights and not crimes.

Fifth: Unless other states of this Union adopt similar laws, and require just this same kind of glass, we certainly will find trouble ahead of us in the matter of reciprocity with other states, if this law is enforced against cars from other states. If this law is not to be enforced against cars from other states, then our annual license and our semi-annual inspection would be sufficient teeth for this law without the element of crime being injected into it.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from McKean will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask the indulgence of my colleagues while I make a statement. This morning when the roll call took place on the Snyder-Armstrong Act, the repealer of the Snyder-Armstrong Act, I was not in my seat and did not respond to the roll call. I do not care a snap of my fingers about the political consequences of this act or any other act that I do in this Legislature, but I do care for the opinion and the respect of my colleagues of this House, and for the newspaper men who sit at the desk, and for the people who sit in the House.

I have never ducked, or avoided, or ran away from a roll call and I never will as long as I am a member. I had every reason to think, and I think more reason than most members of this House, that the Snyder-Armstrong repealer, which was passed upon by this House today, would be made a special order of business for a week from next Monday night.

I was called out by a constituent who is in dire trouble in one of the departments, and it was necessary that I go to his assistance.

Had I been in the House I would have voted against the repealer of the Snyder-Armstrong Act. I do not care anything about what happens to me politically or what the effect may be, but I want to take away from this House the respect and confidence of my colleagues, if I can, and the reputation of one who was not afraid to take a position in any affair of consequence.

I have stood on the floor of this House and I have differed with many men in this House who were very close to me and of whom I thought a great deal, and with whom I differed quite radically. I think the older members of this House will agree to that I have stood by my guns and didn't run away even when it was much to my advantage to do so. I want to make the statement on this floor that I would not have gone out of my seat under any circumstances and I regret I was not here more than any act of mine since I have been in this House, and I want to put on this record that I was absent from the House due to the fact that I thought that this bill was not to come up, and had I been here I would have voted, and would have been compelled to vote, against the repealer if it didn't have in it some provision for regulating and taking care of the liquor traffic for producing revenue for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

This matter has been discussed and I have been present at the discussions and have taken part in them. I understood that a definite program had been arranged by which this bill was to remain on the calendar while other legislation was being prepared. I had understood that it was to come up two weeks from last night and I had no thought that it would be called up today. I want to put on this record the fact that if I had had any idea that a vote was to be taken I would have been in my seat, and that I would not run away from this roll call or any other roll call.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

COMMITTEE TO ATTEND INAUGURAL CEREMONY

Mr. SIMON asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 21, 1933.

Whereas, On March 4, 1933, the Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt will be inaugurated as the President of the United States of America, and

Whereas, It is fitting and proper that a delegation represent the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the inaugural ceremonies, to be held in Washington at that time.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is hereby authorized to appoint ten Members of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House is hereby authorized to appoint twenty Members of the House of Representatives, who together shall constitute a Joint Committee to represent the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to participate on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the inaugural ceremonies of the Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution? Are there objections?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I object unless it is distinctly understood that there will be no appropriation.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, if you please, I think the resolution speaks for itself and it carries no appropriation. Unless Mr. Hoopes or someone else introduces a resolution carrying an appropriation, I cannot see that this is germane to this resolution.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Simon, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SIMON. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. If an appropriation measure appears, will the gentleman oppose it?

Mr. SIMON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Does the Chair hear objection to the immediate consideration of the resolution? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION NO. 32

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up Resolution No. 32, Printer's No. 92.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 20, 1933.

Whereas, In his message to the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor, on Tuesday, February 14, 1933, His Excellency stated on page twelve thereof "It is clear therefore that we cannot continue giving relief on the relatively costly food order basis and we must have the State go to the Community Market Plan which is far more economical," and

Whereas, In the above message His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, failed to substantiate his position by the citation of the cost of commissaries now in operation, and

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor, failed to compare or cite the cost of the food order basis with the Community Market Plan,

Therefore Be It Resolved, That His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be requested to immediately forward to the House of Representatives for its information, all figures, data, computations, statistics and information utilized by him in arriving at his conclusions, which information is to be referred by the House of Representatives to its Committee on Unemployment Relief.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, February 22, 1933

The Senate met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donohoo, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Thou ruler of men and of nations, we thank Thee this morning for the history of our country, for the part played in the establishing of this government by Washington. Grant that we this morning may remember his service, his self sacrifice, his ability; and we thank Thee that Thou didst through him establish this nation of ours. Help us to consecrate ourselves in these trying times to carrying on the work which he so nobly began. Help us to realize that our greatest danger today is not from without but from within, and may we seek as true patriots not only of this Commonwealth but of this nation to carry on the work which Washington began, and to bring not only a real prosperity to this Commonwealth but to the nation. Guide and direct us in our work to do it as well as Washington did his. And Thine shall be the praise and the power and the glory of all that we are and all that we hope to be. Through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

WASHINGTON ANNIVERSARY ADDRESSES

The PRESIDENT. This being the two hundred and first anniversary of the birth of George Washington, it is appropriate that the Senate of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in which he won his first military fame, and where he served as the president of the first Constitutional convention, and as our first President, should observe this occasion.

The Chair recognizes the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Snyder, who will read Washington's farewell address.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President and members of the Senate: It has been suggested that certain selections from the farewell address of George Washington be submitted, and the fact that these selections were designated by no less an authority than our own colleague, Doctor Prince, should make them even more acceptable to us.

In this famous address Washington stated:

"To the efficacy and permanency of your Union, a Government for the whole is indispensable. No alliances however strict between parts can be an adequate substitute. They must inevitably experience the infractions and interruptions which all alliances in all times have experienced. Sensible of this momentous truth, you have improved upon your first essay, by the adoption of a Constitution of Government better calculated than your former for an intimate Union, and for the efficacious management of your common concerns. This government, the offspring of your own choice uninfluenced and unawed, adopted upon full investigation and mature deliberation, completely free in its principles, in the distribution of its powers, uniting security with energy, and containing within itself a provision for its own amendment, has a just claim to your confidence and your support. Respect for its authority, compliance with its laws, acquiescence in its measures are duties enjoined by the fundamental maxims of true Liberty. The basis of our political systems is the right of the people to make and to alter their Constitutions of Government. But the Constitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The very idea of the power and the right of the people to establish government, presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government.

"Towards the preservation of your Government and the permanency of your present happy state, it is requisite, not only that you steadily discountenance irregular oppositions to its acknowledged authority, but also that you resist with care the spirit of innovation upon its principles, however specious the pretexts. One method of assault may be to effect, in the forms of the Constitution, alterations which will impair the energy of the system, and thus undermine what cannot be directly overthrown. In all the changes to which you may be invited, remember that time and habit are at least necessary to fix the true character of governments, as of other human institutions—that experience is the surest standard, by which to test the real tendency of the existing Constitutions of a Country—that facility in changes upon the credit of mere hypothesis and opinion exposes to perpetual change, from the endless variety of hypothesis and opinions:—and remember, especially, that, for the efficient management of your common interests, in a country so extensive as ours, a Government of as much vigor as is consistent with the perfect security of Liberty is indispensable. Liberty itself will find in such a Government with powers properly distributed and adjusted, its surest Guardian. It is, indeed, little else than a name, where the Government is too feeble to withstand the enterprises of faction, to confine each member of the Society within the limits prescribed by the laws, and to maintain all in the secure and tranquil enjoyment of the rights of person and property.

"Of the disposition and habits, which lead to political prosperity, Religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of Patriotism, who should labor to subvert these great Pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of Men and Citizens. The mere Politician, equally with the pious man, ought to respect and to cherish them. A volume could not trace all their connexions with private and public felicity. Let it simply be asked where is the security for property, for reputation, for life, if the sense of religious obligation desert the oaths, which are the instruments of investigation in Courts of Justice? And let us with caution indulge the supposition, that morality can be maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to the influence of refined education on minds of peculiar structure—reason and experience both forbid us to expect, that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle.

"As a very important source of strength and security, cherish public credit.—One method of preserving it is, to use it as sparingly as possible:—avoiding occasions of expense by cultivating peace, but remembering also that timely disbursements to prepare for danger frequently prevent much greater disbursements to repel it—avoiding likewise the accumulation of debt, not only by shunning occasions of expense, but by vigorous exertions in time of Peace to discharge the debts which unavoidable wars may have occasioned, not ungenerously throwing upon posterity the burden which we ourselves ought to bear. The execution of these maxims belongs to your Representatives, but it is necessary that public opinion should cooperate.—To facilitate to them the performance of their duty, it is essential that you should practically bear in mind, that towards the payment of debts there must be Revenue—that to have Revenue there must be taxes—that no taxes can be devised which are not more or less inconvenient and unpleasant—that the intrinsic embarrassment inseparable from the selection of the proper objects (which is always a choice of difficulties) ought to be a decisive motive for a candid construction of the conduct of the Government in making it, and for a spirit of acquiescence in the measured for obtaining Revenue which the public exigencies may at any time dictate.

"Observe good faith and justice towards all Nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all.—Religion and Morality enjoin this conduct; and can it be that good policy does not equally enjoin it? It will be worthy of a free, enlightened, and, at no distant period, a great nation to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a People always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. Who can doubt that in the course of time and things, the fruits of such a plan would richly repay any temporary advantagism which might be lost by a steady adherence to it? Can it be that Providence has not connected the permanent felicity of a Nation with its virtue? The experiment at least, is recommended by every sentiment which ennobles human nature.—Alas! is it rendered impossible by its vices?

"Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence, I conjure you to believe me, fellow-citizens, the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake, since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican Government. But that jealousy, to be useful, must be impartial; else it becomes the instrument of the very influence to be avoided, instead of a defense against it.—Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another, cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other.—Real Patriots, who may resist the intrigues of the favourite, are liable to become suspected and odious; while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people, to surrender their interests.

"The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible.—So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith." Here let us stop.

Members of the Senate, we hope these selections may afford us some inspiration and aid us in our work, whatever our task may be.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. KRAUSE, who served as a member of the commission for the State celebration of the birth of Washington.

Mr. KRAUSE. Mr. President, members of the Senate, friends and fellow citizens: Occasions of this kind naturally have their purpose. You are gathered from many neighborhoods, vieing with each other as friends and neighbors and in some instances as companions, but above all, however, as good, loyal, patriotic citizens of these United States.

This is a wonderful country, brought about by able men. One of those men, more influential possibly than any one of the others, was at one time in his early life a surveyor. After that he became a soldier. Further on he had other vocations, and became a statesman; and when he combined all of those qualities, he became the greatest man that these United States has ever seen. It was George Washington. And to him we can attribute, as I said before, this wonderful combination of States of the Union, these United States of America. I am not a literary student of George Washington. I am like the rest of my colleagues in this Senate, merely an humble citizen, and an admirer of that great man, not prepared to write books, not to delve into his life like a man knowing psychology would be able to do. We have had men who were able to do that from possibly his birth, at fifty, a hundred, and at two hundred—and today he would have been two hundred and one years of age, having been born in Westmoreland County, Virginia, just two hundred and one years ago today.

What we are doing today is no doubt being done at many places all the way from the State of Massachusetts to Yorktown, all the way from Fayette County, where is located Fort Necessity, to the Ohio line. Similar things are being done to perpetuate the greatness of George Washington's activities from the place I have just mentioned, where he had charge of the Continental Army down to the surrender of Cornwallis, numerous places he has made memorable, Trenton, The Crossing of the Delaware, Valley Forge, the Battle of the Brandywine, Germantown, and all those places are today no doubt commemorating as we are doing today. Each one of those places during the year 1932, during the term of my incumbency as a member of the Commission to commemorate the birth of George Washington—all these places were picked and commemorated in a manner commensurate to what was there done by him and his soldiers and everyone connected with it. His life must naturally be a memorable one. After having participated in that early military work, eight years of active fortitude, trying circumstances and innumerable difficulties of war which he had suffered as well as those who were closely allied and associated with him—after that period of time he took up the Constitutional question. He presided over the Congress in Philadelphia, and in 1787, as you see his picture there standing up presiding over the Continental Congress that great Magna Charta more particularly referred to as the Constitution of Pennsylvania was adopted in 1787, adopted, bear in mind, by a Congress that was divided. There was not a unanimity of feeling at that Convention; but, bear in mind, there was respect for that magnanimous man. Those delegates or Congressmen were willing to abide by his advice. They took it, all of them. They didn't all feel it was necessary to bring union, to fix the union of states. It was only the hardihood he had established, what he had done from the pioneer times to that period—and that was on November 17th this was done—and bear in mind that that piece of legislation is standing today, the same as the foundation is built for anything that is supposed to be lasting and forever emulated. That legislation—it did not create liberty, but it established it for others to go ahead and enjoy and participate in the happiness. It saved you and it saved me from search and seizure. It allowed every man to start to do a lot of other things they have been continually doing from that day to the present time. We cannot do without it.

I do not know whether I can inject into this little dissertation anything of what was done by the Commission for the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington. It may not be apropos for this occasion. It can do no harm to know what has been done for the State of Pennsylvania, a state among states and country among countries. We respond immediately to the Act of Congress passed a year before. We took action in the Senate and House inviting all the states to join in for the purpose of this celebration. We passed a resolution here, and I am most happy to say the president of the Senate appointed me on that Commission with a number of other estimable gentlemen, and in connection with that work we organized the State, and through that organization, with the assistance of the National Committee, we formed thirteen hundred committees. Every county had its committee, practically every borough and cross roads was likewise served by some local committee, and then the Commission had a number of members go from place to place to see what was done on different days, and the programme was so outlined that each day of consequence was taken and adopted as part of this programme in order that it properly function so it would be diversified and not be the same on every day. We started out with the idea that the churches should take part. The night before, February 22d, his natal day was celebrated by prayer. This was done extensively throughout the State. The next day every county seat almost of the State of Pennsylvania had some sort of celebration. In Harrisburg—and let me say it with a little especial pride—our mutual friend, Boyd Hamilton, who is president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies, was of great aid to the Commission in preparing a programme that was commensurate to the Capital city. His Excellency the Governor was invited to take part in the programme that night, and he delivered an illustrious, instructive speech on George Washington and his activities and his service to this nation, which was broadcast. That same thing can be said of all the other principal places of Pennsylvania, such as Washington Crossing, Valley Forge, Independence Hall, where that great Constitution was adopted which I have just a few moments ago referred to. In every part of the State we had another programme, and that is the tree planting programme, which is a service just as useful as the words indicate, namely, over one million five hundred thousand trees were planted in the State of Pennsylvania in connection with this wonderful celebration and where everyone of these trees is planted is registered in Washington with the Tree Planting Association, so anybody can verify what was actually done, and great credit is due to the citizens all over the State, and on one day there were one hundred and fifty-six men at work planting trees in various parts of Pennsylvania. I could go on and tell you what they did in Warren County, what a wonderful celebration there was in York County in connection with the unveiling of tablets, one of which tells where George Washington when traveling from Mt. Vernon to the seat of government in Philadelphia stopped over night. I had the satisfaction of being there when it was unveiled, and in the afternoon I had the pleasure of attending in that small town of forty thousand people. The afternoon was taken up with a procession of float after float, and military parades. The enthusiasm was wonderful, and great credit is due to Mrs. Sheppard of that town, and she deserves commendation for the hearty support she gave this Commission. Other tablets, I can't remember exactly how many, were placed in the State of Pennsylvania, but my best recollection is the number would run over two hundred. A number of different parks were established throughout Pennsylvania, and each one dedicated to the memory of George Washington. All of these things were the outgrowth of that great man, the monument down east at Bunkers Hill, the parks at the Delaware Crossing, the park in Montgomery County, referred to as Valley Forge—the monuments, the parks, the trees and all these things, the outgrowth of this great man, stand there throughout the Commonwealth. They have been standing there for a number of years. People have passed and re-passed, and they say to those people going by, "Look and see what George Washington has done for you and for me, and what it will be in the way of properly educating those in the future that are coming on." Those are remarkable things to think about, and it is a great satisfaction to know they will be standing there after we have gone.

I could go on and tell you the history in connection with his life and activities. If I had chosen to do that, I might have been a little more orderly in starting at Fort Necessity, where I had the pleasure of visiting and attending a large meeting. The history of Fort Necessity is well known to every school child. The State of Pennsylvania was gracious enough, and it was within its duty, to devote twenty-five thousand dollars, the United States followed by appropriating twenty-five thousand dollars, the good citizens of Fayette county and those neighboring counties have contributed twenty-five thousand dollars, making a total of seventy-five thousand dollars. Today Fort Necessity belongs to the State of Pennsylvania, and what was said about the monuments and parks and trees that have been dedicated in the memory of that great man applies as well, and they will stand for future generations to tell about a great man.

I am going, in conclusion, to just recall his dying words, "It is well."

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Fayette, Doctor Bell, who, his friends say, was largely responsible for Fort Necessity.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate of Pennsylvania: A few years ago a group of men were standing on the site of Fort Necessity, among them a noted historian and writer and lecturer. In their conversation he said to them, "Gentlemen, you are now standing as near the fountain head of American liberty as it is possible for men to stand." Thus history finally placed the escutcheon on an incident that occurred in the mountains of western Pennsylvania more than one hundred and seventy-five years ago in which the youthful Washington was the commanding figure. Valley Forge, Yorktown, the Presidency, tell us much of Washington in his mature years, but it is only Fort Necessity that tells us of George Washington in his youthful years. Perhaps a word of explanation leading up to Fort Necessity might be interesting. For more than a century the French and English had been rivals for supremacy in the new world. The French had established their outposts in the valley of the Saint Lawrence and Great Lakes. The English had established their settlements along the Atlantic coast. The French gradually pushed their settlements south and east from the Saint Lawrence. The English rapidly pushed their settlements toward the west. A conflict of arms was inevitable. About six years before the incident of Fort Necessity George Washington with a few men was scouting the mountains of western Pennsylvania, having been told that the French were in the neighborhood; and they suddenly discovered Jumonville, with some French soldiers in a ravine a few miles from Fort Necessity. In the exchange of arms that occurred at that time Jumonville was killed. The word was rapidly sent back to Fort Duquesne, of which the brother of Jumonville was in command. He at once vowed vengeance upon Washington and the colonial troops, and with his company and a number of Indians started for the scene of the death of his brother. Washington, knowing of their approach, being in command of the troops from South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia and a few from Pennsylvania, hastily started a fortification at the site of what is now known as Fort Necessity.

A few years ago a French officer, who had long been a student and admirer of George Washington, visited this site in company with Congressman Temple, of Washington, Pennsylvania. In his surprise he said to Congressman Temple, "Do you mean to tell me that the famous Washington established Fort Necessity where he did?" Congressman Temple turned to him and said, "Major, it was not the mature Washington that built Fort Necessity where he did, it was the young and inexperienced Washington." The engagement of Fort Necessity was not particularly happy for Washington and his army. In the midst of a driving rain during the afternoon and early evening they fought until late into the night, and having received the threatening request from the commander of the French and Indian forces, Washington finally entered into a parley. The next morning Washington and his army marched out of Fort Necessity with flags flying and drums beating and made their way back to Virginia, Washington believing he had been ignobly defeated, and tendered his resignation to the Governor, and for some time remained there and was a private citizen of Virginia when General Braddock came over the next year to lead his army to the ill-fated Braddock's Field and was then defeated, a defeat for Washington.

Let us turn over the pages of history. Fort Necessity was the first engagement that finally brought about the French and Indian war, by which France lost her American possessions and changed the map of Continental Europe. The ultimate result of the French and Indian War was the Revolutionary War that brought about American independence. So that Fort Necessity can in no manner or in no way be considered as being a defeat for Washington and his army that day, because the ultimate outcome of it all was the liberty that we enjoy today. As has been said by Senator Krause, the Legislature of Pennsylvania in its wisdom patriotically appropriated twenty-five thousand dollars for the purchase of the site of Fort Necessity. Fort Necessity has been rebuilt upon lines that are the exact reproduction of the Fort that Washington constructed so hastily in 1754. The park is being beautified, and is being visited today by as many people perhaps as any other American shrine; and as the history of Fort Necessity comes to be more widely and better known, as it must be, and we look back to that fountain of liberty, we come to the conclusion that Fort Necessity must be one of the outstanding shrines in American history.

The PRESIDENT. We thank Doctor Bell.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 2, entitled:

An Act relating to the collection of delinquent county taxes in counties of the second class repealing all acts or parts of acts, general, local or special inconsistent herewith.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section I Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in counties of the second class all county taxes after the same become delinquent as now provided by law shall bear interest from the time said taxes become delinquent at the rate of six per centum per annum until paid and it shall be the duty of the collector of delinquent taxes to collect such interest in addition to the tax and pay the same into the county treasury

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MANSFIELD: Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 2, now under consideration on second reading, has to do with the collection of delinquent taxes in the County of Allegheny. This office, in its present form, is the biggest abscess on the body politic of Allegheny County that it has ever maintained. For a number of years it was thought at least that this office had in its connection an unreasonable compensation for the delinquent tax collector. Beginning in the year of 1931 the County Commissioners engaged the services of Main and Company, Certified Public Accountants, to make an audit of the affairs of the county. In making the audit—and it was the first one that had ever been made of the workings of this office—it was developed that over a period beginning in January 1928 and ending in December 1931 there had been collected the sum of $7,500,000, and for that service the delinquent tax payers of Allegheny County, those least able to pay, paid the exorbitant sum of $750,000 for that service. That is outrageous when contrasted with the cost of collection in other municipalities and particularly when it is contrasted with the City of Cincinnati, where $12,000,000 is collected for an approximate cost of $26,000. The audit of Main and Company developed some very interesting statistics in connection with the collection of the $7,500,000 in that it sets forth the cost and the net income of the collector. During the period of four years the gross income of the Collector of Allegheny County was $487,104, and the net income $331,563.76. This was the amount left for the Collector after all of his help and expenses of deputies had been paid, or an average of $83,000 a year, more than was paid to the President of the United States. The cost kept mounting from year to year. The net cost in 1928, or the net income to the collector in 1928, being $59,982.41, and amounting in 1931 to a net income for the collector of $106,265.18. I have observed the sentiment of the Members of this Senate during this Session and I believe that they have in their minds to economize and save as much in the cost of government as it is possible to save. The people of Allegheny County want this office abolished. I say that advisedly, because I have observed and watched carefully the sentiment and I am sure that they want this office abolished. I endeavored to have a Bill passed through the Committee abolishing the office but it failed. In our county there are 123 municipalities under the present system. The delinquent tax collector appoints a deputy in each one of those separate municipalities outside of the City of Pittsburgh. In the City of Pittsburgh he collects the duplicates himself. It was my thought that instead of permitting the delinquent tax collector to appoint an outside deputy in each one of the separate municipalities, that the regularly elected collector of municipal taxes should also collect the county taxes, or if that was not satisfactory that the treasurer should appoint a bank or trust company for that purpose. There were objections to that feature of the bill, but at least that was given as the reasons for the Committee not favoring the abolishing of the delinquent tax collector's office with that provision attached. In the Bill that is now before us there is an added cost to the tax payers of Allegheny County, inasmuch as it provides that the collector's postage and printing and expenses shall be paid during the period of 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931. This cost to the collector was $13,000, so you can see that in the future instead of the collector paying this expense it will be transferred to the tax payer.

Mr. President, the people of Allegheny County are entitled to know how the Member of the General Assembly stand on this proposition. They do not want this delinquent tax office, with its outrageous cost, and while the Bill that is before us reduces the commission and reduces the net income of the collector, under the provisions of this bill an analysis of the figures of 1931, the last year's figures are available, the tax collector will still have for his own use the sum of $38,335.94, or twice the amount that will be paid to the Supreme Court Justice of this Commonwealth.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, to correct the outrageous conditions that exist in our county I am now going to offer an amendment to this bill that will abolish the delinquent tax collector's office in Allegheny County and permit the treasurer to collect the delinquent taxes without any strings attached to the provision for his collecting it in any manner whatsoever. Under the amendment that I am going to offer the treasurer will be permitted to collect the delinquent taxes in the same manner as he is now permitted to collect the taxes before they become delinquent.

Mr. PRESIDENT, I move to Amend section 1, page 1, line 6, by inserting before the word "bear" the following: be subject to a penalty of five per centum and shall also

Also lines 8 and 9, by striking out the words "collector of delinquent taxes" and insert in lieu thereof county treasurer

Also line 9, by inserting after the word "such" the following: penalty and

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, I object to this amendment. This Bill has been in Committee for six weeks. On the fourteenth of February we had a hearing on it and it was threshed out by both the opponents and proponents. We have had from the City of Pittsburgh opposing this bill, after advertising in the papers, a clerk, court stenographer and an insurance agent, who came to oppose this Bill. That is how much interest the people of Pittsburgh had in the bill to oppose it.

I agree with Senator Mansfield that we pay too much money to the collector in Allegheny County. For the last five years, maybe 15 years, it was altogether too much to pay a man $105,000 or $85,000, whatever it cost. There is no dispute about it. $85,000 or $106,000, that the last collector got there. I agree with Mr. Mansfield that is altogether too much money. He was getting seven per cent net on his collection. I am reducing in my bill that seven per cent. He was getting ten per cent and it cost him three per cent for overhead. I am reducing it to five and it was still costing three per cent and if Senator Mansfield insists on this man paying his postage and his overhead he would be working for about three thousand dollars a year, and that is the reason that we put in the bill that the County pay the postage. Our auditors went over the books and we figured the most the man will ever make, if he had a fat year like 1931, where the other collector got $106,000, the most he would make under those conditions would be $22,000. Now we have had lean years that he was down to five and eight thousand dollars, fifty-five hundred dollars. If we would have had lean years like that year he would be making three or four and the most he could make would be twelve thousand dollars. The reason I am insisting this should be on a commission, in 1930 we changed our delinquent tax system in the City of Pittsburgh and it was then $36,000 and it had run up to $48,000 in 1928. In 1931 it was $99,000 that the tax payers had to pay for collecting delinquent taxes in the City of Pittsburgh. Under this system I am allowing two per cent for collecting in my Bill.

I hope the members of this Senate will vote down this amendment of Senator Mansfield.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield, whether the amendments which we had proposed will place into the Conye Bill the provisions of the Bill which he introduced.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, no sir, it does not place in the bill the provisions which were objected to by the Committee. I explained when I was on the floor before, it puts the matter entirely up to the treasurer, the treasurer will collect the delinquent taxes in the same manner that he collects the taxes before they become delinquent.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator one further question. In what method will the collection of taxes in the City of Pittsburgh be different than in the bill that is now before the Senate?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, the treasurer will collect them without a commission. The county treasurer will collect them without a commission, he will collect all of the delinquent taxes without commission just the same as he collects the taxes before they become delinquent without a commission. The bill will save over the old system more than one hundred thousand dollars a year and under Senator Coyne's Bill at least fifty thousand dollars a year.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the Chairman of the Committee on New Counties and County Seats, the distinguished Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, is not present and I feel, therefore, a word of explanation may be in order.

The bill introduced by Senator Coyne and the bill introduced by Senator Mansfield were given most careful consideration. They were referred to a sub-committee, of which Senator Howell is Chairman and I was a member. As Senator Coyne has stated, we heard evidence on both sides and the Committee believes, not only the sub-committee but the Committee itself, believes that the bill introduced by Senator Coyne is the preferable bill. I do not wish to discuss the merits except to say that the unamended bill as it is now before the Senate, represents the views of the Committee.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MANSFIELD and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

And on the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 The collector of delinquent taxes in counties of the second class in addition to the taxes and interest referred to in section one shall add to said delinquency taxes a penalty of five per centum for such delinquency which five per centum shall be in full compensation to such collector The county commissioners shall at the cost of the county furnish office office space office furniture equipment and supplies blank books blanks dockets books for record stationery postage fuel light and janitor and telephone service but all other expenses in connection with said office including the compensation of any assistants clerks and deputies shall be paid by the collector of delinquent taxes out of the compensation allowed by this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, being fully convinced that the majority of the Members of the Senate are in favor of the fee system in the collection of taxes in Allegheny, I would now like to determine just what they believe that collector should have for his compensation under the bill that is before us. I used the figures of Main and Company, Certified Public Accountants, and analyzed those figures and have reached a definite conclusion that under this bill the collector would get for his own services, after paying his expenses, the sum of $38,335.94.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Coyne, will state his point of order.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, is not the Senator from Allegheny Mr. Mansfield out of order?

The PRESIDENT. For what purpose does the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield, rise?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I am going to offer a further amendment.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I move to amend section 2, page 2, lines 1 to 10, by striking out all of said lines, both inclusive:

Also line 11, by striking out the words "collector of" and insert in lieu thereof, county treasurer shall hereafter collect all.

Also line 12, by striking out the words "in addition to the taxes and interest" and insert in lieu thereof, and the office of collector of delinquent taxes as now existing is hereby abolished.

Also lines 13 and 14, by striking out all of said lines.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion?

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MANSFIELD and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Section 2, page 2, line 1, by striking out the words "which five" and insert in lieu thereof "of which three and one-half"
Also line 5, by striking out the word "postage"

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I was saying that under the bill unamended, reducing the figures that were furnished by the Certified Public Accountant for the year of 1931 the net compensation for the collector would be $38,335.94. Now under this amended bill it would allow the collector to have three and one-half per cent. commission and he would still have for his own use, after paying all of these expenses, the sum of $11,141.22. Now I would like to determine whether or not the Members of the Senate believe that $11,141.22 is not sufficient compensation for the delinquent tax collector of Allegheny County. I have found that the man who now holds that office prior to receiving the appointment, his salary was two hundred dollars a month and I doubt whether he ever made more than that in his life time and I think that $11,141.22 is sufficient compensation to be paid a collector under the present economic conditions.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, I object to the amendment. We could pay him eleven thousand dollars on three and one-half per cent. I would be glad to make it three per cent. and make it six thousand. I know if that man has put on three and a half per cent. he will not make his salary. We figured it out and we had a conference over the books and we found the man that the most he could ever make in the year that Christy made $106,000 would be $22,500, and I am sure that we will never have a year like that again and if we reduce it to three and a half per cent. he certainly will not make his salary.

Now if I thought that every year in the future would be like Mr. Christy's year was I would be glad to reduce it but I know they will not be, because I feel that $22,000 is too much of a salary for this man, or any other man, and the reason I made it two per cent., and I took five off, it is not two per cent. out of seven, and for that reason I think the bill should go through as it is, and it would save the county sixty or seventy thousand dollars.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I hesitate to interject myself into the municipal affairs of Allegheny County. It seems to me it is pretty poor political strategy for the Legislature to publish this, broadcast this throughout the State. When there are bread lines in Allegheny County it looks very bad to me that a man should get that much money and it seems to me very much wiser to cut that down and put that money in unemployment relief. I think political psychology supports Senator Mansfield at this time.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MANSFIELD and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I move to Amend section 2, page 2, line 1, by striking out the words "which five" and insert in lieu thereof, of which four.

Also page 2, line 5, by striking out the word "postage."

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I feel that I owe it to the City of Allegheny County to get the very best I can get from this General Assembly in making the collection of delinquent county taxes. This amendment reduces the commission to 4 per cent and under the 1931 analysis of figures would net the collector the sum of $17,025.17. Do you think that is enough?

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, I object to the amendment. I do not like to get on the floor and deal in personalities. The Senator insists that this collector work for nothing and at the same time he is going to pay a man $75 a day for seven months in Allegheny County. Now is that more than this collector gets?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, in answer to that I would just like to ask the Members of the Senate if they do not think that the money spent to Conick even though it was $75 a day, that developed the cost of the delinquent tax collection in Allegheny County was sufficient reason for employing the auditor.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, this $75 a day is not all that is spent along that line, he hires five others at $35 and $25 and he would spend $150,000 in seven months in Allegheny County for this audit.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, in answer to that I would like to say that the auditors that had been going over the books of Allegheny County have developed some very interesting situations. For example, they have developed that there was paid through the County Comptroller's office over a period of eight years $45,000 in duplication of election costs. It also developed by the audit that the County had been paying for the maintenance of the Armstrong Tunnel over a period of five years, despite the fact that there was a written contract on record, that cost the County of Allegheny the sum of $53,000 in those five years. They have developed that there is owing to the County of Allegheny more than half a million dollars that was not charged on the books and if ever there was anything done in the interests of the taxpayers of Allegheny County it was the employment of the present auditors that have developed the outrageous conditions that existed in the government of the County of Allegheny.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, I am always in favor of an audit but I don't think any one man making that audit should get $75 a day. That is the only objection I have to the audit and I think that the County Comptroller in any county should be the auditor. I realize that there are things in Allegheny County there should not be and there was an audit, needed, and the Comptroller certainly censured for not finding the things that Senator Mansfield talks about. I agree with Senator Mansfield, he is absolutely right in his contention, but I say that there is more money paid and higher prices paid to men that he hired than those that I am trying to regulate. I will say again that the commissions to the tax collector in Allegheny County are altogether too much and my bill would reduce it to $17,000, even when you pay the postage.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to butt in again. I am very much impressed with the very poor politics are playing this morning. I would like to read into the record an editorial in this morning's Inquirer:

"The Pennsylvania Legislature has pickled at least two treasures for a voluntary reduction in the salary of its members. Their effrontery in this matter is amazing. Not even Governor's Pinchot's jibe about the first bill to pass a previous session, whereby they fixed their emolument before they had done a stroke of work, has yet had the stinging effect to produce appropriate action.

Members argue that the State Constitution does not permit them to tamper with compensation effective during the term or which they have been elected. Fortunately the Federal Constitution interposes no such obstacle to public welfare. For President Hoover and members of Congress made the sacrifice. One wonders whether the Pennsylvania Supreme Court would solemnly insist that legislators must accept full pay if the General Assembly reached a decision to forego part of it. The opinion should be enlightening, particularly since the Senate at Harrisburg has just voted a 15 per cent reduction for all judges."

I submit again—and a word to the wise is sufficient—that this is going to come back to us if we refuse to cut down the salaries, where it is possible, of government officials we are going to put ourselves into a privileged class. I think some gentlemen ought to change their votes in favor of Mr. Mansfield.

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President I do not know what paper the gentleman read from but certainly the editorial writer did not know what he was talking about. The Senate has passed a bill reducing the salaries of the Members of the Legislature. That article seems to know nothing about it. I would suggest to the editor of that paper that he inform himself before he broadcasts through the columns of his paper over the section of the State where his paper is read a statement such as that.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, I want to say that I agree that this is poor politics but I take it from this viewpoint: The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield, has presented amendments which, as far as I know, have never been presented before and I was a member of the Committee which had charge of the bill and the sub-committee which conducted the hearing. It seems to me that these amendments should properly have been presented to the sub-committee of which my friend, the Senator from Lackawanna, Mr. Howell, was Chairman. I take the position that this matter having been settled, every opportunity having been given to offer amendments and to discuss the matter and the Committee having reported, it is poor politics to bring that up at this time. I have served on many committees and sub-committees during my service in the House of Representatives, as well as my brief service in the Senate, and I don't know of any measure which has received more careful consideration. Personally, I do not know the exact effect of the various amendments, but I do feel that Senator Mansfield had his day to present these amendments, and furthermore, as I recall the testimony which was given, it was somewhat conflicting, and at least one gentleman prominent in the political life of Pittsburgh, stated to the sub-committee that he did not agree with Senator Mansfield's bill in all particulars. I think that the Senate, as the matter now stands, should sustain its committee, and therefore I shall vote no on the amendments.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I don't want to take up all the time of the Senate this morning but if Senator Reed's statement is sound logic, why not just eliminate the Sessions of the Senate and let everything be done in committee? I had a very good reason for not presenting these amendments in committee. My own bill had not been disposed of and just as soon as it was disposed of I made arrangements to have these amendments presented here and the amendment that he speaks of that raised an objection, the first amendment, that I presented, eliminated that objection, so that he was in full accord with the bill as it was amended.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Mansfield, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would like to ask what is the commission of the Delinquent Tax Collector of Allegheny County now?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, ten per cent.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, and under that commission did he receive in 1931 a net allowance of a hundred and some odd thousands dollars?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, one hundred and six thousand dollars.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, was that after all the expenses of the office were deducted?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, yes, after he had paid every item of expense.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, was that after the postage and so forth had been paid?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, yes, he paid the postage himself, and still had that amount left.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, as I understand the Senator now his amendment proposes to reduce that commission from ten per cent. to four per cent.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, yes.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, and, therefore, the net commission of the Delinquent Tax Collector under the amendment would be about from thirty-eight thousand to forty thousand dollars a year.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, yes, under the 1931 analysis, the last one that I could get, the commission would be thirty-eight thousand three hundred and thirty-five dollars and ninety-four cents.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I should like to ask a further question. Is there any special effort required of the Delinquent Tax Collector to collect these taxes?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, well, of course an effort would be required to collect the tax just as an effort would be required for the treasurer to collect the tax.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the county collector of taxes could readily collect these taxes without any other office force.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, he would need some additional office employees, but not nearly so many as the Delinquent Tax Collector does have for the reason the treasurer stays in his office and has overhead to take care of and has clerks to take care of the work during the time the delinquent taxes are paid.

Mr. COYNE. Mr. President, now, about the collection. He received one hundred and six thousand dollars. That is ten per cent. What does he receive when it is cut to five per cent? Fifty-three thousand dollars. His overhead now is just as much as ever. So his expenses have to come out of the five per cent. And I can't for the life of me see where the Delinquent Tax Collector gets thirty-eight thousand dollars.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, the per cent doesn't figure in this at all. It isn't applicable. The Delinquent Tax Collector is not getting overhead at seven per cent when the law is changed to five per cent, and there is not any argument to sustain the contention that the overhead was seven per cent, because the figures do not carry that out. If he collects seven hundred and fifty thousand, the total expense would be one hundred and fifty-five thousand five hundred and forty-one dollars and twenty cents. Now, let that sink in. The total expense to collect seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars was one hundred and fifty-five thousand five hundred and forty-one dollars and twenty cents.

Mr. COYNE, Mr. President, the city of Pittsburgh, as I mentioned, has refused to abolish the delinquent tax collector. The treasurer took charge and appointed tax collectors at five thousand dollars, and the expense of Pittsburgh has run up from the thirty-three thousand, the former delinquent tax collector was getting, to ninety-nine thousand dollars last year; and he Senator will tell you the County Treasurer will have to have employees if you abolish the delinquent tax collector, and you will increase the expense of the city treasurer from thirty-three thousand to ninety-nine thousand.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required, by Mr. MANSFIELD and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Batchelor,	Lanius,	Norton,	Snyder,
Brandt,	Mansfield,	Prince,	Thompson,

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Almighty and everliving God, we pause a moment, to wait in reverent silence for Thy blessing.

In days of old, Thou didst lead Thy people through the sea and wilderness to the Promised Land; Thou didst lead our countrymen to victory over their fathers, and later, over their brothers. Now God, give us victory over ourselves! We praise Thee for the grace and virtue of our great public servants of the past.

Especially do we thank Thee that in the early days of our national life, Thou didst raise up Thy servant, George Washington, to be the leader and deliverer of our country. Thou didst richly endow him with vision and courage to guide the "Ship of State." Thou didst vouchsafe to him, victory over kings and tyrants.

Help us to keep in memory, the exalted patriotism, the official integrity, and wise statesmanship of our illustrious countryman, Washington. May his qualities and virtues be incentives and influences upon us and our posterity forever. Amen.

RESOLUTION

IN MEMORY OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Mr. PHILIP STERLING offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by Mr. Philip Sterling as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 22, 1933.

Whereas, We are today observing the two hundred and first anniversary of the birth of him who not only led the patriots of his day through a successful revolution against tyranny and oppression, but triumphantly builded this Nation amid an angry conflict of passion and prejudice.

His genius in military affairs begat the Nation, but his greatest service to mankind was the holding together of the feeble life that marked its inauguration as an independent power among the governments of the world.

The same high degree of courage and perseverance that inspired the half-frozen patriots at Valley Forge to carry on in the face of starvation and death, met and conquered every political disease that threatened the life of this new child in the world's family of nations, and made its growth sure and its development certain.

The days that marked his military service to his country were constantly fraught with danger for all, food was scarce, property was insecure, and death lurked everywhere; but the courage of this man dispelled fear, inspired a patriotism that laughed at disaster, gave birth to a faith that was unconquerable, and won for him the love and devotion of all his countrymen.

During the years of his presidency, his courage met a greater task than Valley Forge, but with that same perseverance and devotion to duty, he carried on against enemies who sought to drag him from the heights, and despoil the Nation for their personal gain.

Amidst the innumerable pages of history, we find none other whose courage and genius contributed as much to free our land from bondage and elevate it to the rank of an independent and sovereign power.

George Washington was the noblest figure that ever stood in the forefront of a Nation's life; therefore be it

Resolved, That

Our problems shrink when measured by
The side of those he met and solved;
Our worries turn almost to joys
When told with his;
Our troubles seem to fade away
When e'er we think of those he bore.
All praise by us of what he was
Is but the emptiest of sounds,
Encomiums are but a noise
And eulogies are vain,
If, in these days of trial, we fail
To carry on, and follow true
The paths he blazed for us.
So from the ends he wrought
Through all those years of strife
And months of bitter woe,
Let's find the inspiration and the will
To build again to richer things;
To find employment for the throng
That asks but for the right to work.
Let's shoulder now our task
And from our Valley Forge
March out to better days.

The SPEAKER introduced Mr. Jones.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House, despite the laws that we are going to repeal; despite the laws that we are going to put upon the books, we are the greatest Legislature in the world; we are the greatest State in the world; we are the greatest Nation in the world; we are going to get right up on our feet and sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" in honor of the Father of Our Country, George Washington.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donchoo, offered the following prayer:

Thou Almighty and Everlasting God, we beseech Thee that we may confess our sins. We confess we have been false to the principles of our government, false to our faith, false to our God, and false to each other as men. We have builded a Tower of Babel that has crushed in ruins about us, and we have a confusion of tongues. May we repent and come back to Thee as Thy people of old did when they were warned again and again that "If ye will repent and confess your sin, I will send such prosperity as there shall not be room enough to receive it." Everything else we do is in vain. Therefore bring us to Thyself. We ask in Thy Name. Amen.

Whereas, the purposes for which the said Association was formed, are (1) to secure for real estate all possible relief from the huge burden of taxation now resting upon the land, and (2) to foster greater efficiency in all Government, local, State and National, and

COMMUNICATION FROM PENNSYLVANIA STATE ASSOCIATION OF TOWNSHIP SUPERVISORS

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ASSOCIATION OF TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR

The Honorable Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.
Gentlemen:

I am transmitting herewith resolutions pertaining to legislation before you which were adopted at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, Harrisburg, Pa., February 15, 1933.

Very truly yours,

Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors,
By H. A. THOMSON,
Secretary.

Resolutions adopted at the Convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, February 15th, 1933.

Resolution No. 1. Resolved, That this Association do endorse the Williamson Municipal Tax Relief Bill, Senate Bill No. 100, and ask all possible support for this bill.

Resolution No. 2. Whereas, We believe in our local township form of government and believe it to be efficient, economical and a necessity; and whereas the Pinchot plan for taking over the remaining fifty-three thousand (53,000) miles of township roads in Pennsylvania would mark the end of this form of government; and whereas this proposition would be a gigantic stride towards centralization of government. Therefore, Be it Resolved that this Association do strenuously oppose this plan as being inefficient, extravagant, and dangerous.

Resolution No. 3. Whereas, The present condition of having eight thousand (8,000) bridges under township control upon State highway, creates a division of authority as well as an inefficient method of maintenance. Therefore, Be it Resolved, That we recommend legislation which would have the State assume control of all township bridges now located on State highways.

Resolution No. 6. Resolved, That we endorse the new Township Code, Senate Bill No. 65, and ask all possible support for its passage.

Resolution No. 8. Whereas, All of the highways of our State, except a few of the heaviest and most expensive construction, are being seriously injured by heavy truck traffic, therefore be it Resolved that we urge legislation reducing the present excessive gross weight now allowed by law to a more reasonable and less destructive limit.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE PHILADELPHIA RETAIL MEAT DEALERS' ASSOCIATION

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

PHILADELPHIA RETAIL MEAT DEALERS' ASSOCIATION

Affiliated with The National Association of Retail Meat Dealers

Honorable E. C. Shannon,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I transmit, herewith, a copy of a resolution introduced and passed at the last regular meeting of this association.

Very truly yours,

WGH:MRS
ENC.

WALTER G. HOSHOUR,
Business Manager.

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has, through the enactment of the Hagmier Act, placed a tax of one percentum on all retail sales, receipts from which are to be used for the relief of the unemployed; and

Whereas, The collection of this tax from the consumer is impossible on sales of less than one dollar; and

Whereas, The average sale in retail food stores is less than one dollar; and

Whereas, The food retailers of Pennsylvania are forced to assume this tax because of this fact; and

Whereas, The amount of the tax is the equivalent of from twenty-five percentum to fifty percentum of the retailer's net profit; and

Whereas, The Emergency Relief Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania contemplates the operation by the State of Commissaries and Community Markets for the distribution of food stuffs and other commodities to the unemployed and have already opened establishments of this type; and

Whereas, The entry of Government into business has been condemned in the halls of the Congress of the United States and by leading economists from all sections of the country; and

Whereas, The food retailers of Pennsylvania have and are maintaining a system of distribution which compares favorably with any available figures on the operation of State Commissaries and Community Markets; and

Whereas, It is within the knowledge of those in the business of merchandising food stuffs that the dispensing of these commodities through State Commissaries and Community Markets will not result in any material saving over present methods in view of the extensive organization that must be set up and maintained, therefore,

Be It Resolved, That this Association go on record against the establishment of State Commissaries and Community Markets in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

Be It Further Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to each member of the Emergency Relief Board.

PETITION FROM THE LANCASTER COUNTY COUNCIL,
DISTRICT No. 10, OF THE AMERICAN LEGION, PRO-TESTING AGAINST THE PASSAGE OF THE PROPOSED SCHOOL CODE FOR PENNSYLVANIA

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication:

LANCASTER COUNTY COUNCIL DISTRICT No. 10,
AMERICAN LEGION

Lancaster, Pa., February 17, 1933.

General E. C. Shannon,
Lieutenant Governor,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Whereas, A proposed School Code of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been presented to the present session of the Legislature for passage, which provides that the State Council of Education shall have the power to maintain and operate such number of State Teachers Colleges, not exceeding ten, as the State Council of Education shall deem expedient, and

Whereas, The said proposed School Code further provides for radical changes in the organization, management and control of the public schools, and

Whereas, The American Legion as a part of its great program is desirous of devoting particular attention to educational affairs, and is of the opinion that in the development of its educational program no matter is more worthy of consideration than the management, operation and control of the public school system of the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, From the information that has been obtained it is considered necessary to protest the passage of the proposed School Code to the Honorable Legislative Authorities of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the following reasons:

1. That all of the thirteen State Teachers Colleges and the Cheyney Training School for Teachers are necessary parts of the public school system of the Commonwealth, and should continue to be operated, maintained and properly supported by sufficient appropriation from the State Treasury to enable the said State Institutions to function in the preparation and training of the necessary teaching force for our public school system.

2. That the management and operation of the said Teachers Colleges by the State Council of Education would be inefficient and would lack the necessary personal touch and consideration always necessary for the management of institutions of the importance of the State Teachers Colleges.

3. That there is a contractual relationship existing between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the resident of the communities where the State Teachers Colleges are located, which would be broken, invalidated and the rights of these communities taken from them without any consideration or recompense.

4. That the proposed plan of organization of the public school system is unfair to the taxpayers, and deprives school districts and the taxpayers thereof of property rights, without proper consideration or compensation.

5. That the whole plan proposed in the said School Code is a well conceived plan to remove the public school system from local control, to deprive the taxpayer, the parent and head of the household of control of the management of the public school system.

6. That the plan proposed is a well conceived plan to remove the government of the schools from the common people and vest it in the control of an educational aristocracy.

7. That the entire plan proposed is revolutionary.

8. That the proponents of this revised School Code, under the guise of economy, are attempting to impose this plan of bureaucracy on the common people at a time when they are in great financial distress, and in answer to their appeal for relief of tax burdens.

No, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That Lancaster County Council District No. 10, the American Legion does respectfully protest the passage of the proposed School Code by the Legislative Authorities of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the reasons above set forth.

Further Resolved, That copies of these resolutions, properly certified, be forwarded to the Governor of the Commonwealth, to the Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth, to members of the Senate and House of Representatives of Lancaster County Districts, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to the Press, requesting the said Legislative Authorities to refuse to pass and approve the said proposed School Code.

GREGG D. BREITEGAN,
Commander District No. 10.

HERBERT GANSMAN,
Secretary District No. 10.

The PRESIDENT. The communication will be printed in the Legislative Journal.

STATE OF ARIZONA,
ELEVENTH LEGISLATURE,
REGULAR SESSION.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 2

Urging state legislatures to petition Congress to pass United States Senate Bill 1197, known as the Frazier Bill, and to amend said bill to include ranchers and livestock owners. Be it resolved by the Eleventh Legislature of the State of Arizona, that

A crisis exists and hundreds of thousands of once prosperous farmers, ranchers and livestock owners in this nation have already lost their homes and their all by mortgage foreclosures because of the fact that the price of agricultural products and livestock have for years been below the cost of production, a condition that affects all of the people of this nation, and is largely responsible for the continuance of the depression; and

There is no adequate way of refinancing existing agricultural indebtedness and the farmers, ranchers and livestock owners are at the mercy of their mortgagees and creditors; and

Unless immediate relief is given, thousands and hundreds of thousands of additional farmers, ranchers and livestock owners will lose their farms, ranches and livestock and their homes, and millions more will be forced into our cities and villages, and the army of unemployed will necessarily increase to alarming proportions, precipitating a condition that threatens the very life of this nation; and

The state legislatures of Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nevada and Illinois have each and all petitioned Congress to pass Senate Bill 1197, known as the Frazier Bill, without delay; which bill provides that existing farm indebtedness shall be refinanced by the government of the United States at one and one-half per cent. (1½%) interest and one and one-half per cent. (1½%) principal on the amortization plan, and through mortgages on livestock at three per cent. (3%) per annum, not by issuing bonds and plunging the nation further into debt, but by issuing federal reserve notes the same as the government now does for the banks through the federal reserve bank: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved that the legislature of the State of Arizona respectfully requests and petitions the legislatures of the other states that have not already done so to petition Congress to pass Senate Bill 1197 without delay, and amend same to include ranches, ranges and livestock, in order that the agricultural and ranch indebtedness of this nation may be speedily liquidated and refinanced, and agriculture and livestock saved from utter ruin and destruction, and this depression brought to an intelligent and speedy end; and respectfully requests that the state legislatures cause copies of such resolution, after same has been passed, to be sent to the President of the United States, to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, to Senator Frazier at Washington, D. C., and to William Lemke, Congressman-elect, at Fargo, North Dakota; be it further

Resolved that the secretary of state cause sufficient copies of this resolution to be printed and that he mail a copy to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of each of the states that have not as yet petitioned Congress to pass Senate Bill 1197, requesting the said resolution be read before each of said bodies; and be it further Resolved that Arizona's representatives in Congress—Senator Henry F. Ashurst, Senator Carl Hayden and Honorable Lewis Douglas—be sent copies of said resolution.

Approved February 2, 1933.

There shall be proper suitable and adequate toilets and lavatories and equipment for cleansing constructed maintained and operated in a clean and sanitary manner

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. OWLETT, Mr. President, I move to amend Section 5, page 7, line 15, by striking out the words "by means of live steam"

Mr. PIERSON, Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. OWLETT, Mr. President, this is a bill providing for the manufacture of ice cream and relating to matters of sterilization and sale. Section 5 of this bill provides that "Every ice cream plant shall be maintained and operated with strict regard for the purity and wholesomeness of the ice cream," and so forth, and provides that the utensils used in the manufacture of ice cream shall be thoroughly sterilized by means of live steam. This amendment I have offered strikes out the words "by means of live steam," and leaves the Act so that it provides that the utensils shall be thoroughly sterilized. The bill as offered with the term "by means of live steam," I submit, Mr. President, would mean that every small dealer in ice cream, every small manufacturer, every bakery that manufactures its own ice cream for sale, every drug store that manufactures, would not be able to do so, because of inability to meet the requirement of using and having available live steam for sterilizing utensils. I attended with the Chairman the meetings of the Committee that considered this bill, and in that Committee it was brought out that in no plant which sterilized by the use of steam and boiling water and certain mixtures for sterilization was there any complaint, but that there was in plants where they have live steam available. This bill was brought out as a bill sponsored by the wholesale manufacturers of ice cream, and I submit, Mr. President, that clause is designed with the sole purpose of putting the small manufacturer out of business; and it seems to me that if this bill provides that the utensils used in the manufacture of ice cream shall be thoroughly sterilized, it is ample protection for the public. The ice cream manufacturers were here in a body before this committee who say that this bill should be passed and professed their interest was due solely to their desire to protect the public. Personally I fear the Greeks bearing gifts. I desire this amendment to be adopted.

Mr. ARON, Mr. President, as sponsor of this bill, I desire to say that I am not in the business of manufacturing ice cream, but I did it on information which I have from the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers. They claim that the efficient sterilization of the equipment of an ice cream plant is necessary for the protection of the consumer. Ice cream is a dairy product, and, therefore, a perishable product, and it is in the interest of the public to see that it is manufactured in a wholesome manner. This cannot be accomplished unless the equipment is properly sterilized. All the equipment of an ice cream plant cannot be thoroughly sterilized unless by live steam. This was recently brought out by tests made in Pennsylvania State College and the New York Agricultural Experimental Station, when it was found that not all freezers could be properly sterilized without the use of live steam. The International Association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors, an organization composed of the heads of departments supervising the inspection of dairy plants, and men who are considered experts in the matter of proper sanitation, advocate live steam in ice cream plants. The sanitary control committee of the Inspectors Association included the following clause in the suggested sanitary regulations for ice cream, worked out co-operatively by that organization and this association. They have enclosed in a letter to me this sanitary code, section five of which is as follows: "Steam and hot water: Ice Cream manufacturing plants shall be equipped with the facilities for supplying and using an abundance of hot water and live steam for cleansing and sterilizing purposes."

This bill has the support of the legitimate ice cream manufacturers of the State of Pennsylvania. I have a letter here from Dr. Kellogg, who has been in charge of the ice cream bureau of the Department of Agriculture of the State of Pennsylvania for a period of twenty-five years. He endorses this bill as it is presented to the Senate tonight. I also have here letters from the Hershey Ice Cream Company, the Sunbury Milk Products Company, of Sunbury, The Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company, The Williamsport Milk Products Company, of Williamsport, The Tharp Ice Cream Company, of Shamokin, The Smith and Clark Company, of Scranton, The Pennsylvania Milk Products Corporation, of Harrisburg, and The Philadelphia Dairy Products Company, of Philadelphia.

Now this bill is not intended to hurt the little fellow in any way, shape or form. At the public hearing we asked some of these protestants regarding the cost of installing live steam apparatus, and none of them said that the cost would exceed one hundred and fifty dollars or two hundred dollars. I submit that this is not a prohibitive proposition. If a man starts a manufacturing plant and spends thousands of dollars in keeping it up, he certainly can afford to spend a hundred or two hundred dollars to keep his plant so that it can be sterilized with live steam, which means that the ice cream will be so clean that our people can use it. I will ask the Senate to sustain the Committee.

Mr. OWLETT, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron, if it was not brought out in the Committee of Health and Sanitation in New York State, where a similar act has been in force for some time, and which provides for thorough sterilization, whether or not the Department of Agriculture of the State of New York has not regulations providing that the sterilization shall be either by live steam, by the use of boiling water or by the use of a chlorine solution. Was not that brought out in the hearing?

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, it was.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator a question or two, whether there is not a regulation now as to the sterilization of ice cream plants by law.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I think there is.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if the adoption of these regulations, as the gentleman from Tioga has said, would not put out of business druggists and people who manufacture ice cream in a small way?

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I think perhaps there are others here who can answer that question better than I can.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will say that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron, as the sponsor of the bill should be able to answer the question.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I say this bill does not put the little fellow out of business. As I said before, it requires the expenditure of a hundred or two hundred dollars to equip a plant, and that is not prohibitive.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I do not know a great deal about the ice cream business, but this looks to me like another effort to put the little fellow out of business just as the wholesale dealers in milk put the little fellow out of business. I cannot see any reason for a regulation that will put the little manufacturers to this expense, even though it is a hundred or two hundred dollars which they can hardly spend. I know nothing about the ice cream business, but I think it is a shame and an outrage to force upon the small dealers of this State at this time something which to a great many would mean ruin and compel them to go out of business. I think we ought to be slow in passing regulatory legislation when the people are now struggling to make a living. Of course, the large manufacturer can turn on the live steam, but it seems to me, with the Senator from Tioga, that hot water and chemicals are as good as live steam; and therefore I support the Senator from Tioga.

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President, I can understand one of the reasons of the Senator from Philadelphia for wanting that bill passed. The Association of Inspectors has endorsed that bill. We all know that there are now going up and down the State entirely too many inspectors. We do not want any more. We do not want to increase that army of inspectors who are patrolling the highways and byways of this State at the State's expense and doubling up the work of each department. I agree with Senator Buckman in saying there are a lot of small ice cream manufacturers who do not have any steam apparatus. They would not support the contention that the ice cream they make is unwholesome and should not be served at a church supper. This is not the time to pass a bill that will put anybody out of business. We are trying to get people in business. I do not blame the big manufacturers for wanting more business, for everybody needs business; but I do not want to get anybody out of business.

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President, I would like a little information. Will this bill require the addition of a special bureau of live steam sterilization and a payroll?

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I say it would not create any new jobs whatever.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I hate at this late time to make any discussion, but I think there are thousands of people interested in this bill that we are considering tonight. I should like to say that if the Senator from Philadelphia is talking about the health of children I am surprised that he does not bring in the widows and orphans. The bill cannot be effective because it exempts hotels and restaurants. I take it that a person eating ice cream in a hotel where the ice cream is not made according to the plan adopted by the International Manufacturers Association may be subject to the same thing.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron, will state his point of order.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is not talking on the amendment.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am talking exactly on the amendment.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, the amendment refers to live steam.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if this bill becomes a law, as I see it, there is no reason why live steam should not be used in a restaurant. In addition to that, it is not so much the installation that is involved here as the making of the ice cream. Because there is a grocery store or drug store that makes ice cream twice a day these gentlemen insist that he shall place a boiler in his cellar so that it shall generate steam and maintain it, at a cost which is prohibitive, for the purpose of making ice cream.

I have two other amendments which I propose to offer. If those amendments are acted upon it will eliminate the exception of hotels and restaurants and also the other clause, which I think is the joker clause, and it makes the whole bill unconstitutional, which I will talk upon at the proper time. I think this amendment ought to be adopted, because it protects the small man.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, said that he has other amendments to offer. I do not believe we can act on all of these amendments. I move that this bill be referred back to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if the bill goes back to committee, it should go back to the Committee on Agriculture where it belongs.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, let us put in the amendments and then send it back.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion to recommit for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I withdraw my second to the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The motion has been withdrawn.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment? It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

RESOLUTIONS

CONSTRUCTION OF PARTITION IN REAR OF HOUSE

Mr. WILSON offered a resolution which was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1933.

Resolved, That the Department of Property and Supplies shall construct and cause to be erected, in accordance with plans and specifications already prepared, a partition in the rear of the Hall of the House of Representatives immediately adjacent to the present brass rail in order to minimize the noise and annoyance to Members caused by persons in the rear of the Hall of the House during sessions of the House;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Department of Property and Supplies by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, this resolution comes from the Rules Committee in response to repeated complaints to the Speaker from members of this House, who in the rear of the House, first that they are unable to transact their business and hear what is going on in the House, due to the noise and confusion behind the rail, and for the further reason that the members of the House are complaining that not only are they urged, while they are sitting in their seats by persons outside of the rail, to vote in certain ways upon measures pending before the House, but that when they have voted and when they have performed duties, they are subject to criticism, and abuse, because they have voted as their consciences have told them they should vote.

It is the duty of the Speaker to protect the members of the House and see that they are allowed to perform their duties without annoyance, without discourtesy and without criticism.

These complaints he has transmitted to the Rules Committee, and they have directed that this resolution be presented to the House, and it is now before you for the sole purpose of taking care of the members in the rear of the House and protecting them so that they can have leisure and quiet and the opportunity to perform their duties, free from the annoyance of those behind the rail.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO COMPEL CONTRACTORS TO DISCHARGE ALIEN LABOR ON GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

Mr. EDERER offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1933.

Whereas, England, France, Germany, Italy, and many other countries have in the present distress of unemployment of their native citizens passed legislation prohibiting the employment of any alien on any government or private work while their citizens are suffering from unemployment, and

Whereas, There may be many contractors doing Federal Government work that are taking the un-American attitude of a certain sub-contractor, who, over the protest of veterans and other American citizens in Philadelphia, insist he shall employ as many aliens as he may desire in place of American citizens in the construction of the new Federal Post Office now being built in West Philadelphia by the money of American tax payers, and

Whereas, The Congress of the United States in less than six weeks ago passed legislation excluding foreign made machinery from being used in the construction of Boulder Dam, and

Whereas, The employment of aliens on government work in place of veterans and other American citizens that are qualified to perform said work will, if not stopped, cause sooner or later serious trouble in America, and

Be It Resolved, That it is the consensus of the opinion of the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania that Congress should, before adjourning March 4, pass legislation compelling all contractors now on Federal construction work to at once discharge all aliens now working on Government work that can be replaced by American citizens that are qualified to do the work, also prohibit in the future any contractor or sub-contractor doing Government work from employing any alien, unless no American can do the work required, and

Be it further resolved, That the Clerk of the House be instructed to send copies of this Resolution to the presiding officers of both House and Senate of the Congress of the United States at Washington, D. C., with the request that the Resolution be read and then be referred to the proper committee for immediate action, and

Be it further resolved, That the Clerk of the House be instructed to send copies of this Resolution to every member of both Houses of the Congress of United States from Pennsylvania with the request that they use their united efforts to have Congress act immediately on this proposed American unemployment relief measure, and

Be it further resolved, That the Clerk of the House be instructed to send copies of this Resolution to Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State Legislatures that are now in session with the request that they take the same action for the welfare of the unemployed American citizens of their State.

URGING PASSAGE OF LEGISLATION REGULATING MOTOR VEHICLES

Mr. PETERS offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1933.

Whereas, Various bills have been introduced seeking to further regulate the transportation of passengers and freight by motor vehicles; and

Whereas, The correct and equitable solution of this important question cannot be solved by the lone action of one state without detriment to its own citizens through the breaking down of reciprocal relations between states; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the American Legislators' Association be requested by the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to call a regional conference of the representatives of the States of Maine New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with the view of framing reciprocal and uniform legislation and regulations relating to the sizes, weights, heights and lengths of motor vehicles, for the transportation of passengers and freight which shall be permitted in the interests of the public safety, and to make recommendations to the legislatures of said several states for the adoption of such legislation at a uniform date;

RESOLUTION No. 33

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 33, Printer's No. 97.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

Whereas, Various sections of the Constitution contain provisions referring to the number of votes required for the transaction of certain business and

Resolved That any rule of the House of Representatives founded on a provision of the Constitution inconsistent with this interpretation shall until amended be construed in accordance with the Constitutional provision upon which founded

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House. The Resolution now before the House has received the very careful consideration of the Committee on Rules and represents its mature judgment on the questions of quorums and constitutional majorities as those questions apply to the present situation in this House and as to situations which are possible to occur before the end of the present Session.

Personally, I have given these questions considerable study and extending over quite a period of time, in fact from the Sessions of '31 and '32 when the set-up of the House gave rise to like questions resulting in investigations into the law at that time.

In view of the importance of these questions it is requested that the members read carefully the Resolution as it will be found in the files and the discussion may, therefore, be more readily followed.

The facts as well as the possible situations which may arise are briefly as follows:

By the terms of the Constitution and the Apportionment Act of membership of this House is placed at 208. At the November election 207 members were elected. One of the candidates who received the highest number of votes and who would therefore have been elected had he lived, died several days before the election. Of the 207 members elected 206 have qualified and taken the oath of office, one by reason of illness not being able to qualify. The functioning membership of the House, therefore, is 206. These are the facts, but further possible situations may occur by subsequent deaths or resignations by some of the 206. The latter was the situation in the previous Sessions of '31 and '32 wherein at one time there were two deaths of members who had been elected and qualified and two resignations by members who had been likewise elected and qualified.

The pertinent provisions of the Constitution are as follows:

Article 2, Section 10. A majority of each House shall constitute a quorum, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day and compel the attendance of absent members.

Article 2, Section 11. Each House shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence, to enforce obedience to its process, to protect its members against violence or offers of bribes or private solicitation, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, to expel a member, but not a second time for the same cause, and shall have all other powers necessary for the Legislature of a free State. A member expelled for corruption shall not thereafter be eligible to either House, and punishment for contempt or disorderly behavior shall not bar an indictment for the same offense.

Article 3, Section 4. Every bill shall be read at length on three different days in each House; all amendments made thereto shall be printed for the use of the members before the final vote is taken on the bill, and no bill shall become a law, unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the persons voting for and against the same be entered on the Journal, and a majority of the members elected to each House, be recorded thereon as voting in its favor.

Article 3, Section 17. No appropriation shall be made to any charitable or educational institution not under the absolute control of the Commonwealth, other than normal schools established by law for the professional training of teachers for the public schools of the State, except by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each House.

Article 3, Section 26. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of both Houses may be necessary, except on the question of adjournment, shall be presented to the Governor and before it shall take effect be approved by him, or being disapproved, shall be repassed by two-thirds of both Houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Article 4, Section 15. Every bill which shall have passed both Houses shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if he shall not approve he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it shall have originated, which House shall enter the objections at large upon their Journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of all the members elected to that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objections to the other House by which likewise it shall be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of all the members elected to that House it shall be a law; but in such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the Journals of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall be a law, unless he shall file the same with his objections, in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and give notice thereof by public proclamation within thirty days after such adjournment.

It will be observed that the provisions of Article 2, Sections 10 and 11 differ in the requirements as to numbers from the provisions of Article 3, Sections 4, 17 and 26 and those of Article 4, Section 15.

The two sections as quoted from Article 2, refer simply to questions of procedure in the organization of the House and this is borne out by the designation of Article 2, as dealing with "The Legislature."

On the other hand the provisions as quoted from Article 3, have reference wholly to the subject matter of the article, viz: "Legislation."

The provisions of Article 4, Section 15, as quoted are under the designation of Article 4, "The Executive."

Consequently, the generalization is that it does not require the same numbers for the conduct of the general business of the House as it does for the passing of legislation in the first instance and over the Governor's veto.

With these observations let us proceed to the consideration of the first paragraph of the Resolution following the preamble, which provides that the term "Members elected" as used in the Constitution directly or by reference, shall be construed to include all Members elected in accordance with law, whether or not actually members of the House when action is taken, but shall not be construed to include members authorized to be elected by law where there was a failure to elect."

By the provisions of Article 3, Sections 4, 17 and 26 and those of Article 4, Section 15, as already quoted the expression is found in each section "Members elected to each House" and refer to either a majority or a two-thirds quota thereof. If 208 were actually elected whether all of them qualified or not they would have to be counted under the provisions of the Constitution and a majority would therefore be 105 and a two-third number would be 139 members of the House.

However, under the facts as already presented 207 members were elected and it is obvious that a candidate would not be elected who was not living at the time of the election. In reading the numerous cases cited in 2 Dillon on Municipal Corporations, Fifth Edition, Section 530, it appears that the weight of authority is that the phrase "Members elected to each House" is to be construed as meaning "all the members actually elected to such House" whether then members or not.

This construction is supported in a very recent case taken from the advance Reports of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Derrings v. Donovan, 308 Pa. 469, wherein the Supreme Court had before it the question whether a school director had been elected in a certain school district. It appears there were four candidates for the office, and two were to be elected. The candidate who received the largest number of votes died six days before the election, and no substitute was made for him. The Supreme Court said:

"The principles of popular government require that votes cast for a dead man as a candidate for public office shall not be considered mere nullities but that they shall be regarded as expressions by the voters that they prefer the office to be declared temporarily vacant until it can be filled in the manner provided by law * * *

Our conclusion is that where the votes cast for a dead candidate for public office would be, were he alive, sufficient to elect him, that the office becomes vacant on the day that he would, but for his death, have assumed its duties."

It is apparent from the reasoning that in this very recent case no person was elected to the office. If a situation should arise in the legislative body where a vacancy would exist because the voters had voted for a dead man who could not assume the office, it seems reasonable to say that in this case there would not have been any person elected to the office, and that such a person could not be counted in determining a majority of the members elected to the House.

The only case which appears to be contrary to weight of authority as to what is meant by majority of the "Members elected to a House" is the case of Osburn v. Staley, 13 Am. Rep. 640. In that case it appeared that the complete membership of the Senate was 22, and that before the vote was taken on a bill, one of the members resigned. The act passed upon by the courts was adopted by 11 members. The point of order was raised in the Senate that the bill had not received a Constitutional majority. The President of the Senate ruled that 11 votes were sufficient. The court in passing upon this statute, questioned the decision of the Senate and thought it violated the spirit of the Constitution, but probably not the letter; and since there was some doubt, it upheld the statute, saying "that the language of the Constitution could be construed to mean that a person must be a member, as well as elected, and that if a Senator resigned his seat and his resignation was accepted, he was no longer a member, although he had been elected."

However, as mentioned, the weight of authority seems to be the other way, and probably the wisest course to pursue in construing Section 4, Article III on the passage of bills is to require a majority of all the members elected to the House, excluding any who were not actually elected under the reasoning in the Derrings case, that is, excluding those provided for in the Apportionment Law where there was a failure to elect. As applied to the present House, this would require a majority of 207 or 104 for the passage of the bill, since there is a vacancy in one district where the majority of votes were cast for a dead man.

Likewise this will change the two-thirds vote from 139 of 208 to 138 of 207. These numbers, however, would not be affected by any subsequent deaths or resignations, the rule being to count the number of members who were actually elected.

The second paragraph of the Resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That the term "a majority of each House" as used in the Constitution shall be construed to mean a majority of those members elected, sworn and living, whose membership has not been terminated by death, resignation or otherwise, or held in abeyance by failure to qualify."

Referring back to the provisions of the Constitution already quoted, Section 10, Article 2 of the Constitution provides that a majority of each House shall constitute a quorum.

Section 5, Article 1 of the U. S. Constitution provides that "a majority of each (House) shall constitute a quorum to do business."

This provision of the U. S. Constitution has been construed by both Houses of Congress as follows:

"A quorum consists of a majority of those members chosen, sworn and living whose membership has not terminated by resignation or by action of the House." (Jefferson, Section 53, page 18).

This rule of construction applied to our Constitutional clause, which has the same language, would fix the present House quorum at 104.

House Rule No. 9 provides that:

"A majority of all the members elected to the House shall constitute a quorum."

The question now arises whether this rule is in reality an interpretation of our constitutional provision, or whether it was simply adopted under the belief that it accorded with the constitutional provision, and failing to so accord, whether the rule is unconstitutional.

The language of the Constitution seems plain. It speaks of "a majority of each House," and not a majority of the members elected to the House. If the House actually consists of 206 members, then the constitutional provision seems to require only 104, since that constitutes a majority of the House. If the rule requires 105, then it must fall as inconsistent. The test applied by the Constitution is simply membership. A member who has resigned and a member who has died is not a member. So also a person who has been unseated is no longer a member. Such persons cannot be counted in fixing a quorum to do business.

In Section II, Article 2 of the Constitution, the power is conferred on each House "to expel a member with the concurrence of two-thirds." In the absence of further qualifying language, this section undoubtedly must be construed as meaning two-thirds of those present, a quorum being present, and not two-thirds of the membership of the House as it existed at the time when members of the particular House were elected.

As has been noted the clause does not say the majority of the members elected shall constitute a quorum but a majority of each House. It would seem to follow, therefore, that this phrase is to be construed as including only the actual membership of the House and that in addition to the vacancy already referred to there should be eliminated all those who might die since their election or resign or fail to qualify. This interpretation is in accord with the Federal Constitution and Jefferson's Manual as already quoted. Thus the membership of the present House for the calculation of a majority is 206 there being one vacancy by a failure to elect and one member who has not qualified.

It is of course, to be noted that where only a majority of the members would be present the House might not have power to pass a bill because there would not be present a majority of the members elected to the House as this phrase has been interpreted. However, other business could be transacted, such as first and second reading bills, since the Constitutional provision on votes only applies to final passage. The House might also take any other action which would not require a majority of the members elected to the House. This point, however, would not arise at present since a majority of the present House of 206 is 104, the same as a majority of the members elected to the House, 207-104.

The conclusion of the matter is that by the terms of the Resolution and according to the facts a constitutional majority for the final passage of bills is 104 and a two-thirds majority 138 and a quorum of the House is placed at 104. The constitutional majority cannot be changed but the quorum majority may change by future deaths or resignations of members.

The present rules of the House will, therefore, be read in the light of the present resolution if the same is adopted.

Needless to say, the resolution, the facts and the discussion thereon have no political significance whatsoever but it is deemed advisable to have these questions set at rest and not left to the determination of the House at a time when a close vote is experienced and controversial matters are under consideration. Furthermore, it is submitted that the Resolution is sound constitutionally and should be adopted.

Mr. Speaker, in conjunction with the presentation that has already been made, I would desire to file and have as a part of the Journal the brief that I have prepared on this subject.

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the brief of the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton, will be noted in the Journal and spread in full in the Legislative Journal. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and request of the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton, will be complied with.

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

BRIEF

In Re: Constitutional Majorities and Quorums

In The

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

In reading the numerous cases cited in 2 Dillion in Municipal Corporations, (Fifth Ed.) Sec. 530, it seems that the weight of authority is that the phrase "Members elected to each House" should be construed to mean "all the Members actually elected to such House" whether then Members or not, but there seems to be no justification to include all the Members which are provided for by the Apportionment Act as is indicated in a few cases. It can very readily happen that all of the Members provided for by that act have not actually been elected. In the recent case of Derringe v. Donovan, 308 Pa. 469, the Supreme Court had before it the question whether a school director had been elected in a certain school district. It appears there were four candidates for the office, and two were to be elected. The candidate who received the largest number of votes died six days before the election, and no substitute was made for him. The Supreme Court said:

The principles of popular government require that votes cast for a dead man as a candidate for public office shall not be considered mere nullities but that they shall be regarded as expressions by the voters that they prefer the office to be declared temporarily vacant until it can be filled in the manner provided by law. * * *

Our conclusion is that where the votes cast for a dead candidate for public office would be, were he alive, sufficient to elect him, that the office becomes vacant on the day that he would, but for his death, have assumed its duties.

It is apparent from the reasoning that in this case no person was elected to the office. If a situation should arise in the legislative body where a vacancy would exist because the voters had voted for a dead man who could not assume the office, it seems reasonable to say that in this case there would not have been any person elected to the office, and that such a person could not be counted in determining a majority of the Members elected to the House.

The only case which appears to be contrary to weight of authority as to what is meant by majority of the "Members elected to a House" is the case of Osburn v. Staley, 13 Am. Rep. 640. In that case it appeared that the complete membership of the Senate was 22, and that before the vote was taken on a bill, one of the Members resigned. The act passed upon by the courts was adopted by 11 Members. The point of order was raised in the Senate that the bill had not received a Constitutional majority. The President of the Senate ruled that 11 votes were sufficient. The court in passing upon this statute, questioned the decision of the Senate and thought it violated the spirit of the Constitution, but probably not the letter; and since there was some doubt, it upheld the statute, saying that the language of the Constitution could be construed to mean that a person must be a Member, as well as elected, and that if a Senator resigned his seat and his resignation was accepted, he was no longer a Member, although he had been elected.

However, as mentioned, the weight of authority seems to be the other way, and probably the wisest course to pursue in construing Section 4, Article III on the passage of bills is to require a majority of all the Members elected to the House, excluding any who were not actually elected under the reasoning in the Derringe case, that is, excluding those provided for in the Apportionment Law where there was a failure to elect. As applied to the present House, this would require a majority of 207 or 104 for the passage of the bill, since there is a vacancy in one district where the majority of votes were cast for a dead man.

In Section 10, Article II of the Constitution, it is provided that a majority of each House shall constitute a quorum. This language is different from that which relates to the passage of bills. The clause does not say that a majority of the Members elected shall constitute a quorum, but a majority of each House. It would seem to follow that when this phrase is construed that only the actual membership of the House should be counted, and that in addition to the vacancy above referred to, there should be eliminated all those who have died since their election or have resigned or have failed to qualify. This interpretation follows the interpretation made by both Houses of Congress which is as follows:

"A quorum constitutes a majority of those members chosen, sworn and living whose membership has not terminated by resignation or by action of the House."

This interpretation was made on Section 5, Article I of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that a majority of each House shall constitute a quorum to do business, which is the same as the Pennsylvania clause. Thus the membership of the present House for the calculation of a majority is 206 there being one vacancy by a failure to elect and one member who has not qualified.

It is, of course, to be noted that where only a majority of the Members would be present the House might not have power to pass a bill because there would not be present a majority of the Members elected to the House as this phrase has been interpreted. However, other business could be transacted, such as first and second reading bills, since the Constitutional provision on votes only applies to final passage. The House might also take any other action which would not require a majority of the Members elected to the House. This point, however, would not arise at present since a majority of the present House of 206 is 104, the same as a majority of the Members elected to the House, 207—104.

I would construe the phrase "a majority of the Members elected to each House" to mean a majority of the entire membership of the House elected according to law. The phrase does not include membership authorized by law where there was a failure to elect.

I would construe the phrase "a majority of each House" to mean a majority of those Members elected, sworn and living whose membership has not been terminated by death, resignation or otherwise, or held in abeyance by failure to qualify.

PREVENTING FORECLOSURE ON JUDGMENTS

Mr. SHUGARTS offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1933.

Whereas, Many of the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are in dire financial distress through no fault of their own, but find themselves in this condition by force of circumstances beyond their control, and as a result of the present depression, and

Whereas, Many worthy citizens of the Commonwealth are in danger of losing their homes, stock, furniture and savings of a life time by foreclosures and forced sales of personal property, such sales bringing very little return, and tend to reduce the value of all other property, bringing widespread distress, and

Whereas, The constitution of such wholesale forced sales may lead to wide social disorders, and

Whereas, A moratorium on such foreclosures would be to the ultimate good of both creditor and debtor, would restore confidence and good will, and allay the fear and apprehension of the debtor class, and restore courage and renewed activity in business generally.

Be it resolved, That the House of Representatives recommends and requests that where a debtor shows a desire to meet his obligations, preserves and conserves his property, and does not attempt to fraudulently dispose of, secret or remove his property, or wilfully allows it to deteriorate, the creditor shall not foreclose or issue an execution on a judgment for a period of nine months from the adoption of this resolution.

We thank Thee that in hours of our Commonwealth's great need, these Thy servants and handmaidens rise majestically above partisanship and stand shoulder to shoulder in co-operation for the common weal. Continue to bless the rulers, Legislators, officers and all who serve in the administration of State and nation. Strengthen the weak, confirm the strong. Let not the heart of our people fail because of fear. Protect the innocent and helpless and give us peace. Amen.

RESOLUTION No. 35

Mr. EDERER. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to call up Resolution No. 35, Printer's No. 120.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 22, 1933.

Whereas, England, France, Germany, Italy, and many other countries have in the present distress of unemployment of their native citizens passed legislation prohibiting the employment of any alien on any government or private work while their citizens are suffering from unemployment, and

Whereas, There may be many contractors doing Federal Government work that are taking the un-American attitude of a certain sub-contractor, who, over the protest of veterans and other American citizens in Philadelphia, insist he shall employ as many aliens as he may desire in place of American citizens in the construction of the new Federal Post Office now being built in West Philadelphia by the money of American tax payers, and

Whereas, The Congress of the United States in less than six weeks ago passed legislation excluding foreign made machinery from being used in the construction of Boulder Dam, and

Whereas, The employment of aliens on government work in place of veterans and other American citizens that are qualified to perform said work will, if not stopped, cause sooner or later serious trouble in America, and

Be it Resolved, That it is the consensus of the opinion of the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania that Congress should, before adjourning March 4, pass legislation compelling all contractors now on Federal construction work to at once discharge all aliens now working on Government work that can be replaced by American citizens that are qualified to do the work, also prohibit in the future any contractor or sub-contractor doing Government work from employing any alien, unless no American can do the work required, and

Be it further resolved, That the Clerk of the House be instructed to send copies of this Resolution to the presiding officers of both House and Senate of the Congress of the United States at Washington, D. C., with the request that the Resolution be read and then be referred to the proper committee for immediate action, and

Be it further resolved, That the Clerk of the House be instructed to send copies of this Resolution to Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State Legislatures that are now in session with the request that they take the same action for the welfare of the unemployed American citizens of their State.

Whereas, A communication has been received from the Unemployed Councils heretofore laid before the House, requesting the privilege of appearing before the Legislature on March 1, 1933; therefore be it

Resolved, That permission be granted the delegates of the Unemployed Councils to appear before the Legislature in the

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO DECLARE NATIONAL EMERGENCY

Mrs. WILSON offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules.

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1932.

Memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States of America to declare the existence of a National Emergency, and to acquire by the right of eminent domain, and to operate the necessary means of production and distribution to provide employment and the necessities of life for the millions of workers now in need.

Whereas, Recurring industrial and commercial panics during the past one hundred years of economic development clearly demonstrate the utter inability of the capitalistic system, based upon wealth production for private profit to function in the interest of the actual producers of our national wealth; and

Whereas, We are now in the midst of the worst panic in the history of this nation, which is adversely affecting the lives and welfare of the entire working population and which if continued any longer will cause serious physical and moral decay within our social organism; and

Whereas, Our political business and social leaders are demonstrating their complete inability to cope with the present situation by the fact that conditions are steadily growing worse as the present panic progresses; and

Whereas, A speedy return to prosperity for the victims of the present collapse of the capitalistic system requires the introduction of such fundamental changes as are necessary to solve our economic problems now; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania declares it to be highest duty of government to protect the lives and promote the welfare and happiness of the people within its jurisdiction and that to accomplish this purpose under the present conditions of nation-wide industrial paralysis unemployment and distress the President and the Congress of the United States of America should recognize and declare the existence of a National Emergency and should face this problem squarely and courageously by acquiring by right of eminent domain and operating such natural resources and means of production and distribution of commodities as will provide employment for all idle workers to enable them to provide for themselves, and their dependents the necessary food, clothing and shelter to maintain themselves in decency and comfort; and be it further

Resolved, That properly attested copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to both houses of the Congress of the United State and to each Pennsylvania member thereof.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 969 (Senate Bill No. 52), entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of sheriffs in counties of the seventh class; providing for the payment for the care and maintenance of prisoners where the sheriff is the keeper of warden of the jail; providing for deputies and their compensation; requiring all fees and mileage earned by sheriffs in such counties to be paid into the county treasury for the use of the county; and prescribing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill applies to seventh class counties. I presume the purpose of the bill is to reduce the county expense by obtaining the fees from the sheriffs.

I have some doubt in my mind, as a member from a seventh class county, whether or not this provision may not increase the county expenses rather than save the county money.

It provides for a salary of three thousand dollars a year for the sheriff, who is now on a fee basis. In addition to that it provides for the appointment of one or more deputies who shall be paid by the county. When you add the salary of the sheriff to the salaries of the deputies, the county may be out of pocket.

I think we should have more information in connection with this bill before we vote on it today. I think that an opportunity should be given to ascertain insofar as seventh class counties may be concerned whether this bill would put more expense upon the county or whether it would be a saving.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties for further consideration.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this motion. When this bill passed the Senate it had the support of every Senator from a seventh class county. I represent a county that has always been a seventh class county—we have now gone into the sixth class—and I say to this House from my experience in the practice of law that this bill will save a large amount of money to the seventh class counties and is introduced for that purpose.

I understand that the sheriff of Tioga County, from which my Senator comes who is the introducer of this bill, received some eleven or twelve or thirteen thousand dollars in fees in the last year. There is no question in my mind nor do I think there is any question in the mind of anybody who represents a seventh class county that the sheriff of that county should be placed on a salary basis. He is the only sheriff that I know of who is not on a salary basis, and the purpose of this act is solely to save the counties of the seventh class the money they are now paying the sheriff.

I have no objection if the gentleman from Monroe wishes to consider the matter further by having the bill placed on the postponed calendar and having it delayed, because I know that I can convince the gentleman from Monroe that the bill will save money for his county and the other seventh class counties, but I do ask the House not to send this bill back to committee, but to keep it on the calendar.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if this bill saves counties of the seventh class money, then I am for it. But there is a question in my mind as to whether it does save my county money. The gentleman from McKean says there should be no question in anybody else's mind that this bill would save money to the seventh class counties. I want to say that there is a question in my mind. Therefore, the only thing that I am asking is that action be deferred until I can ascertain something about the situation in my county.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I agree with that proposition, and if the gentleman from Monroe will withdraw his motion or if the House will vote it down, I will undertake to convince the gentleman from Monroe that it will save his county money.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. I will be very glad to, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from McKean agree that the bill be placed upon the postponed calendar for a few days?

Mr. WILSON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, very well, then I withdraw my last motion and move that the bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 795 (Senate Bill No. 212), entitled:

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The motion was agreed to.

STATEMENT BY MR. TURNER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement with reference to the statement that has just been placed on the desks of the members.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner asks unanimous consent to make a statement. Are there objections? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there has just been placed on your desks a brief summary not of the entire House Bill No. 22, which was reported out this afternoon from the Committee on State Government, but which at least touches the high spots in that bill.

The Committee, as you know, has been working for a number of weeks on the Administrative Code, which is House Bill No. 22, and on some amendments to the Fiscal Code, which is House Bill No. 9. These were reported out this afternoon. House Bill No. 22, being about three hundred pages long, we felt that if a synopsis were made of it, it would assist the members in understanding at least in part what we sought to accomplish.

We have had a great many criticisms of the bill, and you will find that we have restored some of the things that were originally amended out of the Administrative Code.

The Committee has had hearings with the different Department heads and with the representatives of the Departments, and we feel that we have effected economies and a structure to effect economies through this bill.

We trust that the members of the House will give it their earnest consideration, because it is important not alone from our standpoint but I think from the standpoint of the people of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The statement of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will be spread upon the Journal.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. WEIDEMANN. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up House Bill No. 179, Printer's No. 102, on page 5 of today's calendar, which was passed over in order this morning.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 179, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and twelve of the act approved the fourteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred sixty-two) entitled "An act concerning poor relief and the creation and government of poor districts and the administration of the same in all counties of the Commonwealth except in counties of the first and second class and revising amending consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" by providing for depositories for funds of poor districts.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WEIDEMANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. WEIDEMANN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 182, Printer's No. 105, on page 5 of today's calendar, which was passed over in order this morning.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 182, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws one thousand two hundred seventy-eight) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" by providing for a solicitor for the county treasurer and for depositories of county funds in counties of the third class

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LENAHA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Weidemann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEIDEMANN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LENAHA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask, in what respect is a solicitor required for a County Treasurer, particularly in counties of the third class?

Mr. WEIDEMANN. In Delaware County, a county of the third class, a solicitor is appointed in all cases by the County Commissioners. In these times when questions relating to banking and similar matters are coming up, the information asked for from the County Commissioners—in some cases the County Commissioners do not agree with the County Treasurer—the information given by the County Solicitor would naturally be tinged with the leaning of the County Commissioners.

In this case it is a "may" bill. If you do not wish the appointment you do not have to have it made. I ask that you favor the bill under those conditions.

Mr. LENAHA. Is it not possible to ascertain the same information from an officer in charge other than a special solicitor?

Mr. WEIDEMANN. It would have to be secured from a solicitor, and the information required is such that it is almost continuous and it is not proper to impose upon a solicitor the duty of giving information without a fee. In this case the fee is set by the County Salary Board, and in our particular county the fee is not over five hundred dollars.

Mr. LENAHA. Would, in your opinion, the salary paid a solicitor for the information desired on a particular question warrant the appointment of a solicitor at a salary the year around?

Mr. WEIDEMANN. With the information that I have I believe that the salary imposed under this bill would be saved several times if the County Treasurer had his own solicitor.

Mr. LENAHA. Mr. Speaker and Ladies and Gentlemen of the House: I arise to oppose this bill on the ground that the State Legislature has for its purpose in this session the saving of taxpayers' money throughout the length and breadth of this Commonwealth, and I see no reason now, in the line of the economies proposed, why we should burden the counties of the third class with the obligation to pay for a solicitor, as under the gentlemen's statement, his opinion may be only used infrequently and that he may be called upon on rare occasions to render an opinion to the County Treasurer.

I know in my County of Luzerne the people are overburdened by taxation at the present time and that they cannot now tolerate an added burden by paying the salary of a man who possibly will be called upon one or two times in the course of his term to render an opinion, and I feel that the members of this House, if their purpose is to further economies, whether they are affected by this bill or not, as it applies, as I am led to understand, to counties of the third class, whether it affects them or not, I wish the members of the House should vote down this bill.

Mr. WEIDEMANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the members of the House to the fact that on page 2 line 4 of this bill, it states that the treasurer may appoint a solicitor. Now, if the gentleman from Luzerne has the proper type of treasurer and does not need a solicitor, he does not have to operate under this bill.

We, in Delaware County, feel that the bill is necessary, and we would like to have the privilege of appointing a solicitor and we would also like to have you vote aye on the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Grant Thy favor upon these elected and appointed rulers, legislators, and servants of the Commonwealth. There is a heavy responsibility, that of changing the wickedness of our people to gladness. Sustain them with Thy spirit and power. May they not be discouraged, when the people grow impatient and unreasonable thru lack of knowledge. Inspire our Speaker and his coadjutors today in the face of grave situations. May they act with reason and restraint, and may their policies be humane and constructive.

Guard us while we are absent one from another. Amen.

URGING RESPONSE TO BANKING RESOLUTION

Mr. CORDIER offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, March 1, 1933.

Whereas, The security of the deposits in all banking institutions in the Commonwealth has been strengthened and the danger of the failure of such banking institutions caused by a run thereon due to the fear of depositors as to its solvency has been greatly lessened by the passage of Pamphlet Law Resolution No. 4 of the Session of 1933 by this Legislature on Monday, February 28th, authorizing and directing the Secretary of Banking not to take possession of any banking institution under the supervision of the Department of Banking of this Commonwealth because of the decision of such institution not to meet in full its liabilities for deposits made prior to the passage of this resolution or prior to any future date fixed by such institution, if such institution shall have accepted such terms as the Secretary of Banking shall have imposed, which terms shall include the segregation of new deposits in a separate fund available for withdrawal without limitation by the depositors making such deposits and invested only in liquid assets;

Whereas, The safety of deposits hereafter made is assured thereby and the depositing of moneys in banks and the carrying on of business through the methods provided by the banking facilities of the Commonwealth has been freed of the danger of financial loss; and,

Whereas, Business can be encouraged and will prosper if moneys heretofore withdrawn and now hoarded by those who feared financial loss will place the moneys so hoarded into circulation; and

Whereas, The passage of said resolution, together with the legislation that will be enacted to effectuate the provisions thereof as guaranteed by this Legislature, has already restored the confidence of many people in the return of normal conditions; therefore be it

Resolved, That the people of the Commonwealth are urged to respond to this guarantee made possible by the passage of the Resolution, by withdrawing from hiding the vast amounts of money that have been taken out of circulation by them, and restore to business the benefits that such release will undoubtedly accomplish.

COMMUNICATION

DEMANDS OF DELEGATES, PENNSYLVANIA STATE HUNGER MARCH.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House a communication which the Clerk will read.

The communication was read by the Clerk as follows:

DEMANDS OF THE DELEGATES TO THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE HUNGER MARCH, MARCH 1ST, 1933.

To the Joint Session of the Pennsylvania State Legislature:
To the Governor of Pennsylvania:

Hunger and misery are wide spread among the two million unemployed and their families in the State of Pennsylvania. According to the figures of Governor Pinchot, more than 420,000 children in the schools are undernourished. The Industrial Research Department of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania has made a survey which reveals that more than 164,000 families in Philadelphia are suffering from actual hunger, evictions, and cold. The Allegheny County Welfare Board had to admit that more than 35,000 single women are an object of charity. In the whole of Western Pennsylvania, particularly in the mining fields, hunger is staring in the face of every worker.

Similar conditions exist in all other counties in the State. Not only the unemployed, but hundreds of thousands of partially employed workers in the mining, steel, textile and other industries are faced with starvation conditions.

STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS REFUSE TO TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE CONDITIONS OF THE HUNGRY MASSES

In the face of the undescrivable misery, the various city administrations have completely refused to appropriate any relief to the unemployed. The relief provided by the State is entirely inadequate. Unemployed families are forced to live on a $3.00 and $4.00 a week food order. In Western Pennsylvania the standard of relief is even lower. No provisions are made for the payment of rents, with the result that thousands of families are evicted from their homes daily. Negro workers are discriminated against in the relief distribution, and in many cases are refused relief altogether. Single workers do not get any relief at all in many parts of the State. Thousands of workers' homes are without any coal, gas or electricity. Sheriff sales of workers' homes have risen to thousands in the past few years.

THE COMMISSARY PLAN IS A FURTHER CUT IN RELIEF AND MEANS SLOW STARVATION FOR THE MASSES OF UNEMPLOYED

On the First of April the present relief funds will be entirely exhausted. The Legislature has met for more than eight weeks, and has so far failed to even consider any relief appropriations. It is clear that the Legislature does not intend to provide adequate relief to the starving people, and is only marking time in order to force the unemployed into accepting the Hunger Commissary System of relief as proposed by Governor Pinchot. In a recent message to the Legislature, Governor Pinchot stated that "malnutrition and undernourishment among school children have increased beyond all previous experience." He further stated that to continue with the present miserable relief system, it would require at least $125,000,000 for the present year. Yet the Governor proposes $20,000,000 for two years, which would average to about one and a half cents a day for an unemployed. He proposes the Commissary Plan which provides 27 cents of food a week per child as a means of maintaining the health of the undernourished children. The Sarig-Blumberg Bill is not any better. Such relief is hunger relief, which will mean slow death for the unemployed and their families.

STATE EXPENSES RISE AS STARVATION INCREASES

The State expenditures have risen by more than $65,000,000 compared with the biennium of 1925-1927. Military expenditures have been doubled. In the period of the economic crisis, millions of dollars have been squandered by the political machines in the State while the masses go hungry. Over $100,000,000 is to be spent for road construction which will give employment to an insignificant number of workers, while it could be more advantageously used to feed starving men, women and children. The road fund is a political football to entrench the Pinchot forces in the State as against the corrupt Vare-Mellon machine.

SOCIALIST LEGISLATORS GIVE TACIT AGREEMENT TO THE HUNGER PROGRAM

Mr. Darlington Hoopes and Mrs. Wilson, Socialist representatives in Legislature have failed to propose any concrete measures for relief. Mr. Darlington Hoopes has proposed an Unemployment Insurance Bill which would require a minimum of five years to pass it. In the meantime the unemployed are to go hungry. Even the Unemployment Insurance Bill is of such character that would eliminate all present unemployed from receiving any Insurance. It makes the requirements for a worker to show twelve months previous employment before he can be entitled to Unemployment Insurance. It provides that the funds be handled by the State Treasurer which would put the entire fund in the hands of a corrupt political machine to be used for its own purposes. Such a Bill is in the interest of the bankers and not of the workers. It is in line with the other schemes supported by the Socialist Party, such as the "self help" scheme and the Barter System which would place the entire burden of the present crisis upon the shoulders of the workers.

The delegates to the Pennsylvania State Hunger March called by the Unemployed Councils, and representing labor unions, fraternal organizations, churches and workers in neighborhoods, place before the State Legislature and the Governor the following demands:

1. Immediate withdrawal of the Commissary Plan.
2. Immediate appropriation of $100,000,000 for relief to the unemployed. The funds to be raised through the following means:
 - a. Cut the State budget to that of 1925-1927 and use the surplus fund for relief.
 - b. Turn over all military expenditures (C. M. T. C., National Guard, State Police) for unemployment relief.
 - c. Cut the salaries of all officials receiving $10,000 a year and over by 50% and those receiving over $3,000 by 25%.
 - d. Steeply graduated tax on incomes over $5,000 a year, and corporation and banks.

3. Relief shall be distributed at the rate of $7.00 a week for every unemployed plus one dollar additional for each dependant. All relief to be given out in cash.

4. No discrimination in relief distribution against Negro workers and single men and women.

5. The State to guarantee one quart of milk to each child. The milk to be bought from the farmers at 4c a quart.

6. A moratorium to be declared on all rents, interest and taxes of homes of unemployed and partly employed workers. No foreclosures or sheriff sales on homes of unemployed and farmers.

7. Repeal of the State Eviction Law.

8. No gas, electricity and water to be shut off in the homes of unemployed or partly employed.

The above demands are to cover the immediate needs of the unemployed workers. In order to guarantee permanent security for the unemployed and those still employed, we propose the following Workers' Unemployment Insurance Bill:

1. An Unemployment Insurance Act to be enacted by the Pennsylvania State Legislature providing for Unemployment Insurance to every unemployed worker throughout the entire period of unemployment.

2. Unemployment Insurance shall be to the amount of the average wage in the given locality and industry, and to be not less than $15.00 per week. Part time workers receiving less than the amount provided by this Act shall be entitled to Unemployment Insurance to cover the difference.

3. The Unemployment Insurance shall be entirely at the expense of the State and employers. No worker shall contribute to this fund from his wages.

3. The Unemployment Insurance Fund shall be raised through taxation of high incomes, corporations, banks, inheritance, and from the payroll of the employers.

5. No discrimination in the distribution of Unemployment Insurance shall be practiced against any one because of race, color or political and religious opinions. No worker shall be deprived of Unemployment Insurance because of refusal to take the jobs of strikers, or to work below the average scale in the industry. Single workers shall be entitled to Unemployment Insurance.

6. The Unemployment Insurance Fund shall be controlled and distributed by elected committees of employed and unemployed workers.

7. This Bill shall be passed pending the enactment of Federal Unemployment Insurance.

RESOLUTION RATIFYING ACTION BY THE GOVERNOR DECLARING BANKING HOLIDAYS

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1933.

Whereas, On Saturday morning, March 4, 1933, the banks of this State were confronted with a most serious emergency when the banks of New York, Illinois, and other states were closed by executive proclamation; and

Whereas, It was necessary for the Governor of this Commonwealth to act in the emergency without awaiting legislative sanction; and

Whereas, The Governor declared Saturday, March 4, 1933, and Monday, March 6, 1933, bank holidays throughout this Commonwealth, in order to protect the banks of this State from the serious consequences which would have resulted if they had remained open; and

Whereas, The Governor has today extended the bank holidays to midnight of March 9, 1933, to conform with the action of the President of the United States in declaring a bank holiday throughout the United States until that date:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met hereby approve and ratify the action of the Governor of this Commonwealth in declaring bank holidays as aforesaid.

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 246, as follows:

An Act defining the powers of the courts of quarter sessions the Municipal Court of Philadelphia and the County Court of Allegheny County with respect to the care guidance control trial placement and commitment of delinquent dependent and neglected children under sixteen years of age and of persons over sixteen years of age contributing to or encouraging the delinquency neglect and dependency of children and amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto

Whereas The welfare of the Commonwealth demands that children should be guarded from association and contact with crime and criminals and the ordinary process of the criminal law does not provide for such care guidance and control as are essential to children in the formative period of life and

Whereas Experience has shown that children lacking proper parental care or guardianship are led into courses of life which may render them liable to the penalties of the criminal law and that the real interests of such children require that they be not incarcerated in jails and penitentiaries as members of the criminal class but be subjected to wise care guidance and control so that evil tendencies may be checked and better instincts be strengthened and

Whereas To these ends it is important that the powers of the courts with respect to the care guidance and control over delinquent neglected and dependent children should be clearly distinguished from those exercised in the ordinary administration of the criminal law therefore

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 65, entitled:

An Act concerning townships of the second class, and amending, revising, consolidating and changing the law relating thereto.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REED. Mr. President and members of the Senate, so many Senators have asked questions with regard to this bill that I am going to ask the indulgence of the Senate to give a brief explanation.

The bill is very large in bulk, and I feel that it is equally large in importance; hence I want to explain briefly the history of the bill and its purpose. In 1929 an Act of Assembly was passed creating a Commission to codify the township laws of Pennsylvania. The old code of 1917 included both first class townships and second class townships, and that code had been amended so frequently that it had become largely unworkable, and the commission was directed to prepare and present to the 1931 Session two distinct codes, the first class township code and the second class township code. The first class township code was approved by the Governor. The second class township code, which was introduced in exactly the form in which you are voting upon it tonight, was amended in the House to a small extent and very largely amended in the Senate, and was vetoed by the Governor; and the Governor, in his veto message, expressly stated that the veto was on account of two Senate amendments.

The necessity of this code is greater today than it was two years ago, for the reason that a large part of the old code of 1917 has been repealed, and the provisions remaining, relating to second class townships, are perplexing to township supervisors and their attorneys.

This code does create some changes in the law. In 1931 we presented a report setting forth fully the changes in existing law, and I have that report in my hand. These changes take up four pages of that report, but the changes are not radical changes. They were practically unanimously approved in 1931 and, I believe, are as necessary today.

We present this bill not as a perfect piece of legislation, because I think everyone will realize that the need of economy in local government is more apparent today than it was two years ago. Possibly twenty amendments have been suggested to me, most of which we feel are desirable amendments. The purpose of passing this bill, if the Senate approves, is to permit this bill to be amended in the House of Representatives; and we have assurance that this code will receive the consideration of the House Committee on Boroughs and Townships, and that the amendments in which Senators are largely interested will have full consideration. I have no doubt that nearly all of these amendments, which are largely correctional amendments, will be adopted.

At the present moment I cannot state, from memory, all the changes, because they are not as fresh in my mind as they were two years ago. The distinguished Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, was Chairman of the Commission, and Senator Weingartner was the other member from the Senate. Representative Peters, of Montgomery County, and I, were the two House members.

This bill has consistently had the approval of the supervisors, not only of their State organization but also of the various local supervisors' organizations; and, as far as I know, there has never been any objection to it other than the objection of the Governor of the Commonwealth, as stated in his veto message, to the two amendments which were inserted by the Senate during the last session.

I hope, therefore, that this bill will pass the Senate, and will pass with the assurance that amendments in which Senators are interested will have proper consideration when the bill reaches the House of Representatives.

Shall the bill pass finally?

RESOLUTIONS

APPROVING ACTION OF GOVERNOR IN DECLARING BANK HOLIDAY

Mr. STORB offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1933.

Whereas, On Saturday morning, March 4, 1933, the banks of this State were confronted with a most serious emergency when the banks of New York, Illinois, and other states were closed by executive proclamation; and

Whereas, It was necessary for the Governor of this Commonwealth to act in the emergency without awaiting legislative sanction; and

Whereas, The Governor declared Saturday, March 4, 1933, and Monday, March 6, 1933, bank holidays throughout this Commonwealth, in order to protect the banks of this State from the serious consequence which would have resulted if they had remained open; and

Whereas, The Governor has today extended the bank holidays to midnight of March 9, 1933, to conform with the action of the President of the United States in declaring a bank holiday throughout the United States until that date;

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met hereby approve and ratify the action of the Governor of this Commonwealth in declaring bank holidays as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

EXTENDING SYMPATHY TO CHIEF CLERK

Mr. NOTHNAGLE offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1933.

Whereas, Announcement has just been made of the death of Joseph J. Daily, Atlantic City, New Jersey, a son-in-law of E. F. White, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, leaving to survive him a widow and two children; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extends its deep and most profound sympathy to its Chief Clerk, and that this Resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO SOCIALIZE THE BANKS

Mr. HOOPES offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1933.

Whereas, the failure of private ownership and operation of the banks is clearly proven by their inability to fulfil their contracts with their depositors, and

Whereas, The investigation of the affairs of thousands of closed banks during the past three years has shown it to be the custom of bankers to risk the funds of depositors in questionable business ventures for the private profit of the bankers, and

Whereas, The testimony of Charles Mitchell as to the conduct of the National City Bank of New York, and of General Dawes as to the loans made by his bank to the Insull companies has caused many people to think that Alphonse Capone was a piker, and

Whereas, Unemployment is the greatest problem confronting the nation today and it is generally agreed that its solution requires some form of social planning, and

Whereas, The banks by their control over credit are in a position to dictate which trades shall expand and which shall contract their operations, and

Whereas, The privately owned banks use their power to increase their immediate profits, regardless of the welfare of the people generally, and

Whereas, Such power in the hands of private bankers enables them to defeat any effective social planning, and

Whereas, The bankers themselves are suggesting that the Government guarantee bank deposits, and

Whereas, It would be very unwise and dangerous in view of the above facts, for the Government to lend its prestige to increase the control of private bankers over the lives of our people, and

Whereas, It is absolutely necessary for the Government to retain this power in order to promote social planning and thereby solve the problem of unemployment; now therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the 1933 Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of United States to socialize the banking system of the United States, either by extending full banking powers to the present postal savings banks, or by the establishment of a Government owned and operated Bank of the United States with branches throughout the country.

RESOLUTION No. 38

Mrs. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 38, Printer's No. 135.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1933.

Memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States of America to declare the existence of a National Emergency, and to acquire by the right of eminent domain, and to operate the necessary means of production and distribution to provide employment and the necessities of life for the millions of workers now in need.

Whereas, Recurring industrial and commercial panics during the past one hundred years of economic development clearly demonstrate the utter inability of the capitalistic system, based upon wealth production for private profit to function in the interest of the actual producers of our national wealth; and

Whereas, We are now in the midst of the worst panic in the history of this nation, which is adversely affecting the lives and welfare of the entire working population and which if continued any longer will cause serious physical and moral decay within our social organism; and

Whereas, Our political business and social leaders are demonstrating their complete inability to cope with the present situation by the fact that conditions are steadily growing worse as the present panic progresses; and

Whereas, A speedy return to prosperity for the victims of the present collapse of the capitalistic system requires the introduction of such fundamental changes as are necessary to solve our economic problems now; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania declares it to be highest duty of government to protect the lives and promote the welfare and happiness of the people within its jurisdiction and that to accomplish this purpose under the present conditions of nation-wide industrial paralysis unemployment and distress the President and the Congress of the United States of America should recognize and declare the existence of a National Emergency and should face this problem squarely and courageously by acquiring by right of eminent domain and operating such natural resources and means of production and distribution of commodities as will provide employment for all idle workers to enable them to provide for themselves, and their dependents the necessary food, clothing and shelter to maintain themselves in decency and comfort; and be it further

Resolved, That properly attested copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to both houses of the Congress of the United States and to each Pennsylvania member thereof.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mrs. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and men and women of the House:

The cost of relief for the destitute, through public and private charity, is becoming practically prohibitive. State and local governmental agencies are finding it increasingly difficult to provide ample funds, without greatly increasing the tax burdens of many who are in no position to stand such increases.

Our difficulty lies chiefly in the fact that we are trying to cure an economic sickness with large doses of political medicine. This political medicine in the form of public charity may keep the patient alive for quite a long time, but it will never cure him of the disease of idleness and poverty.

On one hand we have in this nation a vast army of from 12 million to 15 million unemployed workers; and on the other hand great industries stand idle, and raw materials rust and decay.

This situation constitutes the economic disease which we so conveniently overlook. Widespread poverty and starvation are its symptoms, and these we treat with doses of public and private charity.

The resolution which I am asking you to support deals with this situation in a direct and practical manner. It memorializes the President and the Congress of the United States officially to recognize the existence of a critical national emergency—which, as a matter of fact, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt did recognize in his acceptance speech last Saturday in so many words.

But this resolution goes farther than merely recognizing the existence of that which is obvious. It doesn't ask for more charity and increases in taxes—it is more direct and practical than that; and, I might add, more dignified.

It requests the President and Congress to give idle workers employment, providing for themselves and their dependents the necessary food, clothing and shelter to enable them to live in decency and comfort. It asks that this be done by having the Federal government acquire, by right of eminent domain, and operate such natural resources and means of production and distribution as would be needed to accomplish this end.

This simple plan would bring idle men and idle industries together. It would enable these men to become producers once more, instead of mere consumers of doled out charity and burdens on tax payers. It would restore their confidence and self-respect, and would eliminate the threat of "riot, bloodshed and chaos" which Governor Pinchot fears lies ahead of us if adequate relief is not provided to feed the hungry.

Several weeks ago this body passed a resolution requesting that Congress do not cut military appropriations. Today I hope the House members will show as much interest in the unemployed as they did in the army, and that they will adopt House Resolution No. 38, which embodies a plan for relief that is workable.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

RESOLUTION COMMITTED

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this resolution calls upon the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States by eminent domain to take over the resources of the United States and operate them for the benefit of the unemployed. We have a Special Session of Congress on Thursday, and the President with his advisors are struggling with the problem to take care of unemployment, the banking situation and other pressing problems that are facing the United States, and it ill becomes us at this time to memorialize them and send them resolutions.

I hope the President—while I am a Republican, an ardent supporter of the Republican Party, I hope that the President will have the support of every Republican and every citizen of the United States, regardless of his party. I think this is an inopportune time for us to be passing a resolution suggesting to him what he should do and the course Congress should take.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the motion to refer. I take issue with the gentleman from McKean when he says it is not becoming for this House to memorialize Congress at this time. We all recognize the responsibility that is resting upon the President and upon the Congress, but there is certainly no reason why the representatives of the people of Pennsylvania in this Legislature should not go on record as favoring or opposing a certain program of action for the Congress to take. I think the Congress at Washington and the President would appreciate it if the people would definitely let them know what they want. I think one of the difficulties in solving the problem of unemployment has been that most of the leaders have had no definite program, no plans, and no way of definite action, and if we can propose to them a way of action, I think we will be doing a service to the people and to the President of the United States.

I do not think it is at all out of place for this House to pass a resolution of this kind, and if the purpose of this motion is, as I suspect, to kill it, then I say let us vote on the resolution, and if you do not agree with it, vote it down. This idea of making motions to refer and let it go into Committee and never come out seems to me is dodging the issue. If you do not approve, as I suspect some of the members of this House do not approve, of the resolution, vote against it, but why put in a subsidiary motion like this to defer. Let us defeat the motion to refer to the Committee; if you want to vote against the resolution, you have an opportunity to do it.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to say a word in favor of this motion. I think all American citizens, regardless of party, have been deeply impressed with the inaugural address of our President only two days ago. I think all Americans, regardless of party, have been impressed by the sincerity of that inaugural address. The fact that the President has already ordered a Special Session of Congress to meet this coming Thursday bears out that he is trying to put into action what he said in his inaugural address, and that means that we are in an emergency, as this resolution itself sets forth. An emergency is here, and I feel that President Roosevelt has shown that he is trying to do all that he can, and the Congressional leaders have one after another also seconded his actions in supporting his movements in Congress this week.

In view of these facts, when our President and the Congress have already told the people that they are willing to face the emergencies and that they shall do all that within their power lies to take the American people and bring them out of the mire in which they find themselves, in itself, I think, justifies this motion. I feel that it is ill-timed and ill-advised, while it might be all right some other time, yet at this time, when already action has been taken, when both the President and the Congress have said to the country that they are willing to meet this emergency, and meet it squarely, I feel we should not try to embarrass them and tie their hands by a lot of ill-timed and ill-advised resolutions like this. I feel this motion should prevail.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I oppose both the motion to adopt this resolution and the motion to refer it to committee. I am moved to speak solely by reason of the beautiful inconsistencies of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig. Only a few brief days ago this House memorialized a Republican Congress. I know nothing in reason why a Democratic Congress should be so immeasurably superior to a Republican Congress that it cannot be memorialized. I do not believe that any advice that this House might give to the Democratic Congress or to the Democratic President would be, as the gentleman from Berks suggests, hasty, ill-advised or ill-timed, for the people of sober sense on this side of the House will guarantee that no such action or advice on the other side of the House would prevail.

The reason why I rise to oppose the motion to commit is because there is a distinct difference between measures of legislation involving a coordinate program and resolutions which simply express an opinion. We need committees and we need committee action in order to coordinate legislative programs, but certainly we do not need committee action in order to make up the mind of this House. I agree with the gentleman from Reading, solely in his opinion that the time has come when we cease referring every motion to a committee, a committee composed of men such as we and in no better position to judge as to what should be done than we are ourselves.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. Briefly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Cambria, clearly, when he said that only a few weeks ago this House memorialized a Republican Congress to do thus and so.

Mr. ANDREWS. A Republican President and a Lame Duck Congress.

Mr. SARIG. Did the gentleman so state in his original remarks?

Mr. ANDREWS. That it was a Lame Duck Congress?

Mr. SARIG. Yes.

Mr. ANDREWS. No, Mr. Speaker, I deferred that statement until this time, a Republican President and a Lame Duck Congress.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman not state that this House memorialized a Republican Congress only a few weeks ago; does the gentleman deny that he made that statement only a few moments ago.

Mr. ANDREWS. What difference would it make, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I repeat, did the gentleman or did the gentleman not state that only a few weeks ago the House memorialized a Republican Congress.

Mr. ANDREWS. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of this House, I think this resolution is at least at present very ill-advised. I think it is an inopportune time to approach our national legislative body or the President who as present holds down the Executive Chair in Washington.

There are several points in its construction as well as the remarks that have been made by those who have sponsored it, which I think call for objection and should favor the resolution going to where the gentleman from McKean has moved that it should go.

We have been asked right now, within the moment that we live in, to quit dodging. It is rather ludicrous and has a sense of humor if the tragedy that prevails in the United States was not present for memory to take us back last week to the people who now speak of dodging when they were soundly abused, roundly crucified and piously strung from the rafters, and when they were as loquacious in their own defense as the proverbial clam.

We are not dodging in this House. But this is a resolution that deliberately, pointedly and without equivocation, says that Congress must take care by the right of eminent domain the mediums of production and distribution in the United States. The resolution seeks to inject a complete new philosophy into a Democratic form of government which rules this land in Washington. I ask you, Mr. Speaker and members of this House, to vote with all of your decent Americanism, for the committal of this resolution to where Mr. Wilson requests that it should be committed, to the Committee on Federal Relations.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

ANNOUNCEMENT OF LEGISLATIVE SONS OF ST.
PATRICK DINNER

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to announce to the members of this House that every two years there is a dinner given under the auspices of the Legislative Sons of St. Patrick.

I thought when I heard the argument between Mr. Andrews and Mr. Sarig that the party had already started.

However, this dinner will be held on Tuesday evening, March 21st, in the ball room of the Penn-Harris Hotel.

I would like to state to the new members of the House that the beginning of these affairs was away back, possibly thirty or thirty-five years ago, and the one man that was instrumental in arranging this dinner was the late popular Lieutenant-Governor in the Brumbaugh Administration, the honorable Frank E. McClain, known as the Red Rose of Lancaster. Upon the death of Frank McClain, the duties of chairman of this dinner devolved upon me, and while I have never been able to handle it as successfully as the lamented Frank, still I have in my own way tried to do the best I could to follow in his footsteps.

The dinner will be held on the 21st of March, Tuesday evening, in the ball room of the Penn-Harris Hotel. I have the tickets here, and they are at the call of each member, if they will come to my desk.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be printed in the Legislative Journal.

The Chair has been requested to supplement the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heffernan, by stating to the new members that if they take advantage of that particular evening they will find the affair very enjoyable.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heffernan.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heffernan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEFFERNAN. I guess I will have to put up with it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heffernan, whether checks or scrip will be accepted in payment for the tickets?

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, if it would be all the same to the gentleman from Delaware, I would like to have the money.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I note that on pages 5, 6 and 7 of the Pennsylvania Legislative Directory of 1933 there appears printed joint rules of the Senate and House of Representatives of Pennsylvania. I desire to inquire whether this House has adopted those rules, and whether those rules are binding upon this House?

The SPEAKER. In response to the parliamentary inquiry of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, the Chair calls the members' attention to the fact that on page seven at the bottom it shows that the joint rules, as printed, were adopted in January, 1874 and amended in January, 1901.

The Chair further in answer to the inquiry desires to read from Article II, Section 11, of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

"Each House shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings * * * * *"

Further, from Jefferson's Manual:

"The House of Representatives has frequently examined its constitutional power to make rules. This power has also been discussed by the Supreme Court. It has been settled that Congress may not by law interfere with the Constitutional right of a future House to make its own rules or to determine for itself the order of proceedings in effecting its organization. It has also been determined after long discussion and trial by practice that one House may not continue its rules in force to and over to its successor."

Further, the Chair believes that the principle is well settled, that it is not within the province of one House of Representatives to adopt rules which are binding upon a subsequent House of Representatives, and the same principle should apply to joint rules.

Does that answer the parliamentary inquiry of the gentleman from Philadelphia?

Mr. WITKIN. I take it, Mr. Speaker, that the direct answer, in view of the explanation made by the Speaker, is that these joint rules are not binding upon this House of Representatives?

The SPEAKER. That is the opinion of the Chair.

EDUCATION

Mr. WILSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to make a statement on the floor of the House as Chairman of the Committee on Education in regard to the proposed educational program for the session, as follows:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House during the early part of the session there was introduced in the Senate and the House, in the Senate by the Chairman of the Education Committee, and in the House by the Chairman of the House Education Committee, a proposed School Code. This code came from a commission appointed by this Legislature to act with the Attorney General in proposing new legislation for this session. There were in this code many things which aroused contention and discussion, both from the members of this House, the school directors of the State and the citizens of the Commonwealth in general, and the Committee on Education of the House and the Committee on Education of the Senate appointed a sub-committee to consider this legislation, and to bring to the Committee on Education of the House and the Senate such legislation as it thought proper.

I desire to state now that since that time the Chairman of the Committee on Education of the Senate, together with the Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General of the Senate, who is also a member of the Committee on Education, and the Chairman of your House Educational Committee, the Speaker, the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton, the Chairman of the House sub-committee together with the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, who has been kind enough to act with us from time to time, have been endeavoring to agree upon a program.

We have now progressed far enough that we think that the proposed legislation should be announced to the House, presented tomorrow to the sub-committee on education and tomorrow afternoon to the full committee.

I want to say at this time that there are in this code three grave questions which have aroused a great deal of controversy. The first is the question of the teachers' salaries. After very long consideration and going over the matter from every angle, we have decided that it is absolutely necessary to put the school districts in Pennsylvania in such condition that they will be able to go through the next biennium and keep the schools of Pennsylvania open if it is possible. We have, therefore, tentatively agreed among ourselves to present to the sub-committee, subject, of course, to their approval, the proposition, first, that the school districts of Pennsylvania shall have the option, without consulting anyone to cut the teachers' salaries as of this year ten per cent. without any action or the consent of anyone else.

We have gone farther than that. We have considered it necessary that the boards of school directors shall be in a position when the Legislature is not in session to make whatever reductions of expenses that are necessary to get them through the next two years as best they can, but at the same time we do not propose that they shall be allowed to arbitrarily cut the teachers' salaries without putting their own house in order, and we are, therefore, proposing that this legislation be presented to the sub-committee tomorrow; that the several school districts of Pennsylvania, with the consent of the Council on Education, may make whatever reductions are necessary, not only in the salaries of the teachers, but in any other mandatory provisions that the school laws place upon the school directors. In other words, if they bring in their budget and show that their financial circumstances require a greater cut than ten per cent. and if they show that they have put their house in order and cut out the expenses they should cut out, the Council of Education may give them permission to make a larger reduction than the ten per cent. and to cut any other mandatory expense that we have placed upon them.

We also provide that there shall be no more voluntary contributions. In other words, if they wish to cut beyond the ten per cent. they must bring their budget and their books into the Council of Education and show their financial picture and get the permission of the Council to make cuts.

May I just say a word to you as to the larger districts which have been the subject or have aroused a great deal of talk, and I am free to say a great deal of opposition. We have proposed that so far as those districts are concerned, this plan of making the districts not of five or ten thousand by the Council of Education, shall be abandoned, and in the place of that we are making a mandatory consolidation of all districts under a thousand to be made by the Executive Committee of the School Directors Association in each county. In other words, we have sent the amalgamation back to the counties to be made and have made the districts to be amalgamated no larger than a thousand.

I come now to the question of our subsidies to the schools, and then I will have completed. The act will provide that effective during the act biennium of 1933-1935 requirements of the Edmonds Act are fifty-eight million two hundred thousand, the amount allowed us in the budget is fifty-three million dollars. Now, we have instead of making a proportional reduction of the amount that goes to the districts that the fraction of fifty-three million dollars bears to fifty-eight million two hundred thousand dollars in accordance with the requirements of the Edmonds Act, provided that the allotments during the fiscal year to the State schools, during the years '33 and '34, will be made on the basis of a twenty-five dollar reduction per teacher. The allotment during the years of '34 and '35 shall be made on the basis of a forty dollar reduction per teacher. The deferred payments to school districts for additional teachers and closed schools for the year 1931 and 1932 will be made as required by law. A reduction from two hundred dollars to one hundred dollars will be made for each closed school. A fifty per cent. reduction in the additional appropriations for the special education of the handicapped children and in the regular amount of extension education for high schools. The special additional appropriation from State funds for vocation education will be reduced fifty per cent. The appropriation for school transportation will be reduced twenty per cent.

Mr. Speaker, may I announce the members of that sub-committee of the House as the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hutton, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Nothnagle, the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Himes, the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Simons, the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, who I would appreciate would meet in the House Caucus Room immediately after the morning session in order that the proposed legislation may be presented to them for their approval or disapproval, that they may work their will upon it so that it may be presented to the Committee on Education, who will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in the committee room downstairs.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be printed in the Legislative Journal.

DISCHARGING COMMITTEE FROM FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 767

Mr. MALINA offered a resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1933.

Whereas, Moneys appropriated by the General Assembly for the relief of the unemployed will be exhausted on the thirty-first day of March; and

Whereas, No provision has been made for affording relief to the unemployed for the month of April or any subsequent month; and

Whereas, A special committee appointed under the provisions of Resolution No. 3 was appointed on the twenty-third day of January, and to this time has made no report to this House of the result of their study or of any plan to make provision for the unemployed; and

Whereas, Some provision must be made by the Commonwealth for the care of the unemployed after the thirty-first day of March next; and

Whereas, Little time is left to this General Assembly to make such provision unless action is taken at once; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Committee on Appropriations be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 767, introduced on the sixth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and referred to that committee on the same day, in order that the same may then be considered by the House sitting as a Committee of the Whole.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. MALINA. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the appropriation for the past biennium did not include any relief for the time from April 1st to the end of this biennium. The Bill No. 767 is to approve an appropriation of five million dollars to take care of the time and relief for the unemployed from April 1st to the end of this biennium. We feel that this bill has been in Committee since February 6th, almost thirty days, and I believe, ladies and gentlemen of the House, that it is time that we make some movement for the unemployed.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Malina.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Malina permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALINA. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he is aware of the fact that the Appropriations Committee, or rather its Chairman with the Committee on Relief, has been at work on this program for relief for the unemployed, to take care of them beginning as of April 1st, 1933.

Mr. MALINA. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer that in this form. I did make inquiries of the Committee, of the members of this Committee, and also took up this matter with other sources and members of this Committee only for it to be said that the appropriations that are to be provided are to be included in the new budget, and taking up this matter with other sources I found that no appropriations from April 1st to May 31st can be included in the new budget. However, I found there has been no meeting of the relief committee in the past two or three weeks and there are no meetings to be called in sight.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I don't know from what source the gentleman from Philadelphia gets his information. As Chairman of the Appropriations Committee I must confess that the gentleman has never spoken to me with reference to the matter or made any inquiry of me, and I am sure that had he approached me upon the subject, that I could have satisfied the gentleman's mind that I have not only been here on Monday, Tuesday and until Wednesday noon, unlike him who leaves here, but I have been constantly and diligently employed in a service that starts on Sunday and ends on Friday night, so that we may possibly arrive at some definite method and moneys available. I can assure him that we have been working together. I feel safe in saying that by April 1st of this year we will have before the House a relief measure that will take care of the questions that are now brought forward and upon which you are asked to discharge the Committee from further consideration. Therefore, I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, to be patient. I know your patience is almost exhausted, as much as my physical person is almost exhausted from work, and I only hope you will vote in the negative on this motion.

Mr. MALINA. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, there is no doubt that the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee is overtaxed with work. I do believe that this is one condition that we dare not let go till the last minute. The matter of the discharging of this Committee is not by any means slapping at the Committee. As I understood at first it was up to the Relief Committee to appropriate that budget. Today it lies before us; are we going to give the poor the five million dollars that they need for the next two months, or are we not? We have to do it quick.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Malina and Mr. Hoopes and were as follows:

STATEMENT BY MR. WILSON

Mr. WILSON asked and obtained consent to make the following statement to the House:

Mr. Speaker, I am not in the least critical of the action of any member of this House. I recognize that everyone has a right to do just as he pleases in the conduct of his work as a member of this House. Yet it is too bad that the two hundred and six or two hundred and seven members of this House should have to sit here time after time on roll calls over which there is no controversy. I have no objections to anyone calling for a roll call, in fact I cannot object, if I wish to do so, as that is his right under the rules. I do feel, however, that it is too bad to call the roll when there is no division in the House, and I think it is only fair that we should call the attention of the members of the House to the fact that many times the same thing could be accomplished, and much better, and sometimes much more effectively, because I think all of the old members will agree with me that many times a division in the House will carry a resolution or a motion where a roll call will not. I think that we should not be obliged to sit here when there is no division and listen to a roll call, when there is no sentiment, when it is apparent that no one has any opposition to the proposition.

We have just gone through a roll call which took some eight or ten minutes of the House's time, and yet before the roll call there was no one to stand on the floor when the Speaker asked for a division.

I am not criticizing the gentleman who asked for a roll call, but recognize that that is his right, and he has a right to do as he pleases. But we are about up to the time that work is coming on the floor, and I think that members of the House should resort to a division on questions that can be decided in a minute, and the work of the House should not be delayed by long roll calls when there is no division.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Journal.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 57, entitled:
